RAILROADS ALLIED WITH OIL TRUST.

Secret Conferences Result in Agreement to Resist Government Together.

Prompted by Instinct of Self-preservation, Big Railway Corporations Decide to Refuse to Give Information Against Standard in Future Rebate Cases—The Alton's Predicament Serves as Warning.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An offensive and defensive alliance between the Standard Oil Company and the railroads implicated with it in the indictments still pending in this Federal district is being formed and the result will be apparent to the government when the next case against the Standard Oil Company is called for trial.

Secret conferences are being held daily in the offices of the Standard Oil Company in the Commercial National Bank Building. The understanding which is said to have been reached is that, in all future trials arising over Standard Oil rebates, the railroad officials will contest the right of the government to make them testify and to furnish the company books as long as possible.

It is realized that the government may triumph in the end, but it gives the Standard Oil attorneys a wider field of operations.

ALTON'S PREDICAMENT.

The reason prompting this alliance is self-preservation. In fining the Standard Oil Company, Judge Landis took occasion to call a special grand jury and instruct District-Attorney Sims to present the evidence introduced at that case to this jury with a view of securing the indictment of the Chicago and Alton. It was upon Alton evidence and the testimony of Alton officials that the conviction of the Standard Oil Company was secured.

In the event of its indictment, the Alton can hardly do more than to plead guilty and throw itself upon the mercy of the court.

The next point of attack upon the Standard Oil Company will be at Jamestown, N. Y. This became known tonight, following closely upon the departure from Chicago of O. E. Pagin, special assistant to Attorney-General Bonaparte.

Attorney Pagin left for Jamestown to draw new indictments against the combine in charges in receiving rebates on shipments from the refineries at Olean, N. Y., to points in the Vermont and Maine fields.

OTHER PROSECUTORS DEPART.

United States District Attorney Sims and his first assistant, James H. Wilkerson, departed mysteriously from Chicago today. It is rumored they have gone East to aid the New York authorities in drawing the new indictments against the oil combine.

The encouragement given to government officials by the decision of Judge Landis is directly responsible for the renewal of warfare upon the alleged receipt of rebates by the Standard in its New York territory.

A year ago action against the combine was begun in the United States District Court for the Western Division of New York at Jamestown. Indictments were drawn, but for some unknown reason the case was not carried to a conclusion.

ARCHBOLD IS ANSWERED.

Government Official Charges Standard Tried to Deceive Investigators With False Records.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] John D. Archbold, of the Standard Oil Company, who alleges that the Standard Oil Company was never given a chance to present its case, was answered by a high official of the government today. This man denied the allegation of Mr. Archbold, so far as the Bureau of Corporations was concerned, and replied by practically charging that the Standard Oil Company deliberately tried to deceive the government in the collection of evidence.

When the agents of the bureau, acting under authority of an act of Congress, submitted a list of questions to the Standard Oil Company with regard to rebating, according to the story of the official, two officials of the Standard company came to Washington, and denied that the company was receiving rebates. Within a few days the government stumbled onto the bills of lading which practically proved the government's case before Judge Landis.

Later, when the bureau undertook to compile its report on prices and profits, the Standard agents appeared with a complete set of books, showing the company to be eking a bare livelihood out of the oil business.

Investigation showed, however, that the Standard Oil Company was purchasing crude oil at rock-bottom prices for their own refineries and selling the oil to their own marketing companies at an enormous profit.

EQUITY SUIT MOST IMPORTANT.

Government Officials Regard Prosecution of Standard at St. Louis to Be of More Value Than Fine.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Government officials, though pleased by the success at Chicago, which resulted in imposing a fine of $29,240,000, nevertheless regard the suit in equity now pending in St. Louis as by far the most important court proceeding against the oil trust.

The fine levied is against the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and may never be collected, whereas the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is the real "octopus."

The St. Louis suit seeks the dissolution of the trust. The government officials also regard Judge Landis's action in ordering proceedings to be brought against the Alton in connection with the rebates granted by that road to the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, as even more important than the big fine.

A question that is assuming deep interest is whether Edward H. Harriman, whose manipulations of the stock of the Alton, as shown by the Interstate Commerce Commission, will be drawn into the case to be instituted against the road.

REGRET ATTACK ON ALTON.

Officials of Department of Justice Call Action of Judge Landis in Ordering Probe of Road, a Mistake.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Officials in the Department of Justice hesitate, in the absence of the Attorney-General, to offer comment for public consumpton, but they made no secret of the fact today that they were inclined to regret the step taken by Judge Landis in directing Dist.-Atty. Simms to impanel a special jury to indict the Chicago and Alton on evidence brought out in the case of the Standard Oil Company.

Of course no attempt will be made by the government to influence Judge Landis in this matter, but it was learned today that Attorney Simms has been informed of the view of the Government and it is unlikely that he will manifest the same vigor in the proceedings against the Chicago and Alton and other railroads which paid rebates to the Standard as characterized his conduct of the case against the Standard.

OHIO LINES LIABLE TO FINES.

Nineteen Railroads of Buckeye State Are Open to Penalties of Millions, Say Shippers.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLUMBUS (O.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Nineteen railroads of Ohio, including the Baltimore and Ohio, the Big Four, the Erie, the Wheeling and Lake Erie, and the Norfolk and Western, are placing themselves liable, in the opinion of the Ohio Railroad Commission, to fines which, in the aggregate, may amount to more than the enormous penalty assessed against the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, and unless these roads immediately put into effect rules laid down to them by the commission action undoubtedly will be brought against them. Such is the statement made by heavy shippers who have been interesting themselves in the matter.

The shippers say the commission holds that the penalties may be assessed for failure by the roads to abide by the new car service rules laid down for them by the commission, and which were effective August 1. Each offense, if the roads are found guilty, could be punished with a fine of $10,000, which would make the aggregate run to millions of dollars.

FINE PLEASES LA FOLLETTE.

Senator Says His Only Regret Is That Imprisonment Penalty Did Not Go With Conviction.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OMAHA (Neb.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "I am glad Judge Landis imposed the maximum fine on the Standard Oil Company, and I am only sorry that the imprisonment penalty did not go with the conviction," said Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, in an interview here today. The Senator speaks at the Bellevue Chautauqua Assembly this afternoon and delivered a brief address at a club dinner in Omaha tonight.

"But you must not suppose that the Standard Oil Company will not put on the screws and try to make the public pay this fine," continued the Senator. "It never pays out its money when it is so easy to make the public pay it."

The Senator said no more anti-trust laws were needed.

URGES LOVE AND ROMANCE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Thomas Dermott, of Oakland, father of Gertrude and Maxine Elliott, arrived from Panama today, and will return to California by way of Panama.

He is 71 years old and says, in marrying his second wife, his present one, he married his first love. He says there should be love and romance in every marriage.

ESPEE TO DOUBLE TRACK.

Traffic Between Stockton and Oakland so Heavy Second Line Must Be Constructed by Road.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It became known here today that the Southern Pacific has completed arrangements for constructing a double track between Stockton and Oakland by way of Port Costa. In all probability the second track will be extended to Sacramento at an early date.

The company owns a sufficient width of right of way to put down the extra rails, but will have to do much grading and widen the bridges. The traffic is so heavy that the sidings can hardly contain the extra trains that have been operated over the Southern Pacific line.

LEE'S DAUGHTER ENGAGED.

Miss Virginia, Child of Late General, Will Marry Lieutenant in United States Army.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RICHMOND (Va.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Fitzhugh Lee has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Virginia Lee, to Lieut. John Carter Montgomery of the Seventh Cavalry, U.S.A. Miss Lee is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Lee and the late Gen. Fitzhugh Lee.

Lieut. Montgomery is stationed at Fort Riley, Kan., where Lieut. Mason Lee and his family and Mrs. Lewis Brown, formerly Miss Ann Lee, who married Lieut. Wise Brown of the army, also have their homes. Ellen Lee, now the wife of Capt. Rhea of the cavalry, with her husband and children, is at Fort Leavenworth.

TO TAKE TROOPS TO MANILA.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Four army transports are scheduled to leave San Francisco during August for Manila. They are the Warren, Crook, Buford and Logan.

The trips are made necessary in order to place in the Philippines the regiments destined for duty as a relief for commands the terms of duty of which have expired.

POLICE PREVENT LYNCHINGS.

MOB VIOLENCE ATTENDS NEW YORK "NEAR CRIMES."

Italian Woman Leads Pursuit of Greek Who Kissed Her Little Daughter and He Is Almost Torn to Pieces Before Being Rescued by Patrolman.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—More of what have come to be known at police headquarters as "near crimes" against girls, were followed by attempted lynching today. Out of the score of complaints that reached the police a half dozen demanded serious attention. Whether the number is extraordinary is disputed, but certain it is that never before has mob vengeance so frequently attempted attacks upon children.

Led by a woman, who alternately in Italian and broken English, cried: "Avenge my daughter," a reckless crowd of 2000 persons tonight stormed the Fourteenth-street car barns of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company where a policeman had sought refuge with a seriously pummeled prisoner.

Paul Sorgerate, a Greek peddler, 30 years of age, had made the mistake, so it is charged, of kissing Grace Josco, an Italian of 11 years. A shrill cry from the girl and an impassioned appeal by the mother put the foreigners of the neighborhood in a rage, and as the Greek took to his heels, a crowd pursued. When a block had been covered, Sorgerate stumbled and fell and the mob was upon him and kicked him, nearly senseless. The Greek, a powerful man, nevertheless gained his feet, only to be knocked down again. By this time, some one had snatched a clothes line from the window of a grocery store and the rioters attempted to put a noose over the offender's head.

RESCUED BY POLICEMEN.

Only the over-eagerness of each rioter to have a hand in the lassoing saved the peddler's neck. During the confusion, a policeman arrived and clubbed his way to the endangered man. For a moment the crowd fell back and in that time the officer had dragged his man to the near-by car barns.

Concealing his prisoner in a car, the officer waited assistance while the rioters threw themselves against the doors in an effort to force an entrance. Police reserves stood off the mob while the Greek was hustled into a patrol wagon. Through a crowd that cried "Kill him!" "Lynch Him!" the police fought their way to the nearest station house. Sorgerate was in a bad shape, but it was thought inadvisable to attempt his removal to a hospital during the excitement. His eyes were blackened, nose broken, scalp torn, face lacerated and his body black with bruises.

Cheated of their man, the crowd vented its fury on Gaston Kerriskel, an unoffending workman homeward bound. As he was passing the rioters he was pointed out by a boy, at the same time yelling "That's the man's friend. He was there, too." Kerriskel was pounded until he was unconscious. The police reserves finally got the injured man and removed him to a hospital.

Edward Pratt, a millwright, 46 years old, had a somewhat peculiar experience late this afternoon in West Fifty-seventh street. Nellie and Helen Farrell, each about 10 years old, accused Pratt of improper remarks. He was frightfully mauled before being rescued from a mob by the police.

SAYS THERE'S NO CRIME WAVE.

"There is not any crime wave," said Superintendent Jenkins of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, today. "I mean by that that our statistics show no increase in the number of actual assaults committed upon girls under 16 years. Our clerical force has just examined the records to make sure whether there is or is not any warrant for published assertions that this phase of crime shows a marked increase.

"It is very easy for a mother or a father to take alarm at a perfectly innocent caress bestowed by a grown person upon a child and to infer a criminal motive.

"At this season, there is always a relative increase in the number of assaults and attempted assaults upon girls under 16. They have not, however, increased relatively to the increase of population. There are about the same number to date this month and last that there were in July and August of 1906."

MOORS SHOT DOWN BY FRENCH CRUISERS.

Landing Parties Occupy Casa Blanca; Other Warships Hurry to Scene.

Hundreds of Natives Slain in Fierce Bombardment of Coast Town by the Galilee and in Fierce Hand-to-Hand Fighting Which Ensues—Marines Fight Their Way to Consulate.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TANGIER, Aug. 6.—Casa Blanca, on the Moroccan coast has been bombarded by French cruisers, the Moors are reported to have been shot down in large numbers and the town, since last Sunday night, has been practically in the possession of landing parties from French and Spanish cruisers.

The first shots were fired by the French cruiser Galilee at 11 o'clock in the morning, the Moors are reported to have been shot down in large numbers and the town, since last Sunday night, has been practically in the possession of landing parties from French and Spanish cruisers.

DUCHAYLA JOINS GALILEE.

At 11 o'clock in the morning, the French cruiser Duchayla arrived. She had been in wireless communication with the Galilee and as she steamed in, her gunners were at their stations. Broadside onto the beach, she opened an enfilading fire on the horsemen and on the natives on foot who were in the market place to the east of the town. The horsemen were riding madly in circles.

The Duchayla also sent a party ashore under Commandant Manguin. As they were landing, the men were subjected to a fire from a Moorish force under command of the Marabout Sidi Belout, but the rapid fire guns in the bows of the French launches cleared the ground for the sailors, who made their landing expeditiously. They scaled the walls of the Portuguese consulate, and reached the French consulate under cover of the guns of the marines already there.

A party of thirty men were landed from a Spanish cruiser, but this vessel did not take part in the bombardment.

At 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, the French cruiser Porbin arrived and, immediately thereafter the Anatole left. She was requisitioned by the French consul to carry dispatches to Tangier. As she left port she passed a German and an English vessel crowded with refugees.

CASA BLANCA.

DAR AL BAIDA, or as it is generally termed, Casa Blanca, the ancient Aufa, was once a flourishing port, but was ruined by the Portuguese in 1468 in revenge for its piracies.

It is now a town of some 6000—10,000 inhabitants, and has a thriving export trade in maize, beans, and wool, and has a European colony of some 200 souls.

Eighty miles to the north is Rabat, with its conspicuous tower of Hasan, and some interesting old ruins. Near Rabat and some twenty miles along the coast to the north, is Sallee, long famous for its piracies, and still one of the most fanatical places in the empire.

The Atlantic coast of Morocco is remarkable for its regularity and sameness; not a single gulf or noteworthy estuary occurs throughout its whole length; the capes are few and for the most part feebly marked. Southward from Cape Spartel the shore sinks rapidly till it is within a few feet of the sea level.

DIVISION IT IS BEYOND A DOUBT.

EASTERN HALF OF SAN DIEGO COUNTY SLICED OFF.

El Centro Has Small Lead for Location of the County Seat—Over Twelve Hundred Votes Cast Inside Imperial Valley and About Ninety More in River Districts.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CALEXICO, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] County division has carried without a doubt.

The election passed with a rather large vote polled. The unofficial returns show 1268 votes cast inside the Imperial Valley while the river precincts have cast about ninety more.

The returns at midnight taken over the telephone show El Centro the winner of the county seat by a small majority, less than 100. The vote on the county seat question was surprisingly light. People who had become disgusted with the mud slinging campaign followed by the contestants seemed to refrain from voting on the question at all. The river precincts are almost solid for El Centro, thus practically assuring that town of the honor of being the first seat of government of the new county.

Among the candidates the non-partisan ticket will be elected with but one or two exceptions. The returns are not nearly all in, but they indicate that there is a close race on between F. G. Cole, regular, and H. W. Bird, independent, with the favor slightly for Cole. Mobley Meadows will be the Sheriff. The office of Assessor shows also a hot contest. J. B. Hoffman has a slight advantage over Fuller, the Independent on account of the straight ticket ballots that appeared in the count. D. S. Ebler will be County Clerk; T. J. Kellogg, Auditor; Paul Boman is elected Treasurer, and Thomas Harding, Tax Collector. J. M. Eshleman is the choice for District Attorney; E. E. Forrester for Public Administrator, and E. R. Gaines, Surveyor. There is some question over the Recorder's office. J. B. Baker is the regular nominee and George Campbell independent; also over Superintendent of Schools.

FRAUDS CHARGED.
CONTEST EXPECTED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

IMPERIAL, Aug. 6.—The county division election results in charges of wholesale fraud in the way of direct purchase of votes and the use of dummy voters to fill places on the great register of voters who have left. That the election will be contested in the courts is a certainty.

FISTS FLY AT TRIAL.

Fight a Feature of Halsey Case.

Hiram Johnson of Prosecution and Schlessinger of Defense Mix.

Mutual Insinuations of Rascality End in Red Nose for Peacemaker.

Attorneys Concerned Apologize to Court; One Fined Fifty Dollars.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Except for a fist fight in the Halsey trial, this was a dull day in San Francisco.

Attorney Hiram W. Johnson in open court biffed Halsey's attorney, Bert Schlessinger, and Schlessinger biffed back and the only one who was hurt was William Hoff Cook of the District Attorney's office, who tried to make peace and got the usual reward of the peacemaker, which, in this case, is a bloody nose, at the hands of Johnson.

Mr. Johnson has nearly precipitated a fight several times before this. He is as pugnacious as Mr. Heney and is regarded as one of the best criminal lawyers in the State. He is a man of fine appearance and address but is a bull-dozer. His insults to the attorneys on the opposing side are maddening at times.

In this instance, Johnson was irritated by a juror who said that he didn't approve of the prosecution because it seems to be "all Spreckels." The number of jurors who have declared they can not give a fair trial to Halsey on account of prejudice against the "good dog" Supervisors as witnesses has wrought on the nerves of the prosecution. This was the straw that fixed it with the camel.

WAS A MINUTE MILL.

After the fight, which lasted less than a minute, both of the warring attorneys apologized to the court and no judgment of contempt was entered against them nor were they rebuked.

Charles M. Dupuy was the juror under examination. Responding to questions by Mr. Johnson that he had a bias and prejudice against the prosecution because it was being financed by a specially raised fund of $100,000.

"Then," queried Mr. Johnson, very sharply, "you don't think it's a decent thing for private individuals to subscribe money for the prosecution of thieves, rascals, scoundrels and rogues, do you?"

"One moment!" cried Mr. Schlessinger, springing to his feet and thrusting an index finger at the court, "if your honor please, I object to the language of counsel and I assign it as unprofessional and misconduct!"

Mr. Johnson also arose with alacrity, his face flushed with excitement. Half turning to Schlessinger, he said: "And I object, if your honor please, to being stigmatized by this rogue here," nodding his head jerkingly toward his opponent.

Schlessinger faced him. "And I say you are an infamous rogue!" he exclaimed.

Then they began to fight. It will never be recorded who started the first blow, but the best judgment at the improvised ringside was that Mr. Johnson aggressed. Mr. Johnson is of the medium height and quite heavy. He wears glasses. Mr. Schlessinger is a bit taller, some pounds lighter and possesses an obvious advantage in reach. The space in their immediate vicinity was a whirling tangle of clenched fists and the interjected forms of bystanding peacemakers for the best part of a minute.

COMBATANTS SEPARATED.

Attorneys McPike and Humphrey sprang to Schlessinger and he was pulled back until he lay face up over the arms of a chair. Dist.-Atty. Langdon, Assistant District Attorney Cook and D. M. Duffy, Johnson's law partner, surrounded Johnson. Rudolph Spreckels and Charles W. Cobb of the prosecution became alert figures of intervention; and even the defendant, Theodore V. Halsey, jumped up and wedged into the scurling mass.

Being effectually separated, Mr. Johnson drew his handkerchief and wiped the drops of exertion from his brow. Mr. Schlessinger was released by his friends and assisted to his feet. After they had glared at each other for a breath, Schlessinger addressed the court:

"I wish to extend my apology to the court," he said.

"So likewise do I," said Mr. Johnson. "I regret very much that any such scenes should have occurred."

"Now, will you proceed with the examination, Mr. Johnson?" suggested Judge Dunne.

After Juror Dupuy had been excused on objection of the prosecution and fifty names had been ordered for the completion of the jury, Mr. Dunne adjudged Mr. Johnson guilty of contempt of court and imposed a fine of $25, on the score that his language in calling Mr. Schlessinger a rogue was of itself misconduct in the presence of the court, and responsible for the fist fight.

After the battle, Mr. Cook corrected an inaccuracy. He explained that the crimson asterisk on the ridge of his nose was not imprinted by the knuckles of Mr. Johnson, but by a diamond ring on the right hand of Mr. Schlessinger. "I was the helpless center of a fighting mass," said he, applying his handkerchief to the bleeding member.

ZIMMER DISLIKES PRISON.

Makes Strenuous Fight in Court Against Being Taken to City Jail to Be Booked.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—Emil J. Zimmer of the Pacific States Telephone and Telegraph Company, who refused to testify against Louis Glass, objected strenuously when Judge Weller directed this morning that he be taken to the city prison and booked on the accusation filed against him by Dist.-Atty. Langdon. Added to his objection was the vigorous talk of his attorney, C. H. Fairall.

But objection proved futile. Judge Weller declared that the law must be complied with and that he could see no reason why the prisoner should be treated differently from any other accused person. Under his direction Policeman Mogan took the accused telephone magnate to the city prison and there his name was formally entered on the prison register. He was then returned to the courtroom, where his arraignment was proceeded with.

HALSEY JURY HARD TO GET.

PREJUDICE AGAINST "GOOD DOG" SUPERVISORS GREAT.

Prosecution Regards Case as Easy One, but Has to Send for Another Venire—Is Glass Really "the Man Higher Up?" Is Question for San Francisco.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Halsey case is regarded as an easy one by the prosecution, and probably will be if they can get a jury. They had to send out for another venire today, however.

The general opinion in San Francisco is that they will get Halsey, but will have a hard time getting Glass. The installation of an imported Bell telephone official as practical boss over Glass is regarded as complicating the situation. The purpose of it is supposed to be to cast doubt as to whether Glass really is the "man higher up," or whether it is not some man in the Bell Telephone Company in New York who arranged the bribing.

Seven talesmen were examined and dismissed from the jury box for bias in short order in the trial this morning—Edmund J. Adams, Peter F. Mertes, James E. Henry, A. Block, William J. Lalb, Martin Johnson and James Harris. In W. H. Eastman, a printer, the eleventh juror was found, and seated subject to peremptory challenge.

Wallace Bradford, a retired merchant, and a member of the Union League, professed freedom from opinion and was accepted as the twelfth conditional juror. Among other things, Mr. Bradford was asked by Mr. McPyke, of the defense, if he did not belong to the same Republican District Club as Asst. Dist.-Atty. Cook.

"I think," answered the juror, "Mr. Cook is a Democrat." Thereupon, Mr. Schlessinger of the defense, stretched out his hand at the counsel table and shook hands gleefully with Mr. Cook.

It developed that Juror Bradford is Special Prosecutor Johnson's landlord. "But," said he, "I'd rather my house rotted to the ground than that my opinion as a juror should be influenced by its tenancy."

Juror Edwin Bonnell, who escaped peremptory challenge and was the first of the four men thus far sworn to try Halsey, made a statement of ill health and was excused reluctantly by consent.

THOUGHT "BOTH SIDES GUILTY."

Watson D. Fennemore, Leopold B. Hirsch—a cousin of Abraham Ruef, and a client of Attorney Schlessinger of the defense—August Gilbert, who thought "both sides guilty," and Frederick D. Greeniee, a client of Attorney Humphrey, of the defense, were, one after the other, excused for congessed bias.

Francis L. Bird, retired dry goods merchant, qualified for the vacancy created by the excusing of Juror Bonnell, completing the tentative panel.

Juror Edwin Skahan, accepted conditionally yesterday, called attention of counsel to a fact which he thought might be viewed as a disqualification. "I know Miss Mary Ryan," he said, "who was a witness in the Glass trial, and I understand, is to testify in this trial. I know Miss Ryan very well, and I am very friendly to her. I want that understood. Miss Ryan stayed with me and my family in my home at the time of the earthquake."

The panel being filled, the prosecution peremptorily challenged Juror John S. Young, the retired hotel-keeper, who, in his examination, expressed some doubt as to the purity of the motive actuating the prosecution. The defense peremptorily challenged the following jurors: John Q. A. Patterson, builder; Wallace Bradford, retired merchant; W. H. Eastman, printer. This left one peremptory challenge remaining with the prosecution and two with the defense. The five unchallenged jurors were sworn, making a total of eight men finally chosen for the trial panel.

Adjournment was taken until 2 p.m., Wednesday, at which time the fresh venire was made returnable.

DECISIONS DUE TOMORROW.

Supreme Court May Pass on Two of the Three Important Questions Pending There.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Supreme Court now has under consideration three very important cases, one of which—possibly two—will be acted on Thursday. One is the union attempt to break the new primary election law, the other two being the applications for a writ of mandate, to determine the validity of Mayor Taylor's administration and the application of Calhoun, the car men. Parkside millionaires, etc., for a writ of prohibition to declare the Oliver grand jury invalid.

The preliminary writ—setting the grand jury case for argument—has not yet been granted. These cases come as a heavy burden on one member of the court, Justice McFarland, who is a very sick man, suffering with a cancer.

Although the attack comes from the unions, public opinion is generally against the primary law, which holds that a man can't vote at the primaries without swearing to which party he belongs and then is not allowed to flop to another party at election time.

DIES OF TOO MUCH MORPHINE.

Manager of Pressed Steel Feed Box Company Loses Life—Wills Property to Daughters.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The body of E. R. French, manager of the Pressed Steel Feed Box Company, who died last night from an overdose of morphine, taken to relieve pain, is at the morgue.

French was the owner of a patent on a pressed steel automatic feed box which he had been introducing in Kansas City. Papers found in his room, where he boarded, show contracts to sell the patent to a Pennsylvania firm for $15,000.

A will was also found by the Coroner, Dr. J. A. Davis, bequeathing the bulk of his property to his two daughters, who are living some place in California. The value of his estate was not disclosed by the will. The body will be held until the daughters can be located. French was 72 years old and little was known of him here.

DARROW IS DISMISSED.

Western Federation Through With Him.

Made Anarchistic Speech for Haywood.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER, (Colo.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Attorney Clarence S. Darrow, of Chicago, who made what was generally regarded as an anarchistic speech in his appeal for W. Haywood in his trial for the alleged murder of former Gov. Steunenberg of Idaho, has been dismissed from the service of the Western Federation of Miners and will not, therefore, appear as counsel for the defense in the case of George A. Pettibone on October 1.

In Darrow's place as chief attorneys of the organization, will appear Richardson & Hawkins, of Denver, comprising E. F. Richardson, who conducted the cross-examination of witnesses in the Haywood trial, and H. N. Hawkins, one of the shrewdest criminal lawyers in the Rocky Mountain region.

This information was confirmed tonight by Attorney Richardson, after it had been privately given out by one of the highest officials of the Western Federation. Mr. Richardson stated that his firm had been engaged for the Pettibone case and that the executive board of the union would meet to conclude the contract.

The attorney then proceeded to make a verbal attack on Darrow, declaring that he was so persistent a seeker after newspaper publicity that he had become disgusting.

The cause for the non-employment of Darrow has not yet been allowed to leak. At 11:30 o'clock tonight, Mr. Darrow said:

"I do not care to say anything about counsel of the Western Federation. I cannot say anything about what the trouble is about. The fact is I have not seen any of the Western Federation men since I have been in the city. Maybe I shall see them tomorrow before I go. I am not looking for the job."

FIGHT FLEET'S TRANSFER.

UNIONISTS MAY LOSE JOBS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A story is current here that labor-union lobbyists are secretly working at Washington to prevent the sailing of the Atlantic fleet to the Pacific Coast.

This sailing would throw about 15,000 men out of employment in the East, according to labor-union estimates, and they allege that the order was issued to give the coal trust, Standard Oil and other large monopolies catering to the navy, a chance to make large sums of money for furnishing supplies for the trip. Labor-union men declare the orders issued for the fleet's sailing will never be carried out.

LABOR BRIEFS.

Seven Troughs Strike Ends.

RENO (Nev.) Aug. 6.—All labor troubles in the Seven Troughs mining district were settled today by the mine owners agreeing to pay union miners $5 instead of $4 for eight hours' work. The miners have been on strike for more than a month and in that time nearly every mine in the Seven Troughs district have been closed down. Mines will now be opened and there will be great activity in the district.

Silk Workers on Strike.

SCRANTON (Pa.) Aug. 6.—Representatives of silk mills in the Lackawanna and Luzerne counties have refused shorter work day to silk workers. More than 5000 persons are now on strike.

TO ENJOIN RAILWAY BOARD.

Texas Commission Will Be Forced to Obey Federal Court Decision in Rate Law Conflict.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GALVESTON (Tex.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch]. The Railroad commission will be enjoined from enforcing the contract future of the anti-pass law respecting the railroads and express companies.

The statement of the Commission that it will not recognize the Federal court decision declaring the free carrying of express representatives, agents and equipment by the roads not a violation of the new law is responsible for this action.

The Commission charges the roads and express companies with collusion, with operating under unlawful contract and with fraudulent practices.

Some months ago the Commission declared the contracts between the roads and express companies a violation of the anti-trust law and compromised the penalty at $500 for each road. This was paid and the companies are still operating under the same contracts.

FIVE MILLIONS FOR PAINTINGS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In the purchase of the Rudolph Kahn collection of paintings, Duveen Bros., well-known art dealers of London and New York, have just consummated another of the Napoleonic coups with which they are in the habit of startling the art world.

The price of their latest purchase amounts to £1,0000,000, of $5,000,000.

Though the Kahn collection comprises works of art of every description, paintings, sculptures, ivory carving, tapestry, porcelain, illumined boods, decorative furniture, stained glass, clocks and other treasures, its value rests principally with the marvelous gathering of pictures in which no school from the fourteenth to the end of the eighteenth century is left unrepresented.

Chief Shippy today summarily wiped out the epidemic of crime in Chicago. The chief did not call out the reserves; he canceled no furloughs and he did not call in his Council friends in an endeavor to have the city employ more sleuths. Instead he told a gasping audience of reporters that what they imagined to be an "epidemic of crime" was merely "an increase in police business."

Holding a worn, smoke begrimed doll tightly clasped in her arms, in fear that she might lose it, Hulda Klug, two years old, herself lost, meandered about thes treets of the North Side for fourteen hours before she was found unharmed at 4 o'clock this morning, sound asleep in the doorstep of a grocery at Huron and Leavitt streets, her face streaked with tears, and the doll clutched tightly in her arms.

ATHLETES WIN FIGHT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The University of Wisconsin, after a war on athletics which resulted in the gymnasium being labeled with the huge sign "Ping Pong Hall," has given up the fight and the school will have a football team in the field the coming year. The faculty has decided that the course it has pursued was damaging the university, and though the faculty and regents are as strongly opposed to athletics as ever, they have decided that a surrender is necessary.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HELENA (Ark.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Painters at work on a house near where J. N. Scott, city editor of the Helena World, who was assassinated early Sunday morning, found an empty pistol today which may have been used by the assassins. Pindall this morning offered a reward of $500 and the citizens of Helena will add $500.

BEARS INVADE TOWN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STANDISH (Mich.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Driven to the lowlands by forest fires a small army of bears invaded this town today, forcing suspension of business for several hours and terrorizing the people. The visit was made just as the stores were being opened for business and laborers were on their way to work. Six bears walked through the town and fed on turnips in the grocery stores. When the people had recovered from their fright a hunt was organized and in two hours three of the bears were brought back as game.

COUNTESS TO WED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Countess Spottswood Mackin, daughter of former Mayor James H. Britton of St. Louis, is engaged to marry an Englishman, who is a prominent Roman Catholic, according to cablegrams. The name of her prospective husband is not mentioned in the dispatches. Countess Spottswood Mackin's name has figured in the news in recent months through a controversy over payment of rent for a house which the Duchess De Rochefoucauld, daughter of the late United States Senator Mitchell of Oregon rented from the former St. Louis woman. She was made a papal Countess because of her work for the Catholic church.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] None of the Kansas City ministers who objected to Gov. Folk's methods of reorganizing the police department in their sermons Sunday has changed his opinion because of the statement made by the Governor yesterday. The Governor said the Metropolitan Street Railway Company had indirectly influenced the Kansas City clergy, in its alleged wholesale system of graft. Several ministers, when interviewed today said the Governor was wrong, and therefore his position made him desperate.

ARMORED AUTO IS MYSTERIOUS.

STRANGE MAN BUILDS BIG CAR OF SOLID STEEL.

Machine Is Covered With Bullet-Proof Metal and Looks Like Fortress—Constructed for High Speed and Great Strength—Owner Will Not Explain Purpose.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charles Mantzer, whose manner is mysterious and whose antecedents he does not discuss, but who apparently is honest and law-abiding, has just had constructed at the St. Louis Car Company's automobile factory a huge motor car of all-steel that resembles a fortress and for which he has paid $6150, although he is earning at the plant only $12.50 weekly.

None of the factory heads can learn from Mantzer the use to which he intends putting the strange-looking machine. One day he admitted to General Manager Walter S. Miller that it "was neither for business or pleasure." This remark only deepened the interest in the strange car.

Manager Miller says that it is the largest automobile ever built for high speed. It is eleven feet long, six feet in width and six feet high. It is painted in maroon and striped in black. It is made altogether after Mantzer's own specifications.

The interior is empty and unfurnished. There is only one seat in front for the driver. It is south-proofed. It is entirely enclosed in steel and absolutely bullet-proof. It has folding steel shutters to cover every window.

Mantzer says that he is a farmer and has lived in Illinois and Nebraska. He paid cash down for his machine. He appeared at the factory in April, 1906. He asked if he might work there while the machine was building and was employed at 20 cents an hour. He is still there and will not state when he is going to take his machine out.

In a trial trip to test its strength, on June 20, the car climbed a hill with twenty-seven men and boys aboard.

It weighs a ton, and is geared to run forty-five miles an hour. Mantzer says he may quit the shop soon. Employes of the factory say that when he takes his strange machine out they intend to trail him to see to what purpose he puts it. He is about 45 years old, of medium height, and weighs about 160 pounds. His hair and eyes are dark, and he is evidently not a native of the United States. He is married and lives with his wife and family at No. 5533 Emily street.

STOCKTON, Aug. 6.—Reports from the grape-growing sections show that San Joaquin county will have a big crop of wine and table grapes.

Growers are offering $18 a ton for Muscat grapes for wine and Tokays have been sold from $30 to $40 a ton delivered at packing-houses.

The new electric road being built from Stockton to Lodi is preparing to handle part of the big crop of table grapes for delivery in Stockton to the Santa Fe and for shipment on steamers, opening a larger market for growers.

The Southern Pacific has heretofore handled the eastern shipments of table grapes over its line running through Lodi, but this year the Santa Fe will get into the business through the electric line.

Special shipments will be received at Lodi and the California Wine Association will receive grapes at several stations on the line.

BARTLING PLEA IS MADE.

Says Assert Land Fraud, If Committed, Was Against State, Not Federal Government.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—The appeal of John A. Benson for a bill of particulars in the case of the alleged fraudulent acquisition of lands in Alpena county was denied and the order overruled by United States District Judge DeHaven this morning. Frank H. Wood, representing E. B. Perkins, indicted with Benson, made the motion that startling argument, for the prosecutors were unprepared, that if fraud had been perpetrated at all it had been against the State of California and not the United States government. Dist.-Atty. Devlin, in reply to this held that the fraud had been perpetrated on the United States indirectly, and declared that the government was determined to defeat any conspiracy to acquire lands fraudulently and that the fact of the plot was against Benson and Perkins and not in its details the use of the name of California as an instrument in the fraudulent acquisition of title to lands was Federal land did not put it in the hands of Benson and Perkins but out of the jurisdiction of the Federal Court.

The ruling of Judge DeHaven applies to the indictment had in the case of Bartling and is a test case to try it Thursday morning.

Lawyers Make Arguments in Dispute Over Right to Stock Controller's Office.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 6.—The case of Mattison vs. State Controller A. P. Colgan came up in Judge Post's department of the Superior Court today for argument. This is practically The case of the real work in the now famous suit of Mattison, a Gillett appointee, against Nye, who was placed in office by Gov. Pardee to succeed the late P. Colgan. Mattison was represented by A. M. Seymour and T. J. Barry of San Francisco. A. L. Shinn and L. L. White appeared for Nye. The arguments advanced by counsel were practically the same as those heretofore published, namely, that Pardee had a legal right to appoint Controller in State offices until his successor was elected and qualified. On January 7, when Nye was named for the second time, Gillett had not qualified. Therefore, it is argued, Pardee, as Governor with all powers of office until Gillett took the gubernatorial chair.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONG BEACH (Or.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. James M. Smith, well-known osteopathic physician of the Pacific Northwest, was drowned in the surf at Long Beach, Wash., this morning, during an attempt to rescue his son, Lester, aged 16, who had gone beyond his depth and was struggling with the undertow.

Young Smith was bathing with a party of friends when he was swept out by the current. He screamed for help and his father rushed to his assistance. The father was caught in the undertow and sank before any one could go to his aid.

Life Saver Tinker heard young Smith's cries and went to his assistance. Tinker was brought in by Tinker, but was exhausted, and it is feared he will not survive.

Dr. Smith had offices at the Buchanan Building, Portland. He was well known there, and was 35 years old. He was born and raised in Portland. His family is visiting in Seattle.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

JOSE, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dis- ch.] Mary P. Hale and Clar- Hale, widow and daughter of A. Hale, are sole ben- of his will filed yesterday by Tinker. The will, which dis- of an estate estimated at more 0,000, is in Hale's handwrit- addressed to W. C. Andrews, presi- of Farmers' Union of San José, and J. M. Hale of Los Angeles, as executors, who are given a compensation of $2500 for the seven years they will have charge of the estate.

During this time, all real estate and personal property and stocks will be sold and the proceeds invested in first mortgages and such other securities as railway and municipal bonds. Mrs. Hale and Miss Clarissa Hale are placed upon an allowance of $500 a month each, but, at the end of seven years, the property is to be distributed between them, share and share alike.

SAN JOSE STOCKMEN ALARMED.

Cattle Dying by the Scores from Anthrax and Glanders—Human Life Endangered.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Anthrax and glanders, two of the most virulent contagious diseases among cattle and horses, and one of which is communicable to man, have broken out again in San José and every effort of P. H. Browning, county veterinarian, is being bent toward their eradication.

Browning's report to the Supervisors shows an appalling state of affairs with cattle dying by scores in the fields about San José, the East San José district being the center of the anthrax. This infection is even more fatal to mankind than to cattle and many of the stockmen in the outlying districts are requesting that they be inoculated against the disease.

Several months ago, many fine milk cattle died with the disease and it was the belief of the veterinarian that his preventive measures had prevailed. The recurrence of the malady has led to a stricter quarantine.

MOSQUITOES HARRY OFFICERS.

Government to Spend $7000 for Netting for Commissioned Men at Fort Lawton.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Seven thousand dollars will be spent by the United States government to buy copper-wire mosquito netting for the officers of the army stationed at Fort Lawton. The announcement was made today that the Army Department had authorized the improvement and each of the officer's quarters would be given the protective barring.

A year ago a resolution was made that $180,000 be appropriated to destroy a marsh located near the army post and it was guaranteed by the surgeons in command that, if the marsh were cleaned up or the mosquitoes killed, the nuisance would end. No attention was paid to this, but today everybody was notified that the army officials would allow $7000 to keep mosquitoes away from commissioned officers.

MILLION FOR LITTLE BOY.

John Quinn, Veteran Gambler, Decides to Leave Fortune to Eight-Year-Old Son of Friend.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Little Harry May, the eight-year-old son of James May, a local sporting man, will some day become possessed of $1,000,000, the fortune bequeathed him by John P. Quinn, a veteran gambler.

Quinn owns the games in the Palace gambling-house in this city, the largest resort of its kind in Nevada. For years he has followed games of chance, winning large sums. He has invested in mining stocks also, making considerable money in Mohawk stocks, but every cent of his fortune came through chance speculations.

He has no relatives to leave his fortune to, so he has willed his entire estate, consisting of cash and real estate to the eight-year-old son of May.

PLANS ELABORATE PARADE.

TO SHOW IRRIGATERS "FLOATS."

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 6.—Plans for one of the most elaborate parades that has ever taken place in this city are being outlined by H. E. Yardley, who, last night, was selected by the Board o Control of the National Irrigation Congress to take charge of that feature of the big celebration which will be given the delegates and visitors to this city during the Congress in September.

While he has just assumed his duties, Yardley today stated: "There is nothing prettier in my estimation, than floats and I intend to see that there are some in this procession which will excel any that have ever been arranged in this or any other city. Then you know the public likes music and plenty of it. The fraternal orders and societies will probably have a large number of members in uniform in line.

"Gov. Chamberlain of Oregon, who is president of the congress, shall be given a prominent place in the procession and other dignitaries, such as the various Governors who attend and other officials will be distributed along the parade so that the public will get a chance to rest its hands before the next personage worthy of an outburst passes by."

PROXY DIVORCES NOT GOOD.

Immigration Officers Tell Jap His Wife Brother in Nippon Put Away for Him Is Still Legal Spouse.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hanshichi Tamura, a Japanese business man of Moreta, Cal., got tired four years ago of supporting a wife in Japan and sent word to his brother that he wanted a divorce. The brother faithfully went through a proxy ceremony and a decree was entered that satisfied the Japanese courts.

A short time ago Tamura wanted a new bride, for the seven years he had spent in California were lonely. His brother rose to the occasion and sent another girl to America. Tamura came up from California to claim the bride, but when the immigration officers examined him they disclosed the story of his proxy divorce and refused to let the new bride come ashore.

The immigration officials announced the policy that proxy divorces would not be recognized at Seattle and that Japanese bridegrooms must go through a ceremony in this country. The bride must go back to Japan.

FOREST FIRES MENACE ISLAND.

Camano Commercial Company Loses Two Million Feet of Cedar—Settlers Flee.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SEATTLE, Aug. 6.—Forest fires threaten to sweep every stick of standing timber from Camano Island. Fire broke out Wednesday of last week and now three fires are sweeping back and forth as the wind varies. The Camano Commercial Company lost 2,000,000 feet of cedar and three-quarters of a mile of railroad valued at $5000. Among other heavy losers on the island will be the Puget Sound Mills and Timber Company.

Settlers have been obliged to vacate their homes on short notice. One man, George Roop, saved his furniture only by burying it in an old well. The fire is near the town of Camano, a place of about 300 inhabitants, and threatens some homes near the town. Camano, itself, has fire protection. Another bad fire is reported on the southern end of Whidby Island.

SECRETARY WILSON IS BETTER.

Chief of Agricultural Department Is Much Improved, but Still Feels Effects of Climb.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Secretary James Wilson, of the Department of Agriculture, has so far recovered from his indisposition that he received callers today. He went out this afternoon for a short time as the weather was warm and the day clear. He has been threatened with lung fever, but all danger is now thought to be over. The Secretary is still suffering somewhat from the effects of a trip into the forest reserve on Mount Rainier.

Among the callers on Secretary Wilson today was Judge George H. Williams, whose term as attorney-general of the United States in Gen. Grant's Cabinet, was contemporaneous with Mr. Wilson's service as Congressman from Iowa.

NEW TRIAL PROVES UNLUCKY.

Man Sentenced for Life Got Death Penalty from Second Jury, and Supreme Court Upholds Verdict.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—In an opinion written today by Justice Shaw of the Supreme Court and concurred in by the other justices, the verdict of the jury and the sentence of the lower court that A. J. Grill should be hanged for the murder of W. S. Pearse was affirmed.

The crime was committed near Healdsburg, July 29, 1905. Pearse lived in a log cabin near Healdsburg and one day received a visit from Grill, who was infatuated with May Pearse, his daughter. The men quarreled and Pearse was killed.

On trial Grill was convicted of murder in the first degree, with punishment fixed at life imprisonment. He was granted a new trial on errors of the trial court, but when again tried was convicted and the death penalty imposed. This verdict has been affirmed by the Supreme Court, and unless executive clemency should be extended, Grill must hang.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BELLINGHAM, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Throwing money about as if it were chaff, L. H. Alger, who says he is a son of the late Russel A. Alger, and Charles Davis, a millionaire cotton king of Georgia, are in Bellingham cutting the widest swath as spendthrifts that has ever been known in this city. Alger says he and his friend came to Bellingham to establish an angora goat ranch. In a single night Alger spent $350. An automobile trip cost $30 and in one saloon the two spent $22 treating. Davis threw away $200, and tips to the waiters have ranged from $2 to $5 a day.

DEMANDS POSTOFFICE CLEAN-UP

Seattle Chamber of Commerce Will Ask Washington to Send Experts to Reorganize Mail Service.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Chamber of Commerce today decided to ask the Postoffice Department to send experts to Seattle to reorganize the local postoffice.

The office has just been placed in the list of first class offices and the Chamber of Commerce has found that business is congested, the quarters inadequate and the working force unevenly distributed in various departments.

The increase granted by the government has been made piecemeal and incongruities exist that make it impossible to handle business.

With forty-two substations and branches, 129 clerks and 124 carriers employed, the commercial organization insists reorganization is necessary.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

Fatal Quarrel Over Dog.

WILLITS, Aug. 6.—Yesterday afternoon John Butts shot and killed Tom Crowley on the latter's ranch, four miles east of Laytonville. Butts and his son, while hunting, had a quarrel with Crowley over a dog. Crowley, it is said, hit Butts with a club and started towards his house for his rifle saying he would kill Butts. Before he reached the house, Butts shot Crowley. Butts gave himself up and his examination will be held today.

Big Capital Stock Increase.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—The directors of the California Gas and Electric corporation met yesterday and declined to call a meeting of the company's stockholders to authorize an increase in its stock up to $35,000,000. The stock issue at present is $15,000,000.

California Nurses' Convention.

OAKLAND, Aug. 6.—Over one hundred members of the California State Nurses' Association are in session at Ebell Hall, where a three days' convention has been called together for the benefit of the members of the association. The regular work of the convention began this morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Wong Sun Yue Is Brave.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—Mrs. Wong Sun Yue, wife of a Chinese dweller in the Portsmouth Square refuge camp, and sister of Mrs. Howard Gould of New York, proved herself to be made of brave stuff yesterday when she grabbed from the hand of August Rodriguez the smoking pistol with which he had slain Manuel Madrid, and chased him into the arms of a policeman who made the arrest. The police gave Mrs. Sun Yue the highest credit for her bravery in assisting in the man's capture.

To Sell Embezzler's Property.

SEATTLE, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Federal Judge Hanford today issued an order directing United States Marshal Hopkins to sell the personal property of George Adams, cashier of the Seattle assay office, who was discovered nearly two years ago to have embezzled gold from miners "Pokes" at the assay office. The marshal will receive bids on over $30,000 worth of property. Attorneys for Mrs. Adams have taken steps to protect her interest in the community holdings of the couple.

TRUST ACCUSED OF TRICKERY.

Government Files Amended Bill in Suit Against Powder Combine Charging Illegal Transfer.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—It was stated at the Department of Justice today that an amended bill had been filed by the government in the powder trust case at Wilmington, Del., alleging that since the preparation of the government's petition on or about July 27, last, the E. I. Dupont-De Nemeurs Powder Company, of Delaware, transferred a large part of its unsold finished products and raw materials and things necessary to the operation of its business to the E. I. Dupont-De Nemeurs Powder Company of New Jersey.

The reason for this, the amended bill says, was the discovery in the recorder's office at Wilmington of papers indicating such a transfer by one of the three operating companies to the holding company in the alleged powder trust. It is stated that these papers disappeared but the amendment was persisted in, because it would have the effect of requiring something to be said in the answers of the defendants to this supposed transfer.

After the amendment and petition had been sent to Delaware for filing, the bill continues, the papers on yesterday reappeared in the recorder's office and show that such a transfer was actually made July 27, three days before the petition in the case was filed. In the meantime the recorder is declared to have given his certificate to the District Attorney that he had no such papers.

AFRAID OF HELEN GOULD.

Woman Appeals to New York West Side Court for Protection Against Philanthropist.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Excitedly making charges that Helen Gould and William K. Vanderbilt had plotted to ruin her, Mary Quinn begged Magistrate Corrigan in the West Side Court to give her protection. She charged that the wealthy persons had her driven out of the Martha Washington Hotel.

"If you don't give me protection from these people, who are trying to steal my brother's farm from him," she said, "I'll buy a revolver and blow off their heads. I've got a violent temper and I'll do what I say."

Magistrate Corrigan sent the woman to the psychopathic ward in Bellevue for examination as to her sanity. She was well dressed and wore rings and a brooch of considerable value.

Judge Listens to Arguments of Telephone Company Which Demands Union's Discrimination Cease.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HELENA (Mont.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Judge Hunt in the United States Court, today, heard arguments on the application of the Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone Company, for a temporary writ to restrain the president and secretary of the Montana Federation of Labor from conducting a boycott against it, and will hear arguments as to the Livingston Trades Union tomorrow.

The State is practically without telephone service, as far as can be learned, and the effect on business is proving most vexatious. A Helena firm will tomorrow bring mandamus proceedings to compel the company to furnish service.

San Francisco Buzzes Over Impending Conflict

The Independent Republicans Show Great Activity.

Attempt to Put Anti-Herrin Tickets in All Districts.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The whole city buzzes and roars with the impending political conflict, Independent Republicans, under the leadership of Dan Ryan, starting movements in every district to put up an anti-Herrin Republican ticket.

It is asserted that, in the Thirty-eighth District, Ryan left it to some of his friends to put up a proper ticket of railroad—Hating delegates and Herrin stole a march on him and put in his own men by intrigue. Ryan has now substituted another ticket in that district, and will fight the renegades.

Postmaster Arthur Fisk is giving the anti-railroad men a great deal of worry in his Thirty-seventh District.

Considerable speculation was caused today by the appearance of Walter McArthur as one of the officers of the new Hearst-Mahoney Democratic League which is trying to unseat Gavin McNab. McArthur is one of the so-called conservative labor leaders who was supposed to be allied with Mike Casey and Livernash in the effort to take away the control of the Labor Union party from Pinhead McCarthy. Can it be that a third split has taken place in the union ranks?

Pinhead and his henchmen held another meeting today with the builders' exchange relative to the illegal three years' agreement as to a wage scale. The real estate men are said to have come to a realization that Pinhead has bunceod them, feel very sheepish and anxious to pull out of the agreement.

SOMETHING COMING TO FISK.

Republican League Prepares Vigorous Cure for Habit of Postmaster of Serving Boss Herrin.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The regular Republican League has prescribed vigorous treatment for Postmaster Arthur Fisk's habit of delivering the big Thirty-seventh District delegation to Herrin.

The reform wing of the Republican party, headed by Daniel A. Ryan, has put a complete ticket in the Thirty-seventh and will fight Fisk as he never before has been fought.

Fisk has so long indulged himself in the practice of delivering the banner Republican district to the railroad boss that he has come to believe himself an incurable. His indulgence, however, has been tempered with discretion and his present day operations in the Thirty-seventh are quite as neat as any of his previous efforts to conceal his fine political hand from the Postoffice Department.

SAM FASSENDEN RETIRES.

RAN BLAINE'S CAMPAIGN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

STAMFORD (Ct.) Aug. 6.—Sam Fessenden, for more than thirty years a controlling factor in Connecticut politics, has announced his retirement from active political life. The strain of political campaigning, he says, he finds too strenuous for his health.

Fessenden came into national prominence in 1884, when he ran the Blaine campaign.

CUBAN BUDGET INCREASED.

Finances of Island Show Larger Cost of Maintaining Provisional Government.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Cuba's annual budget for the fiscal year 1907-1908 aggregates $23,209,539. It is included in a report received at the War Department today from Gov. Magoon. This, in round numbers, is an increase of $1,500,000 over the budget for last year, as approved by President Palma. But the revenues for last year, it is estimated, will be exceeded this year by $1,500,000 and no difficulty is anticipated in defraying the expenses of the government. It is estimated that the cost of maintaining the provisional government will be $105,990, whereas the executive office as maintained by President Palma costs $62,250.

SEAT IN SENATE FOR PRESIDENT.

EXECUTIVE'S ONLY AMBITION IS TO REPRESENT STATE.

Information from Highest Possible Source Is That White House Occupant Has no Desire to Succeed Himself—Wants to Be in Congress from New York.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The President has but one ambition for his own future. He wants to be a United States Senator from the State of New York when he has finished his term as President, and he does not want anything else.

The authority on which this statement is made is the highest possible. President Roosevelt is not telling every one what he wants, but there is no room for doubt that his personal desire is to step from the White House into the Senate Chamber, and, as the successor of Thomas Collier Platt, be present at the first roll call of the extra session that his Presidential successor will call and which will come to order on March 5, 1909.

All the talk about the possibility of President Roosevelt succeeding himself has been the veriest moonshine, so far as the President himself is concerned.

From the moment of his triumphant election in 1904 he has never for a moment seriously considered himself a possible candidate for the nomination in 1908 and there is the best of reasons for believing that when he made his declaration that he would not accept a renomination he had already determined on a course of action calculated to bring about the culmination of his real ambitions—a seat in the Senate.

WOMAN'S HACKED BODY IN TRUNK.

FRENCH POLICE UNCOVER MURDER MYSTERY.

Middle Aged Couple Arrested at Marseilles With Chest Containing Torso of Slain Female and Valise With Head and Feet—Inquest Discredits Their Story.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

MARSEILLES (France) Aug. 6.—A trunk belonging to a man and woman who arrived here today from Monte Carlo attracted the attention of the baggage master, who caused it to be opened. It was found to contain the body of a woman cut to pieces. The man and woman owning the trunk were arrested. They had asked that it be forwarded to London.

The couple, who are middle aged and gave the names of Mr. and Mrs. Gold, residents of Monte Carlo, denied that they committed the crime and informed the examining magistrate that they knew the victim only slightly.

While the latter was at their home, the Villa Melesimy, on Sunday last, Mr. and Mrs. Gold added, the woman's lover arrived there and blew out her brains. The Golds, fearing they would be compromised, tried to get rid of the corpse.

The head and feet were in the Gold's valise and the rest of the body was in the trunk.

The autopsy seemed to upset the story told by the Golds. It was shown that the murdered woman was seized from behind and held while she was stabbed to death. A commission has been sent to Monte Carlo to investigate the crime.

The mail car jumped the track and was dragged 150 yards before the train was stopped. All the cars left the track except the diner and sleeper. No one was killed. The following were injured: J. E. Metcalf, Dallas, seriously; T. L. Dludy, Dallas; O. L. Williams, express messenger, Fort Worth, seriously; G. J. Gaas, Fort Worth; G. G. Smith, Fort Worth.

All of the derailed cars were crowded with passengers. It is considered miraculous that none was killed.

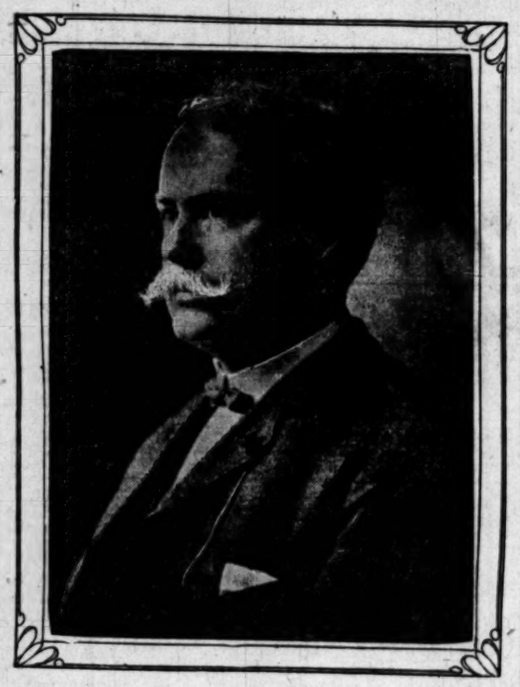
GUARDS AMERICAN INTERESTS IN SEOUL.



SEOUL, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There has been a cessation of fighting in the city, which is now comparatively quiet. Japanese guards still patrol the streets but foreigners are no longer afraid to go from place to place. The interests of the United States government and of Americans in Seoul are being looked after by Thomas Sammons, United States Consul General, formerly a Seattle newspaper man, the legation formerly maintained at Seoul having been withdrawn when Japan established a virtual protectorate over Korea.

MOORS SHOT DOWN.

semi-official account of the fighting at Casa Blanca, the commander of the Galilee asked for permission to land a guard of sailors to protect the French Consulate, which was granted, but, while the guard was proceeding to the Consulate, it was fired upon in the streets and six bluejackets and an ensign were wounded. The French then cleared the streets at the point of the bayonet, killing many of the Moors.

On arriving at the Consulate, the guard signalled the news of the incident to the Galilee and the French ship notified the Spanish cruiser, which landed a guard for the Consulate of Spain. The warship then bombarded the Arab quarter of Casa Blanca.

The Casa Blanca battery fired a couple of blank shots when the Duchayla was entering the bay and the cruiser replied, destroying part of the battery, the Moorish gunners retiring. The European part of the city was not touched. The Duchayla then shelled the beach where a number of Kabyles had assembled, killing many of them. The cruisers also shelled the outskirts of Casa Blanca where groups of Moors were seen.

The French ships at Casa Blanca are the Galilee, Duchayla and Forbin and the Spanish cruiser Don Alvarado de Bazan.

Señor Nozerani, the Italian Minister here, has demanded reparation for the murder of three Italians at Casa Blanca and the wounding of a fourth Italian subject. The Minister insists on the punishment of the guilty persons and the payment of an indemnity to the families of the victims.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—A despatch from Tangier today says that the German Charge at Tangier called attention of the French Charge D'Affaires to the dangerous position of foreigners at Mazagan, upon the west coast of Morocco, and that the French official directed a French cruiser to proceed to Mazagan. The many Germans at Mazagan, most of whom live outside the gates, will be protected by the French warships.

UNITED STATES NOTIFIED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Foreign Minister Pichon and the Spanish Ambassador here, Señor Leon y Castillo, have agreed to the Franco-Spanish note, informing the powers signatory to the Algeciras convention, including the United States, of the intention of France and Spain to keep within the terms of the convention.

The situation after the landing of troops at Casa Blanca will largely determine the subsequent measures to be taken by France and Spain. No outside power is expected to coöperate with the two powers mentioned.

The French government has no confirmation of the reports that British or German warships are on their way to Morocco.

SAVED LIVES OF ALL EUROPEANS.

FRENCH SEAMEN PREVENTED ANOTHER MASSACRE.

Situation of Foreigners Huddled in Consulates Was Desperate in the Extreme When the Rescue Party Landed in Casa Blanca and Fought Its Way Through Death Trap.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Aug. 6.—In a dispatch from Tangier, the correspondent of the Times says congratulations are due to the French government for the prompt measures it has taken at Casa Blanca and the French seamen, who, in the face of overwhelming numbers, showed splendid courage and undoubtedly saved the European residents of Casa Bianca from massacre.

According to the latest reports, shots were fired Sunday on the French Consulate, and, when the French Consul demanded protection from the governor and the military commander of the town, these officers replied that they were powerless to guarantee safety and invited the commander of the French cruiser Galilee to disembark troops.

It appears that the town gate was closed behind the first French landing party. The men consequently found themselves in a trap and their way barred by uniformed Moorish troops who immediately opened fire. The seamen cleared their way by a bayonet charge, literally forcing their passage over the dead bodies of the Moorish soldiers.

POWERS TO SUBDUE TRIBESMEN.

Morocco Imbroglio Brings Nearer Inevitable Demonstration of Strength.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Although the Moroccan imbroglio, in its latest phase, does not contain a serious menace of a "holy war," it is regarded as bringing nearer the inevitable stroke by which the great powers will demonstrate to the tribesmen, once for all, the superior strength of civilization.

The massacre as Casa Blanca might be duplicated at any of a dozen towns on any of a dozen pretexts. The Algeciras arrangement, while it may have conserved the peace between rival powers, has accomplished next-to nothing for the security of the Americans or Europeans now developing Morocco's natural resources.

Paris, Rome and Madrid are confronted with the same issue. In the case of Great Britain, a power which Raisuli seeks to embroil through a different channel, the problem is complicated, but the Italian, Spanish and French governments are on all fours as to the Casa Blanca slaughter, and this unity of misfortune is an important aid to unity of action.

Emperor William's advances to France and Prince Von Buelow's declaration that Germany wishes nothing in Morocco but the "open door," seem to clear the way for far-reaching action soon.

ROAD INDICTED IN ALABAMA.

ACTION FOLLOWS REVOCATION OF SOUTHERN'S CHARTER.

Company Is Charged With Doing Business in State Without License. Is Expected to Make Concessions, Thereby Putting an End to Present Strained Relations.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MONTGOMERY, (Ala.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch. The grand jury of Perry county today indicted the Southern Railway Company for doing business as a foreign company without a license.

The indictment followed the action of Secretary of State Julian in revoking the company's charter. Solicitor Thompson declares that the case will be pushed and that other indictments will be voted.

In spite of the tension, the indication is that the present strained relations between the State and the Southern will be settled satisfactorily to both parties. While it is impossible to learn of any definite agreement, it is safe to say the Southern will make concessions.

Col. F. L. Russell, vice-president of the Southern Railway, with headquarters at Mobile, reached Montgomery last night, and this morning had a conference with Governor Comer looking to a settlement of the present differences. Neither Col. Russell nor Governor Comer would give out anything regarding the interview, save that a proposition was made for adjusting the differences, and further conferences will take place soon.

Both the Governor and the railroad officials desire, however, to have time to consider the tentative propositions made. When seen Governor Comer said:

"Yes, it is true I have had a conference with Col. Russell. Matters at variance between the State and the Southern Railroad were discussed. Some tentative propositions were made and further conferences will be held. I do not feel at liberty at this time to state what these propositions were, but the matter is being considered."

The Governor was asked about his conference at Birmingham and the probable calling out of the State militia, if needed, but was non-communicative. The attitude of the State, however, on this question, it may be stated, is that if the Southern Railway or any other road "strikes" and refuses to do business, the State militia may be called out if necessary to enforce obedience to the laws.

Interest has been aroused by the announcement that the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railway, a subsidiary of the Louisville and Nashville, through local attorneys, has died application at Gadsden, Ala., to move a case from the State courts to the Federal Court of the Northern Alabama District. The application for removal has not yet been acted upon and there is much speculation as to whether the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis will forfeit its charter, as has been the case with the Southern Railway.

TO TEST IMMIGRATION LAW.

State of Louisiana Brings Foreigner from Cuba to Test Constitutionality of Federal Statute.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW ORLEANS, (La.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The State of Louisiana has locked horns with the Federal government over the constitutionality of the new immigration law effective July 1, which prohibited the payment of the passage of immigrants by the State of Louisiana.

A test was made with a Spaniard, Geronimo Garcia, who was brought here by the State Immigration Bureau. To test the national law he was ordered deported by a special board of inquiry of the Immigration Department this afternoon. This case will be taken to Washington.

The Southern Pacific steamship, Excelsior, which arrived here from Cuba, brought Reginald Dykers, distributing agent of the Louisiana Board of Immigration; L. H. Allen, Cuban agent of the board, and Joseph W. Hyams, immigration agent of the Southern Pacific lines, and these gentlemen had with them Geronimo Garcia for the purpose of making the test.

The question at issue is whether or not the State of Louisiana can legally pay the passage of foreigners to this country. Col. Schuler, State Commissioner of Agriculture said that before he went to Europe a few weeks ago he would make a friendly test.

It was later decided to bring an immigrant from Cuba.

CONTEST SEEMS ASSURED.

Vardaman Will Not Concede Accuracy of Count Electing Williams by 400 Votes.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

JACKSON (Miss.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Who will be the next United States Senator no one here tonight will say, positively. On the face of the returns, Mr. Williams has the lead by from 400 to 450 votes over his opponent, with ten counties to hear from by Secretary of State Powers at the close of office hours.

The Vardaman men will not admit the accuracy of the count, and a contest before the committee now seems inevitable. The prospect of a contest is viewed with disfavor and those who realize what it signifies regard it with misgivings. The Williams men are determined to watch the ballot boxes and paraphernalia with all care and will fight a recount.

BURTON CONFIRMS RESIGNATION

Denies Retirement from Rivers and Harbors Committee Is Because of Inland Waterways Work.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Yes I have determined to retire from the chairmanship of the Committee on Rivers and Harbors," said Representative T. E. Burton of Ohio, who is in Washington.

"I have been desirous of being relieved of the duties on the committee for some time and intend to insist upon the speaker selecting some other man to head the committee.

"It is my purpose to give more time to general legislation in the future and to do this it will be necessary for me to give up the chairmanship of the Rivers and Harbors Committee, which, on account of the great amount of detail connected with the legislation before it, would not permit.

"I do not retire on account of my connection with the Inland Waterways Commission, as that work does not interfere with my work on the committee.

Mr. Burton declined to discuss the Ohio situation or politics in general. He is in Washington on business and a number of lectures which he will deliver in a course at several educational institutes.

Angry Laborers Chase Boss With Knives.

Refused Passes, Italians Go Out for Blood.

Mayor and Sheriff Capture Many Rioters.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MURPHYSBORO (Ill.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Twenty-five Italian railroad laborers terrorized the 700 inhabitants of Fordyce for several hours this afternoon. They tried to kill Headmaster Carey of the Iron Mountain Railway when he refused them transportation to St. Louis after the discharge of one of their number by Foreman John House.

The Italians, armed with knives, chased the railway official through business places and the yards of dwellings. Sheriff Hanson was notified, and at once left Murphysboro with a posse armed with riot guns and other weapons.

Mayor Crain of Fordyce, with a number of armed men, surrounded the foreigners before the Sheriff arrived and captured seventeen of the laborers, who were brought to the Murphysboro jail tonight.

The Sheriff and his posse were still in pursuit of the other eight rioters tonight. The Italians are all armed. Five of the prisoners were wounded.

A report tonight from Fordyce, which is ten miles southwest of here, says that the Italians were coming toward Murphysboro.

BIG BULLION MINES CASE UP.

Attorney Begins in Trial of Promoters Accused of Colossal Swindling Scheme.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DENVER, Aug. 6.—Taking of testimony in the Lost Bullion Spanish Mine Company case, which began yesterday, was continued today.

The Lost Bullion Spanish Mines company has been in existence since October 4, 1906, when the promoters effected organization stock upon the market. Their assertions to the public were that a mine of fabulous richness near Silver City, N. M., which was discovered by the Spaniards under Cortez in 1540, had been sealed up by the Spaniards when they were driven away by the Indians, and had never been reopened until 1904.

Interesting literature was sent out all over the country by the promoters, and they are said to have reaped a harvest of fully $80,000 from the working people of the country.

Among the men under indictment are C. L. Parkhurst, A. E. Keable, R. C. Hunt, Homer Lean, D. H. Lawrence, F. P. Johnson and Edward Sebben of Denver; F. B. Kemeron of Boulder, and Charles S. and Lee Dubers, formerly of New York City and now of Littleton. The latter is expected to develop some interesting features.

RANGE "OWNER" SHOT.

DISPUTE OVER TRESPASSING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—T. J. Crowley was shot and killed at Black Rock, about three miles north of Laytonville, this county, by John Butts during an altercation. Crowley was the owner of the Black Rock range, a summer resort. He controlled about ten thousand acres of land and refused to allow Butts to run on the place.

Some of his neighbors contended that Butts' holdings were government land and that they had the right to pasture there. Crowley had several rows with Butts before, and others in driving them from the range. Crowley was shot and slightly injured on a previous occasion.

Butts is a resident of Jackson Valley and in company with a companion had been hunting on Black Rock range. They were ordered from the place by Crowley, who was armed. It is said that Butts will plead self-defense. Crowley was formerly a resident of San Francisco. The Sheriff and District Attorney left here this morning to be present at the inquest, which will be held tomorrow.

Fifty-two Thousand Fish Reported by Bellingham Canneries as Result of One Night's Fishing.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BELLINGHAM, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Fifty-two thousand salmon were received at the local canneries last night. The Pacific American Fisheries secured 40,000 and the Whatcom county cannery 12,000.

This is the largest catch of the season, and cannery men are jubilant at the prospects. All of the fish received by the Pacific-American Fisheries were lifted from the company's traps and of the number received by the Bellingham cannery, 8000 were caught in the traps and 4000 were taken by seiners.

For several days the canneries have feared that the fish were passing to the Fraser River by the Canadian path, and it was thought that the run would be missed entirely. The fishermen have been dispelled by the results of last night's catch.

TWO-CENT FARE SYSTEMS

Big Slices Will Be Taken Out of Earnings of Companies Runs and Agents Will Be Far Below Last Year.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Passenger agents of the railroads of the country are facing the most important problem in the history of their profession. The two-cent fare law, which has been declared constitutional by the United States Supreme Court, will not only be enforced in Minnesota, but that the usual increase in business will not be realized. The result will be that the figure will fall far below the figure of last year.

It is estimated that the total revenue from the passenger service of the railroads in the United States will be $560,000,000 a year. It is estimated by the passenger men that this amount will be suffered in the passenger department by reason of the two-cent rates will not be covered by any other source of income, as the freight division will have its hands full to look after its own end.

ROADS COME TO AGREE TO ESTABLISH

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The conference now being held by representatives of the railroads in the trans-Atlantic steamship pool, in which shippers are taking part, on the general question of a patch for freight, is said to be already brought about a basis of understanding, and may result in an agreement.

It is learned that for the first time in their history, the railroads have made a direct proposition to establish zones with a tentative agreement to deliver freight at New York from any of these zones within a radius of say ten days from Buffalo, Chicago, and Thirty days from Minneapolis.

A member of the Produce Exchange Committee said that unless an agreement on the question of "through dispatch" was reached during the conference the whole question would be taken before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

MURPHYSBORO (Ill.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Twenty-five Italian railroad laborers terrorized the 700 inhabitants of Fordyce for several hours this afternoon. They tried to kill Boardmaster Carey of the Iron Mountain Railway when he refused them transportation to St. Louis after the discharge of one of their number by Foreman John House.

The Italians, armed with knives, forced the railway official through various places and the yards of Fordyce. Sheriff Hanson was notified, and at once left Murphysboro with a posse armed with riot guns and other weapons.

Major Crain of Fordyce, with a number of armed men, surrounded the company before the Sheriff arrived and captured seventeen of the laborers, who were brought to the Murphysboro jail tonight.

The Sheriff and his posse were still in search of the other eight rioters tonight. The Italians are all armed. Many of the prisoners were wounded. A report tonight from Fordyce, which is nine miles southwest of here, says that the Italians were coming toward Murphysboro.

"SMEARER" SHOT.

Result of Fight Over Trespassing.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 6.—T. J. Crowley was shot and killed at Black Rock, about three miles north of Laytonville, this county, by John Butts during an altercation. Crowley was the owner of the Black Rock range, a summer resort, controlled about ten thousand acres of land and refused to allow Butts to remain on the place.

Some of his neighbors contended that the buildings were government property, and that they had the right to remain. Crowley had several rows with Butts in driving them from the place. He was shot and slightly injured on a previous occasion.

Butts is a resident of Jackson Valley, and in company with a companion had been hunting on Black Rock range. They were ordered from the place by Crowley, who was armed. It is said that Butts will plead self-defense. Crowley was formerly a resident of San Francisco. The Sheriff and District Attorney left here this morning to be present at the inquest, which will be held tomorrow.

He was arrested and sentenced to seven years' imprisonment for assaulting a policeman in San Francisco. He was released from San Quentin a few days ago, and was met by the New York authorities before he left the building.

EXPRESS TRAINS ONLY FOR SLOPE.

ESPEE TO GIVE QUICK SERVICE FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

General Manager Calvin Issues Orders for Immediate Installation of New Schedules from Bay City to Los Angeles, Portland and El Paso. Only One Train a Day.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—General Manager Calvin of the Southern Pacific issued orders today to put express train service on all lines out of San Francisco, and within a week they will be running to Portland, to El Paso and to Los Angeles.

At present it has been decided to have only one train each way a day. They will stop only at important points.

The Portland passenger business is engaging the attention of both the operative and passenger traffic officials of the company. There are at present three daily trains to Portland, but they cannot handle the traffic. Consideration is now being given to putting on a fourth train.

ROADS FIGURE GREAT LOSSES.

TWO-CENT FARE LAWS TO COST SYSTEMS DEARLY.

Big Slices Will Be Chopped Off the Earnings of Companies on Long Runs and Agents Predict Profits Will Be Far Below Par in Coming Year.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Passenger agents in all parts of the country are now giving the major portion of their attention to the extent to which revenues will be reduced by the passage of 2-cent rate laws by many of the States.

Great big slices are being chopped off of the earnings of the companies on long runs, and the fear is expressed that the usual increases in revenues will not only be entirely wiped out, but that the figure will fall in the ensuing year far below par.

It is estimated that the revenues from the passenger service on all roads in the United States averages about $500,000,000 a year. It is pointed out by the passenger men that the deficit that will be suffered in the passenger department by reason of the reduced rates will not be covered by any other source of income, as the freight division will have its hands full holding up its own end.

ROADS COME TO TERMS.

AGREE TO ESTABLISH ZONES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The important conference now being held between representatives of the trunk lines and the trans-Atlantic steamship service, in which shippers are taking a limited part, on the general question of dispatch for freight, is said to have already brought about a better understanding, and may result in an agreement.

It is learned that for the first time in their history, the railroads have made a direct proposition to establish freight zones with a tentative agreement to deliver freight at New York from each of these zones within a given time—say ten days from Buffalo, twenty from Chicago, and Thirty from Minneapolis.

A member of the Produce Exchange Committee said that unless an agreement on the question of "reasonable dispatch" was reached during the conference the whole question would be taken before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

TO BUILD MANY BRIDGES.

Western Pacific Soon to Begin Construction of Steel Spans Over Rivers and Creeks.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—The Western Pacific Railroad is to commence construction work this week upon its big series of river and creek bridges. There are seventy-five bridges to be built along the 929-mile road between San Francisco and Salt Lake, but all of them are west of Wells, Nev.

These seventy-five railway bridges make an aggregate length of almost three miles and the Western Pacific engineers say they will require the enormous total of 20,000 tons of structural steel.

GOVERNMENT WINS CASE.

Disputed Right to Water of Creek in Blackfoot Reservation Decided for Complainant.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HELENA (Mont.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Federal Judge C. E. Wolverton of Oregon, who has had under consideration for some months the case of the government against the Conrad Investment Company, involving the right to the use of the waters of Birch Creek, the middle of which marks the southern boundary of the Blackfoot reservation, decided for the complainant.

The government asserted the right to the use of the water under a treaty with the Indians, while the chief contention of the defendant was that having complied with the act of Congress of 1891 relating to rights of way over public lands for irrigation ditches and canals.

W. G. Conrad of Helena is the owner of the company, which has expended large sums in reclaiming thousands of acres of lands just south of the Blackfoot reservation. The main canal is over ninety miles long, and there are many more miles of laterals. It is not known whether the case will be appealed or not.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW BEDFORD (Mass.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Persistent rumors were afloat today that Henry H. Rogers was seriously ill. Inquiries at his residence at Fairhaven at a late hour tonight, however, prove that these reports are without foundation.

It was stated today that the only indisposition which he has had of late was an attack of indigestion which he suffered a week or so ago, and from which he has recovered.

Mr. Rogers is spending this week with his family in Fairhaven. He expects to return to New York on Sunday or Monday.

KILLED BY HIS OWN ENGINE.

Oldest Locomotive Driver on Illinois Central Dies Under Wheels After Surviving Many Accidents.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—James H. Banta, the oldest engineer on the Illinois Central Railroad, was struck by an engine and instantly killed while crossing the tracks yesterday. For forty-four years Banta had driven or stoked engines over the tracks on which he met his death and had survived four wrecks without injury. Banta, who was 62 years of age, was struck by a train which he had himself driven for ten years. He was soon to retire on a pension.

Among dangers that Banta survived before he met his ordinary sort of death were the explosion of his locomotive boiler, twice running into an open switch and once falling through the cab window while the locomotive was running at full speed.

Engineer George Abbott of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, on Sunday, ran over and killed three men near Chicago, bringing his list of victims up to nearly forty men, women and children.

Abbott, who has been thirty years in the service related his experiences of horrors while waiting for his train to go out at the Union Station.

"From a haunted, nerve wrecked man," he said, "I seem to have become a part of the engines I drive. I probably have been the most unfortunate railroad man in the country. I cannot remember the exact number of persons that have been killed by the engines I have driven, but I should place the number between thirty-five and forty.

"I have driven my engine into groups of men and killed five at a time. I have seen a woman hurled as high as over the telegraph wire at the side of the track from the front of my engine and I have watched a little child rolled along the ties by the pilot for 1.3 feet before she disappeared beneath the wheels of the engine. I have had so many harrowing experiences that I have, I believe become so inured to the sight of a face distorted in death—staring at me from the wheels of my engine—that I believe I am unaffected."

PRESIDENT'S BOOKS LIKED.

German Literary Men Plan to Translate Works for Foreign Market.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Since the Roosevelt library, donated by Prof. Burgess of Columbia University to Berlin University, has been opened to the public, many literary men have been studying Roosevelt's works with the intention of arranging with owners of the copyrights for the publication of several of his books in the German language.

Naturally prospective publishers of German editions are trying to learn which works would be most likely to interest the European reader of fiction. They have, therefore, quite frequently accosted American visitors in the library in Schinkel Place and put questions as to which work was most popular in the States.

Many of them, one translator said, answered that they had never heard of the majority of Mr. Roosevelt's books. The same translator declared he found several legitimate and many wildcat editions of Mr. Roosevelt's books on the German market.

Some pirates have used many chapters of his stories of adventure in cheap dime novels, works of their own creation.

This fact has not disheartened enterprising writers who are planning legitimate editions in German.

The return of William D. Haywood to Colorado had much to do with the decision of the mine owners.

SAYS WORLD IS ANTI-FAMILY.

PROF. MATTHEWS TAKES PESSIMISTIC VIEW OF THINGS.

Asserts Young Men and Young Women Are Growing Up With Idea That Marriage May Be Successively Polyandrous and Polygamous Romantic Love Is a Back Issue.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHAUTAUQUA (N. Y.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Present marriage and family conditions were scored as far below what they should be among Christians, by Prof. Shailer Mathews, dean of the University of Chicago Divinity School, today in an address on "The Christian Conception of the Family," at Chautauqua assembly today.

The easiness and frequency of divorce also came in for scathing rebuke. Incidentally courtship is being neglected.

"Our literature has become anti-family," said the professor. "It is not so much, that it has attempted to deny the legitimacy of the family, as that it is minimizing it in society. There is a tendency to neglect the idea of romantic love, that gives beauty to life. I regret this because it is likely to break down our civilization, and the sanctity of the family. If the relations of man and woman are to be merely those of animals, then we are going backward in our evolution. I do not see any help for any Christianity that does not face this problem squarely.

"With us the family has become a mere conventionality and a matter of personal convenience. There are many young men and women, who are growing up with the idea that marriage may be at least successively polyandrous and polygamous. We go into family relations with the same sangfroid that we go on a picnic."

Game Is Tiresome Affair of Eleven Innings.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The first game of the week's series between the San Francisco and Los Angeles teams at Freeman's Park this afternoon was one of the longest affairs ever seen on the diamond. After going eleven innings San Francisco chased a run over that gave them the game by a 7 to 6 score. From the tap of the gong till the game was over everything went along at a snail's pace and many of the faithful went home long before the contest was over.

Hosp, who was discovered down in the Pajaro Valley, was on the hill for Dillon's men, and is remembered as the lad who kept the fans at Oakland one day in the early part of season till the sun went down, by his slowness. Willis was doing the slab work for Long's men and looked to be hopelessly beaten up to the eighth inning when, the Seals chased six runs over the plate and went one ahead, a couple of home runs, two passes, a single and a double, doing the trick.

Los Angeles started the run getting in the first inning. A pass to Bernard and a slap in the ribs of Carlisle put two men on the bags and both scored on a long single by Cravath that was poorly handled in the outfield. In the sixth inning Carlisle lifted one to the score board for three bases and he came home when Dillon duplicated the hit. Ellis bunted one along the line that sent the captain home. In the eighth Cravath singled, stole second and crossed the plate on a two-bagger by Jud Smith.

The Seals went to bat in the eighth, with things much against them and little did Hosp think that he was to get his, but he did and he got in good and plenty.

Wheeler was first to go out, but Hosp walked Hildebrand, who went to second while Irwin was being tossed out at first. Williams drove out a double and when Streib walked the bases were jammed with big chief Esola at the bat.

The ex-cop lifted one away up in the air and it dropped over the fence in left field. Willis added to the sport by popping out a single and the Angel captain chased Hosp and set Nagle in.

Shaughnessy was at the bat and he drove one on a line over that left field fence so fast that few people saw it going. This put the Seals one to the good and it looked certain for the Angels but they managed to tie things up in the ninth on some poor baseball. Things ran this way till the eleventh, when Spencer poked a double into right, went to third on a wild pitch and over the plate on a single to right by Wheeler.

KINSELLA BEATEN.

McCREDIE PLAYS POOR BALL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Kinsella, the Beaver pitcher, was touched up for nine base hits today, by the visiting Oaklanders. Two-baggers were numerous and Kinsella was found throughout the engagement freely.

It was not all Kinsella's fault, however, McCredie, who was in right field, seemed to like to hang around the flag pole and the visitors picked out the vacant territory in the neighborhood of the right field foul line and sent a number of wallops in that direction which were retrieved by McCredie only after the batters had either reached second or planted themselves safely at some other station. In the third inning Portland tied the score because Truck Egan erred and Wright developed a wild streak and forced in Mott by walking Donahue, when the paths were loaded.

There were prospects of an easy Portland victory until the seventh, when all hopes vanished, for the score was tied. In the next, the winning score was registered, Califf made an Oakland victory certain. The score:

SUNDAY GAMES ARRANGED.

Games have been scheduled by the Southern State League for next Sunday. The Hoegees meet the Alhambras at the Chutes, Pasadena takes on the Del Reys on the home grounds, and the Morans will make the San Diego trip to meet the Pickwicks.

As the San Diego team has all the old players back in harness, the Morans will probably have the hardest game on Sunday. Manager Palmer, of the Pickwicks, still lays claim to the protested game won by the Morans some time ago, and finally awarded to them at a meeting of the league directors last week. He has agreed to guarantee $90 to the visiting teams for each trip.

The umpiring of Van Hern at San Diego has been very satisfactory, and his work has been designated as the best ever seen in the bay city.

Swimmer Gives Up.

DOVER, (Eng.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Jabez Wolffe, the amateur swimmer, in a fifth attempt to swim the English Channel, today had accomplished a record swim from South Foreland, getting within three-quarters of a mile of Cape Blanc, France, in the fast time of 18 hours, 30 minutes, when the turn of the tide carried him away from the land and necessitated the relinquishment of his attempt.

Tennis at Ventura.

VENTURA, Aug. 6.—The Seaside Tennis Club will remove its courts to the Chrisman lot near the beach at the foot of California street, where a fine new clubhouse and shower will be provided. The opportunity for ocean bathing will be one of the attractions of the new location. Many new members are coming into the club and a match is on the tapis with the Oxnard Country Club.

Balls and Strikes.

If Mugs McGraw has no better luck as a Wall street broker than he has in making the New York Giants stay near the top of the National League percentage column, he had best continue in the ball business. He will find plenty of good fighters in the Street and any number that will trim him to a frazzle.

Norman Elberfeld, the well-known shortstop of the New York Americans, has been indefinitely suspended for indulging in the "sulks." Conroy has been placed at short field.

In a recent series between the Philadelphia and Chicago National teams in Philadelphia, the attendance for f— days was 44,386. What would the Pacific Coast League do if it had two weeks of such crowds?

Runs Away and Dashes Into Track Shed During Third Heat but Comes Back and Takes the Fourth—Geers Thrown from Sulky in Pacing Race, but Escapes Injury.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BUFFALO, Aug. 6.—Sonoma Girl, the unbeaten California mare, and winner of the M. and M. stakes, won a sensational race in the Empire State stakes of $10,000 at Kenilworth Park today. She won the second heat handily.

In the third heat Sonoma Girl broke at the quarter and rushed into the shed, throwing her owner and driver, J. D. Springer, who escaped injury. With the shattered sulky at her feet the mare ran away nearly a mile.

The accident did not hurt Sonoma Girl and she won the fourth and deciding heat.

NEAR HUNTERS' LUCK.

Five Local Men Secure Small Bags of Dove in Two Days' Hunt in San Fernando Valley.

The dove hunting season has just started, but even at this early date comes a tale of wanton slaughter that should be called to the attention of the proper authorities, that something may be done to save the few birds remaining. The record has certainly been broken.

Last Saturday morning, F. H. Hunter, manager of the Germain Seed Company, loaded up an automobile with four of his friends and started for the San Fernando Valley on a dove hunt. There were five in the party and they took along five shotguns and 500 loaded shells. The birds were plentiful and the shooting was naturally good and the jolly party of hunters had the time of their lives. They shot all Saturday afternoon and all day Sunday, according to reports, and returned to town at 4 o'clock Monday morning, very tired and happy, for their automobile was loaded down with six doves. They did not eat one and had no chance to sell or ship any and so they brought the entire load of six birds back with them. There was a grand average of a trifle over one bird for each hunter and in killing the entire lot, they had shot away only 420 shells. They certainly got the limit—that is, the beginner's limit. It is reported that four of the six birds were shot "on the set," but there seems to be a dispute as to whether or not there were three or four shot on the ground.

MAY SUTTON IS COMING HOME.

LEAVES ENGLAND TOMORROW FOR NEW YORK CITY.

Will Bring Trophies Worth Over Six Hundred Dollars—Lost but Four Sets During Her Entire Tour—May Not Return to Wimbledon Next Year to Defend Title.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Miss May Sutton will bring her third lawn-tennis tournament to a close on Thursday next, when she sails for New York, en route to Newport.

The California woman has not played in as many open tournaments as last year, but she has been more successful, and will take back to Pasadena the following prizes: First, in woman's championship at Wimbledon; first, in mixed doubles at Wimbledon; first, in Kent championship; second, in women's double at Manchester; the women's Welsh championship; Lord Bute's Cup, which she won outright.

The trophies she won at Wimbledon and Beckenham, first, can never be won outright. Including the magnificent Welsh Cup, Miss Sutton will take back to California trophies with a value of £120 (about $600.)

In open singles, Miss Sutton has sustained only one defeat. That was at Manchester, by Mrs. Terry. On the whole of her tour she only lost four sets. She went right through the lists at Wimbledon without losing a single set. Indeed, at the premier meeting only Miss Lowther and Mrs. Chambers came within a measurable distance of taking a set from her.

The expert view in this country is that Miss Sutton is the finest woman player Wimbledon has ever seen, and that were she to come over again next year the result would be repeated. It is unlikely, however, that the woman champion will be seen on English courts next season.

ARRIVES FROM PEKING.

Italian Automobilist Makes Long Journey Under Fair Conditions Across Continent.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Covered with dust in begrimed khaki overalls, which were the worse for wear, and sitting in a mud-laden Italian automobile, which still carried the tattered remnants of what once were spick and span Italian flags, affixed at Peking, Principe Borghese, accompanied by Luigi Barzine as chauffeur, ran at a headlong pace into the little village of Muemcherberg, fifty kilometres from Berlin, at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Owing to the uncertainty of his arrival only a few automobiles were waiting, but a hearty welcome was accorded him. The Prince was in good health, with tanned face and seemingly fresh.

While eating German sausage and rolls and quaffing copious draughts of beer in the country inn, the prince explained that he intended starting for Paris Wednesday morning. He estimates the average pace of the whole journey at fifty-five kilometres (about thirty-five miles) an hour. No hostile manifestations on the part of the natives or villagers occurred throughout his whole tour. On the contrary, their behavior was an agreeable blend of astonishment and courtesy. He was greatly pleased with the German roads, which were far better than he had expected.

REFORM TEMPERANCE SYSTEM.

Anti-Alcohol Congress Adjourns With Opinion That Gothenberg Scheme Has Proved Failure.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The eleventh annual international anti-alcohol congress closed today with lectures on the Gothenberg system of serving food with drinks.

Editor L. Junggren, who is credited with making the system practicable said that the system had provel a failure as a factor in promoting temperance because, as practiced, it did not prohibit private profit making, and drinking at the bar was rather encouraged than otherwise by the good food served with the drinks.

It was resolved by the congress that the Gothenberg system badly needed reform if it was to do any good as a temperance institution.

London was selected as the next meeting place.

Exports of general merchandise from the port of New York for the week ending August 3 were valued at $8,502,579.

GANS BOXES SIX ROUNDS.

Takes Chances in Exhibition With Eddie Chambers.

Colored Aristocracy Applauds Lightweight Champ.

Chances of Burns Seem Good Despite Joe's Record.

Joe Gans boxed six fast rounds with Eddie Chambers yesterday in his training quarters at Arcadia. Although Joe held himself under wraps throughout the six rounds, he allowed Chambers to make an impression with Manager McCarey, who was present.

Chambers is a husky lad, who has the reputation of going a draw with Willie Lewis, who beat Joe Walcott, and he made things decidedly interesting for the lightweight champion. He is about ten or twelve pounds heavier than Gans and had Joe puffing throughout the mill. Gans had many chances to bring his right over to the point, but he always held back and poised his "bacon" wing without delivering.

Gans claims to be down to 135½ pounds and he looks to be in first-class shape right now, barring a little shortness of wind. Advancing age has little effect on Joe's cleverness or ring generalship, and should his punching powers and stamina prove to be going back on him, his other qualities may pull him through for several years to come, if he is able to clear Jimmy Britt out of the way. Los Angeles fans regard Burns as much more dangerous than Jimmy Britt, and if Joe beats Burns, he should have little trouble with Britt.

Gans goes about his work in a business-like manner, without attempting to show off before the crowd or indulge in any fancy work. In his bout with Chambers, yesterday, he did not forget to assent try to show the white boy up, and when Eddie became a little too rough he only dodged and blocked a little harder. His face took on an earnest, worried look, however, and he appeared to be just a trifle of roughness about his face, and it may be the ravages of Father Time.

NEGROES JUBILANT.

Colored aristocracy was out in full force, yesterday. They swooped down upon "Fairyland" almost a hundred strong and occupied most of the vantage points and quaffed their refreshments just like the white folks, as Gans went through his training stunts. The negroes are much swelled up over Joe's presence, and they regard his chance as certain for victory.

The old-timers who have seen Gans box, the principal fights can figure out no other result than that he will defend his title successfully. There are few of those old fellows who are willing to admit that age has sapped any of Gans's stamina, and they fail to see any other lightweight of today of the qualities which have made Joe the accomplished punch and clever-ness and ring generalship.

There are hosts of the younger generation, however, who believe Burns is the one man with a chance. They argue that if Gans could not put Nelson away he will be unable to whip Burns, who is a clever boxer, can hit hard, and has plenty of stamina to weather it and absorb punishment.

Gans will box no more until Sunday. The chances he took in his bout yesterday dectied Trainer Keefe that he was taking too much risk of losing a chance to scoop up that $2000. Manager McCarey, who saw Gans work for the first time, yesterday, was sitting on needles throughout the bout, every time they roughed it he could see the club's share of the purse in danger.

The routine indulged in, yesterday, included several rounds of bag punching, the six rounds with Chambers, several rounds with the sand-bag, and shadow-boxing. The workout lasted about three-quarters of an hour. Gans is doing considerable road work, both because he needs it and because he likes the conditions about Arcadia, the fresh air of the foothills, the good roads, and the fresh morning run. The run on the road lasts about two hours. Yesterday morning Gans limited himself to one hour because Joe lost his wind and had to travel a considerable distance to find the way home.

F. W. Leland scored second place with a "45" Stearns six-cylinder car, in 49 4-5 seconds. Towards the end Roberts crept up rapidly on the winner and a short distance further, in the estimation of many, would likely have captured the result.

Chambers is a husky lad, who has the reputation of going a draw with Willie Lewis, who beat Joe Walcott, and he made things decidedly interesting for the lightweight champion. He is about ten or twelve pounds heavier than Gans and had Joe puffing throughout the mill. Gans had many chances to bring his right over to the point, but he always held back and poised his "bacon" wing without delivering.

Gans claims to be down to 135½ pounds and he looks to be in first-class shape right now, barring a little shortness of wind. Advancing age has lit-

To shut on Joe's cleverness or ring generalship, and should his punching power and stamina prove to be going back a bit, his other qualities may pull him through for several years to come if he is able to clear Jimmy Britt out of the way. Los Angeles fans regard Burns as much more dangerous than Jimmy Britt, and if Joe can beat Burns, he should have little trouble with Britt.

Joe goes about his work in a business-like manner, without attempting to show off before the crowd or indulge in any fancy work. In his bout with Chambers, yesterday, he did not for a moment try to show the white boy up, but when Eddie became a little too rough he only dodged and blocked in order. His face took on an amused, worried look, however, and he seemed to his knitting throughout. This appeared to be just a trifle of nervousness about his face, and it may be the ravages of Father Time.

NEGROES JUBILANT.

Colored aristocracy was out in full force yesterday. They swooped down upon "Fairyland" almost a hundred strong and occupied most of the vantage points and quaffed their refreshments just like the white folks, as they went through his training stunts. The negroes are much swelled up over Joe Gans, and they regard his victory as certain for victory.

The old-timers who have seen Gans in his medal fights can figure out to a nicety result than that he will defend his title successfully. There are a few of these old fellows who are willing to bet that age has sapped any of Joe's stamina, and they fall to see in the other lightweights of today the qualities which have made Joe the foremost punch and clever-

Some admirers of the younger generation however, who believe Burns to be a man with a chance. They claim that if Gans could not put Nelson away he will be unable to whip Burns, who is a clever boxer, can hit hard, and has plenty of stamina to stand and absorb punishment.

Gans will box no more until Sunday. The decision he took in his bout yesterday disgusted Trainer Keefe that he was taking too much risk of losing a chance to scoop up that $8000. Manager McCarey, who saw Gans work for the first time yesterday, was sitting in needles throughout the bout, and time they roughed it he could see the club's share of the purse in danger.

The routine indulged in, yesterday, consisted several rounds of bag punching, the six rounds with Chambers, several rounds with the sand-bag, and shadowboxing. The workout lasted three-quarters of an hour.

Joe is doing considerable road work because he needs it and because he likes the conditions about Arcadia, the fresh air of the foothills, the roads, and the fresh morning air. The run on the road lasts about two hours. Yesterday morning he went longer because Joe lost his way and had to travel a considerable distance to find the way home.

AMATEUR GOLF PLAY.

Douglas Fairbanks Entered in the Contest, Which Will Be on at Chicago All Week.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO (Ill.) Aug. 6.—More than 200 golfers drove off today in the opening round in the Western Amateur Golf Championship. The links of the Chicago Golf Club, over which many national and sectional championships have been decided, were in perfect shape for play, and with fair weather conditions, low scores were looked for.

The field of entrants this year is a wide one, players being present from Atlanta, Ga.; Denver, Birmingham, Nashville and including the title holder, Ned Sawyer; Warren K. Wood, who played such a sensational game at Cleveland against Jerome Travers, and Walter Fairbanks of Denver.

The qualifying round today, in which thirty-two qualified, and the first round at match play tomorrow, will be 36 holes. The subsequent rounds of match play will be at 18 holes to the finals Saturday, which will be at 36 holes.

FOUR HURLED TO DEATH IN CRASH.

EXPRESS TRAIN "SIDESWIPES" FREIGHT IN PENNSYLVANIA.

More Than Twenty Are Injured in Wreck of Oil City Express Near Kittanning When, Going at Speed of Fifty Miles an Hour, It Crashes Into Side-tracked Freight.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KITTANNING (Pa.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] While speeding towards Pittsburgh with a train crowded with passengers, the Oil City express "sideswiped" a north-bound freight train at Kelly Station, a hamlet nine miles south of here about 11:30 o'clock this morning. Four persons were killed and more than twenty injured. The dead:

MORGAN IRWIN, engineer express, Oakmont, oldest employé on the Valley road.

MRS. ALONZO HUFF, Johnstown, Pa., returning home from a visit in Clarion county.

WILLIAM HUFF, Johnstown, aged 3 years, accompanying his mother and three little sisters.

GEORGE COCHRANE, Rimersburg, left leg crushed, head cut, died in the Kittanning Hospital tonight.

The injured: Frank Critchlow, Titusville, internally injured, brought to Kittanning Hospital, recovery doubtful; Charles Reese, fireman express, both arms and legs broken and skull crushed, at Kittanning Hospital, condition critical; Myrtle Huff, Johnstown, daughter of Mrs. Huff, who was killed, both legs broken; Marie Huff, Johnstown, another daughter, both legs broken; Mrs. W. P. Peore, Schanburg, Venango county, cut about head and face; D. L. Wright, Oil City, scalp wounds; Samuel Bing, Pittsburgh, cut about face and neck, at Kittanning Hospital; George Cochrane, Rimersburg, left leg broken; C. E. Haffly, Kittanning, mail agent, badly bruised and cut; Albert Michael, Rimersburg, cut about face and hands; Philip Stover, Rimerton, cut about face and head; M. J. Wilkins, Timblin, ribs broken; S. B. Houters, Chicora, bruised and cut about the body; Mrs. J. L. Smith, Mount Washington, both legs broken; Miss Minnie Herheim, sister of Mrs. Smith, internally injured, condition serious; Mrs. L. D. Fiscus, Braeburn, cut about the face, neck and arms; Robert R. Massey, Allegheny, slightly cut; Mary Erwin, East Brady, injured about body; Ben Wright, express agent, terribly hurt about head; J. B. Kistler, Salina, badly cut about body.

The express, running at the rate of fifty miles an hour, met the freight at Kelly Station. While passing it, the freight suddenly parted in the middle, a car jumping across to the south-bound track and the passenger train crashed into it. The engines went down over a bank into a field, followed by the smoker, which was entirely demolished. Engineer Morgan Erwin was instantly killed, being hurled beneath the tender of the engine and jack screws had to be used before the mangled body could be removed. The trip was to have been Erwin's last on the road as he was about to retire.

Corner H. B. Stone announced this evening his intention of conducting a thorough inquiry into the wreck and in his own words, "will sift the whole thing to the bottom."

ORDINANCE STOPS TRAINS.

BELLINGHAM, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In passing an ordinance making it a misdemeanor for locomotives which throw live sparks or coals to run through, or be operated in Bellingham, the City Council last night exhibited one of the strangest moods on record.

The literal enforcement of this ordinance would mean that the roads presided over by Louis W. Hill, Howard Elliott and H. H. Taylor, would have to stop all their trains outside the city limits and haul their freight to its destination in Bellingham in wagons or by electricity.

If the ordinance is not vetoed by the Mayor and becomes a law, all trains, if the regulations are not violated, will be stalled at the city limits in April, May, June, July, August and September. The penalty for violation is from $25 to $100.

ENTNER BEACH RACES PRODUCE NO RECORDS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ATLANTIC CITY, (N. J.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Failure marked the effort to lower the record for the mile today at the Ventner racing beach when Walter Christie, who owned the course last fall in 57 seconds, Montague Roberts, and Thomas racer of Vanderbilt Cup, cleared the distance in 49 2-5 seconds. F. W. Leland scored second place with a "45" Stearns six-cylinder car in 49 4-5 seconds. Towards the end the car crept up rapidly on the winner and a short distance further, in the estimation of many, would likely have changed the result.

DECIDES BOND CASE.

Judge Welborn Rules on the Suit Affecting Securities of Irrigation Company.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Judge Welborn, of the United States District Court in Los Angeles, has just handed down a decision, granting the demurrer of the defendants to the complaint of C. O. Hooker and others, who sued to establish the validity of $31,000 worth of bonds of an issue made by the East Riverside irrigation district, under the Wright act. The court denies the plaintiffs the right to amend, and throws the case out of court. The decision relieves the landholders in the district of an indebtedness of $40,000, which includes interest on the bonds.

ROADS STRIKE AT SHIPPERS.

Lines Allege That if Complaints Before Commerce Commission Go Unchallenged Trust Will Grow.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The railroads struck back at the shipping interests today when allegations were made that many of the complaints of the shippers now on file before the Interstate Commerce Commission had for their purpose the creation of trusts and monopolies in restraint of trade, and that, if these complaints were allowed to go unchallenged and the transportation interests were placed at the mercy of the shippers, there would be practically no limit to the formation of monopolies in the necessities of life.

One of the complaining roads is the Burlington, which alleges that three creamery companies have formed and are now operating a huge trust in cream, monopolizing the cream and butter industries of the West.

Road Sold by Court.

TOLEDO (O.) Aug. 6.—Federal Judge Taylor today announced the confirmation of the sale of the property of the Toledo Railroad and Terminal Company under a Federal decree of foreclosure, to an organization known as the Bond Holders' Protective Committee for the price of $42,000,000.

VACATIONS FOR REAL GOOD.

GOOD ADVICE ON THE SUBJECT BY THOMAS EDISON.

Tells Clerks and Shop Girls How to Rest and Urges Tired City Folk to Go Into the Country and Farmers to Go to Town and Have a Real High Time.

"What are you going to do this year to get relaxation from work that has taxed your strength and brain so many months?" Thomas A. Edison was asked by a correspondent of the Chicago Tribune.

"That's a mighty hard question to answer offhand," he replied. "I suppose every man and woman who has to labor for a living has had to solve the same old question every year since vacations were invented.

"It is perhaps a little different with me than with most people, for my work does not tax my energies in the slightest degree. You see, I have arranged my life scientifically and I go about my work scientifically. Although I work about eighteen hours a day, I am never tired and do not feel the need of a vacation and so I have not given the matter a thought.

"The majority of wage earners do not make up their minds where they are going until the last minute. Then they rush off to some summer resort and plunge into the gayeties and frivolities of the place with great zest," continued Mr. Edison.

"What is the result?"

"Why, they return to their work more exhausted than ever, and with their vitality wasted, instead of strengthened. They are tired and ill natured for several weeks after they get back, for they realize they have really not had a good time. It is like the dark brown taste of the morning after."

VACATIONS AND VACATIONS.

"Well, what would you advise them to do?" questioned the reporter.

"Well, we will first take the clerk. The country is the place for this young man. He should go where he can get away from everything that suggests the city to him. He should go where he can have fresh eggs, fresh milk, fresh air, and fresh scenes. He should get next to nature and stay there every minute of his limited holiday.

"On the other hand, take the farmer. He should go to a place like New York where he can see the tall buildings and visit places of interest, like the Statue of Liberty, Madison Square Garden, and Grant's tomb. The farmer should also visit Coney Island. He should take in all the show places and have a lively old time.

"More important than all is the vacation of the shop girl and the girl who is compelled to work in the stuffy sewing room of some factory all day. These plucky young women certainly should give careful thought how they intend to spend their vacations, for they have need of good health.

FOR THE WORKING GIRL.

"Shun summer resorts, I say to these young women. Go to the country, take the rest cure for your tired nerves. Take a stock of light novels with you and spend your time out in a hammock or lying on the lawn reading. Take long sun baths. For exercise take walks through the fields and if there is a lake near by go rowing.

"Don't under any circumstances go to resorts where you will be up late at night dancing and overtaxing your strength. Get a real rest. You need to get away from this or you will shorten the length of your life.

"Of course, all depends on the environments and surroundings of every person as to what kind of a vacation is most suitable. But there are few who do not need the absolute rest they can get in the country. It is an unfortunate fact that not many of our shop girls do this. They are a splendid class of Americans, fighting with courage the battle to support themselves and their families, but they are silly when they select summer resorts and seaside places for the holidays.

GOLF FOR BUSINESS MAN.

"I would suggest as a vacation for the business man who has been under a constant mental strain for a year, that he take up some line of sport he is interested in, like golf, baseball, or boxing. Any of these sports will distract his mind from business worry, for in a few minutes a man forgets everything but the sport he is engaged in.

"Every business man should have a hobby. A man who has a hobby to ride is fortunate, for it relieves his mind of worry and always gives him needed rest.

"Business men also should get away from the city. A trip to Europe is good if he will only forget the stock market and other interests at home. An ocean trip is healthful and gives needed rest to those who know how to take it.

"To those who are fortunate enough to own automobiles there should be no difficulty in getting an enjoyable, helpful vacation. I like this kind of a vacation myself."

OBITUARY.

Miss Margaret Fowler.

DETROIT (Mich.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Miss Margaret Fowler, the English composer, musician and philanthropist died at Grace Hospital in this city early this morning. Grief over a brief separation from the woman companion to whom she had been devoted for more than thirty years together with the fatigue from the long journey from London is said to have been the cause of her death.

William S. Alley.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—William S. Alley, a member of the New York Stock Exchange, committed suicide at the Larchmont Club last night by shooting. He died while being removed to a hospital. Mr. Alley had been a member of the exchange since 1878. He was 55 years old. Friends believe despondency over financial troubles was the cause of the act.

TO ARRANGE FOR PLANT.

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 6.—Engineer Mulholland of Los Angeles is expected in Tehachepi this week to arrange for the building of the plant for the manufacture of cement for the Owens River conduit. This will be located on the Blackley-Cuddeback ranch, which was purchased by Los Angeles recently. The cement clay will be taken from the bed of the Salt Lake, and lime will be secured from a claim not far from the Jameson property. A tunnel has already been run here for a good distance, and a splendid quality of lime rock has been secured.

The news of the formation of a combination of makers of laundry machinery has been received in New York financial districts with interest. One of the features of the American Laundry Machinery Manufacturing Company, as the new combination is known, is that no bonds have been issued and the financing has been done wholly in stocks. Its authorized capital is $12,500,000 of which $2,500,000 is preferred stock.

WANTED — WE PLACE MORE COMPEtent men and women in reponsible positions than all the other agencies in Los Angeles combined. The largest firms and corporations in Los Angeles, Pasadena, San Diego, San Bernardino, Riverside, San Jose, Bakersfield, Phoenix, Tucson, Bisbee, Douglas, Globe, Goldfield, Tonopah and other cities in California, Arizona and Nevada, call on us from time to time for brain workers. We are not confined to one or two lines of business but furnish first-class people in all lines. Whether the order be for a young man or woman at $60 a month, or one commanding a salary up to several thousand dollars a year, we give it our careful attention and select the right person for the place. The next issue of Gold vs. Brains, a novel publication issued monthly from this office, will be read by thousands of employers. For a small amount we describe the qualifications of those we register, giving to each person a number. In this way they are enabled to reach the notice of thousands of firms which employ high-class people. Perhaps the most convincing argument we could make to you would be to exhibit a list of names of hundreds of employes we have placed, together with a list of the employers to whom we have permission to refer. Our plan has always been to everyone a square deal, and no man or woman with whom we have transacted business has ever complained of our methods. STOCKMAN'S WILD RIDE IN RUNAWAY TRAIN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] J. T. Bennette, a stockman of Los Angeles, who was the sole human being on the runaway freight train in Cajon Pass Monday evening, making a thrilling dash of fifteen miles, makes the startling charge that the entire crew deserted the train on the siding to ride back with the locomotives to Hesperia for water and that but for the Salt Lake Limited being a few minutes late in leaving Barstow, it would have encountered the runaway freight at Victorville, in which event frightful loss of life could not have been avoided.

Bennette tells a remarkable story of his wild ride. When the engines were detached he was preparing to go to sleep in the caboose, having started from San Bernardino from Oro Grande with fifty-six head of cattle consigned to Julius Oehl here. He soon heard something crack and felt the train start. As its speed increased he realized something was wrong and, looking out, saw the train rushing as through a sea of fire, every wheel splitting sparks.

The wind extinguished the lamps in the caboose, but he managed to close the doors. He tried to climb to the cover, hoping to get a glimpse of the region through the windows, but the jolting of the train prevented. He then got to the brake-wheel, and exerted all his strength in an effort to stop the train.

The runaway seemed fairly to plunge down the mountain. Descending into Verde ranch, part of the train leaped into the ditch, rolling 300 feet. Farther down, another section plunged from the track and instantly was enveloped in fire.

As the train shot by Victorville, Bennette caught a glimpse of the operator rushing into the depot. The latter wired to Oro Grande to ditch the runaway as the Salt Lake Limited was then due.

By some means a brakeman boarded the train at Oro Grande, and between them they stopped the train, which would have plunged into a train of rock in a moment more. Out of the fifty-six head of cattle, Bennette recovered forty-five, though their car was smashed to splinters. He says only four cars and the caboose were saved.

The remains of William Jobbett of San Diego, who was killed in the wreck, have been received here. Brakeman Frank McCoy of San Diego, who was injured, is very low at the County Hospital, and may not survive the night. Estimates of the loss, including equipment, range from $300,000 to $800,000, the latter estimate being that of trainmen.

COLORADO'S FINE MARBLE.

PRONOUNCED EQUAL TO BEST PRODUCTS OF CARRARA.

A Mountain Deposit That Has Been Waiting the Advent of Railroad Facilities—Importance of the Stone in Building Operations Long Been Recognized.

The town of Marble, Colo., is nestled on the west slope of the Rocky Mountains in Gunnison county, forty-five miles from Glenwood Springs. Hitherto it has been but a sleepy mountain hamlet, but it is now the scene of unusual activity of the workmen, who are opening up what are believed to be the world's greatest marble deposits.

The marble deposits of Gunnison county have been long known and have frequently been examined by scientific men and others. Their value has been fully appreciated for years, but the long distance of nearly fifty miles to railroad transportation made it impracticable for anyone to engage in quarrying operations. However, the railroad is approaching the town of Marble and by the middle of June or the first of July at the latest, the Crystal River and San Juan line will be completed, with its terminus at Marble. The wealth that lies dormant along the Crystal River and its tributaries will then be readily available.

In connection of the early completion of the railroad, one company already has many thousands of tons of marble quarried and contracted for, ready for shipment as soon as the railroad is ready to receive freight. Numerous other mineral claims have been staked out in the neighborhood, so that it is very clear that this will soon become one of the most important marble producing districts in the United States.

To properly appreciate the extent and importance of the marble production of today. For monumental purposes, marble has been almost supplanted by granite, for the reason that granite will hold its polish indefinitely under all sorts of weather conditions, while the ordinary quality of marble will not. For the purpose of statuary, the finest grade of pure white marble obtainable is required, this coming from the celebrated quarries of Carrara, Italy. It is used for structural purposes, interior finish for decoration, and furniture making and marble finds its greatest field of usefulness. For building purposes it is surely the most beautiful, but one of the most durable of all stones, withstanding with little impairment of heat that disintegrates granite. The Parthenon, at Athens, built of Pentelic marble, to-day bears the fact that that noble type of classic architecture still endures. For structural purposes, New York City uses an average of 1,000 feet of marble every day; the daily consumption of the entire country is estimated at not less than 1,000 cubic feet, or more than 365,000 cubic feet each year. The quantity of marble used annually in the United States has doubled every year for the last quarter of a century. To meet this rapid multiplying of demand the great quarries of Vermont, Massachusetts, New York, Tennessee, Georgia and other States have been taxed to their utmost capacity.

Miles south of the town of Marble, on the steep sides of Treasure Mountain, have been opened what is expected to develop into the greatest marble quarries, on account of a mountain torrent, known as Yule Creek, fed by the snows far above. The deposits can easily be worked from open cuts above the level of a branch railroad that will be built up Yule creek. The blocks of marble will then be hoisted to the railroad, instead of being hoisted from the bottom of deep pits by means of expensive machinery, as in the case of many of the great marble quarries of the East and South. Some of the marble of Vermont, Massachusetts and New York are several hundred feet deep, involving great labor and expense to get the huge blocks to the surface. Near the quarries are large and extensive plants in which the blocks of rough marble from the mines are sawed into the sizes desired by the purchasers. Much of it goes into thin slabs, for wainscoating, mantels, table tops and similar uses, or into oblong blocks, to be used for columns, pillars or the like. For monuments, Polishing and carving are rarely done at the quarries, this being left for the workers of the localities in which the material is to be used.

The stripping of marble on Treasure Mountain is traceable along the ridge for many miles, showing that a large part of the bulk of the mountain is composed of this material. Where it is exposed on the surface, the action of the sun and frost has given it a weather appearance, and this portion is valueless. At a depth of from five feet, however, it is found hard, solid and crystalline. As explored, the deposits have been found to be more than 700 feet deep, in successive layers of which show a great variation in texture and coloring, adapting them to many different uses. Some strata are coarse and of little value. Others are fine for building purposes. Still others admirably adapted to the use of the furniture maker, or for statuary use, and one thick stratum at the bottom is said to be entirely composed of the finest grade of white statuary marble. Nor are the colors less diversified than the qualities ranging from pure white to pure black, with various shades of green and gray, and strata beautifully grained and mottled.

Marble is nothing more nor less than crystallized limestone. It is to the fact that it is composed of countless multitudes of tiny crystals that it owes much of its beauty. Vermont supplies 80 per cent. of all employed for monumental purposes, and Georgia most of the remainder. The most famous of the Vermont quarries are located at West Rutland, Proctor and Brandon, where some of the finer grades are taken from a depth of more than 400 feet. At Lee and Pittsfield, Mass., also, some of the best grades of white marble are secured. The greater part of the colored marble used for interior finish, mantles and furniture tops are secured in Tennessee, the most important shipping points being located near Knoxville. For structural work, large quantities of this material are obtained from St. Lawrence and Westphalla counties, N. Y.; from Pickens county, Ga., and from the neighborhood of Cockeysville, Md. Practically all of the white marble used in recent years for statuary purpose has been obtained from the famous quarries of Carrara, Italy. Select specimens of Colorado marble have been submitted to many American and foreign sculptors, all of whom have pronounced it in no way inferior to the best products of Carrara. Other famous marbles are those of the Island of Paros and Mt. Pentelacus, but now rarely employed, because the deposits are practically exhausted.

Figures are entirely inadequate to give an idea of the amount of marble contained in the rugged sides of Treasury Mountain, but they will help. There are 43,560 square feet in one acre. Multiplying this by the depth to which the marble beds have been examined, 723 feet, we find that one superficial acre of Treasury Mountain contains 31,493,280 cubic feet, or 2,624,470 tons. One acre, therefore, is capable of supplying all the marble used in the world for years. Yet there are tens of thousands of acres in this mountain, and the deposits may extend to several times the depth to which they have been proved.—Duluth Herald.

CHINA'S IRON MILLS.

Plenty of Iron Ore and Coal and a Modern Mill Equipped With American Machinery.

Even "cheap Chinese labor" cannot make iron at a costy that will justify its shipment across the seven seas to compete with the furnaces of Pittsburgh and Birmingham, but that China has pig iron in any quantity is an importance fact. Her people have been making iron for thousands of years. They have smelted the ore for the iron pots that are used in every household, for their spears and other implements of war and peace made by native blacksmiths and the product may be found in every village in a hundred different forms; but pig iron and steel rails have been made only at once place for the lost fifteen years and the cargo of 5000 tons brought by a tramp steamer to New York was from the furnace at Han-Yang, on the Yang-tse River opposite the city of Hankow and on the other bank of the Han River from the city of Wo Chang. It was brought as ballast, there being no other cargo available at the moment, and the demand for iron in the United States is so much greater than our furnaces can supply that it was sold at a good profit over and above the cost of transportation.

The furnaces and rolling mills at Han-Yang were built by the venerable Chang Chih-Tung, who was regarded as the ablest and most progressive man in China. Mr. Liang, the next Minister to the United States, who succeeds Sir Chentnug in October, was private secretary to the Viceroy at the time the mills were built and was actively instrumental in carrying out the enterprise. They were put up by a Mr. Kennedy, formerly of the Carnegie Company at Homestead, and are now in charge of Li-Ye-Chin, who was secretary of legation at Washington under Minister Chu from 1889 to 1892. A few years ago Mr. Li revisited the United States, made an inspection of the furnaces and iron mills of this country and purchased a million dollars' worth of modern machinery which has since been installed in the Han-Yang iron works.

All the rails used by the Chinese government in building its railroads have been rolled at these mills and the material has been smelted. The ore comes from the province of Hunan, near Foo Chow, and the coal is brought from Ping-Hsing, where the Marquis Sheng, who has been a prominent promoter of railways, telegraphs and other enterprises, has extensive mines. There is plenty of coal in various parts of China, sufficient to supply the demands of centuries, but iron is comparatively scarce, and is found in Hunan and Shen-Si provinces only. The Han-Yang mills are kept running night and day, but even then they are not able to supply the local demands, and Sir Chentung recently placed an order with a Pittsburgh company for 3000 tons of eighty-five-pound rails to be used in the construction of the railway from Hankow to Canton, which was undertaken, but abandoned, by an American syndicate.

Mr. Chung Mun Yew, who was here as secretary of the Chinese legation under Minister Wu Ting-Fang and his predecessor, and was so popular in Washington society, is no wmanager of the Shanghai and Nanking Railway with headquarters at Shanghai.—[Chicago Record-Herald.

An earthquake shock was felt Monday at Valparaiso and the instruments in the Marine Observatory at Frieste recorded heavy earthquake shocks yesterday morning about 2500 miles distant.

Attempt to Poison Animals.

An attempt was made to poison the lions in the Zoo at Chutes Park last night by throwing sugar of lead in the water trough in the cage. One lion became sick, but an antidote was administered in time to save the animal's life. A bottle was found near the cage labeled, "sugar of lead."

Cards sent to the new arrival were answered by a statement that at present he could not be seen, and they respectfully referred all callers to S. J. Whitmore, vice-president and general manager of the Alexandria Hotel Company—the happy father of a bouncing boy.

WEDDING SIMPLE AND ELEGANT.

Everything in Readiness for Marriage of Senator Beveridge and Miss Eddy.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Simplicity and elegance characterize the arrangements at the palatial residence of Ambassador Tower, where everything is in readiness for the marriage of Senator Beveridge and Miss Katherine Eddy tomorrow.

The ceremony, which will take place at high noon, will be performed in the presence of a small group of relatives, including the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus N. Eddy of Chicago, the members of the embassy staff in Berlin and a limited number of friends of both families.

After the services the party will be driven to the home of Spencer Eddy, where the wedding breakfast will be served. The plans of Mr. Beveridge and his bride are kept private, but it is probable that the bridal tour will take them to some quiet resort in the south of Germany.

SPENDERS AND SAVERS.

Volumes have been written, sermons have been preached and even songs have been sung from time immemorial regarding the different classes into which the human race is divided, but after all, there are only two classes between whom there is a real and distinct dividing line; the spenders and the savers.

The accomplishment of the great works of any age—the building of the houses, the mills, the bridges, the railroads, the ships and everything that has furthered man's advancement and happiness has been done by the savers. The spenders carried up the bricks for the savers who built the house.

The trouble with most men is that they are not willing to climb the road to wealth by industry, temperance, frugality and honesty, but spend all their time looking for the royal road that will enable them to attain the desired goal without sacrifice or effort on their own part.

It does not require superior courage or virtue to be economical. Economy means to do without some little thing today, so that we may have something greater and better in the future.

Let us look back for ten years over the life of the spender. How easily he could have saved a dollar each week, without depriving himself of one single comfort or pleasure. Had he done so, his bank account would now amount to $520 plus the interest. No matter how small the income, a portion of it should be religiously saved.

Begin now—today, at once—purchase independence and throw off the yoke by starting a bank account. If you cannot spare $5 start it with $1. If you cannot spare a whole dollar begin it with 10 cents and before another year rolls around you will know how good it feels to have a bank account.

An absolutely free offer to be announced by The Times in next Sunday's issue, will start you in the right direction.

TAINT OF WEALTH IN COLLEGES.

Chancellor of New York University Urges Change in Policies of Schools Catering to the Idle Rich.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—"More than one university is today in danger of being misunderstood because a few trust magnates are giving millions of dollars to them," declared Henry McCracken, chancellor of New York university, in an address delivered at the summer school of the university today.

"Such universities are in danger of being reckoned the purchased servants of a narrow caste. The sure and efficient way to escape this suspicion is for them to rid themselves of idle undergraduates who make no end of trouble and to devote their money and energy to giving instruction and inspiration to the public teachers throughout the land. In a word, let the university cease to serve so largely the unprofitable few and rather serve the productive and industrious many.

"I admit that the other policy of securing a multitude of undergraduates, among them the sons of the very rich and of catering to their tastes, builds up endowments most surely. But patriotism commands to give aid to the men and women on whom rests the weighty responsibility of assimilating the millions of immigrants who come to us every year."

THREE YEARS FOR JILTING GIRL.

Private in Army Sentenced for Breaking Promise to Marry and Defrauding Maid.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LEAVENWORTH (Kan.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Private James M. Pyne, Sixteenth Artillery Battery, was tried by court-martial and sentenced to three years in the military penitentiary for breaking his promise to marry and defrauding a girl of money. The girl is an army nurse, whose name the military authorities refuse to divulge.

Pyne became engaged to the girl, who lives away from here, and represented that he had passed an examination for promotion to an officer, and he borrowed $5 from her to fit out in uniform. He borrowed a second time, and, shortly before the date set for the marriage, he said that he would lose a fortune left by his father if he married in five years.

The court-martial found that Pyne's conduct was a disgrace to the uniform and to the prejudice of good order and military discipline. Gen. Godfrey approved the sentence today.

MRS. FISH SCORES POINT.

Society Leader Will Not Allow the Mesdames Goelet and Vanderbilt to Help Her Welcome Prince.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEWPORT (R. I.) Aug. 6.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Ogden Goelet and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt are to have no place in the festivities in honor of the Crown Prince William of Sweden, who will arrive here August 22, for five days' visit with Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish. For the first time on the occasion of a visit of a distinguished nobleman here, Mrs. Fish has absorbed the situation. Mrs. Ogden Mills and Mrs. Edward J. Berwynd have been let in a little bit.

The cottagers, who are naturally much interested in the matter, cannot but view it in connection with the Fish-Harriman railroad controversy, and so they take it to be Mrs. Fish's first victory.

As Cornelius Vanderbilt stood with Harriman, Mrs. Vanderbilt is not to have any part in entertaining the Prince, and as Mrs. Goelet is Mrs. Vanderbilt's sister, she is also with the "outs."

MILLIONS ADDED TO THEIR ASSESSMENTS.

Railroads in California Taxed for Higher Values Based Upon Earnings and Mileage — Los Angeles County Assessment Satisfactory.

STATE railroad assessments for the fiscal year 1907-8 were completed by the State Board of Equalization on Monday, and are here made public for the first time.

A total increase of $32,346,804 is the result of the labors of the commission, to which must be added $521,591 assessments on new roads, making a total increase of assessments on railroad property for the State of $32,868,395 for the year. This increase brings the total railroad assessment by the State for this year to $113,822,216.

State Controller A. B. Nye has been making a fight in the board for an assessment based upon the earnings of the railroads for the extra four months from March to June 30 as the end of the fiscal year. But the law in such cases specifically states that the railroads must make their reports to the State board on the first Monday in March. The board took these reports as the basis of arriving at the earnings. Upon the assessments themselves, as finally made, it is reported that Controller Nye agrees with each one.

At the meeting of the State board it was also decided that Los Angeles county will not be required to go before it to show cause why its State assessment should not be raised, the board having decided that the showing as made by the county is entirely satisfactory.

Commissioner Jeff McElvaine, for the Southern District, whose home is in San Bernardino, was in Los Angeles yesterday and speaking of the work of the commission made the following interesting statement:

METHOD OF ASSESSING.

"For three weeks the board has been in daily session examining the reports submitted by the railroad companies operating in more than one county. The recent Legislature adopted almost unanimously for submission to the people a constitutional amendment proposing to tax the gross earnings of public service corporations for support of the government of State. This constitutional amendment proposes to tax all railways 4 per cent. of their gross earnings.

"Even before the adoption of such amendment by the Legislature, that is to say, for the assessments of 1906, the State board adopted the proposed plan in arriving at an ad valorem valuation, but exacted only 3¾ per cent. of gross earnings on broad-gauge lines. For the 1907 assessment, however, the board has "gone the limit" and exacted the full 4 per cent. on all railways, broad and narrow. As a result nearly all the railways are given a big increase in valuation.

"The Central Pacific has been increased $6,275,273. This places an assessment of $27,596.69 per mile, an increase of $7493.15 per mile over 1906, and as the county assessors have an assessment against the Central Pacific of $5,296,505, compels this road to stand a total value per mile of $34,467.20.

"The Southern Pacific Railroad's increase is $13,906,978, and nets an assessment by the board of $22,009.85 per mile, an increase of $5749.66 per mile over 1906. Against the Southern Pacific Railroad, the counties have an assessment of $10,750,611, thereby making a total assessment of $26,507.56 per mile.

LOSES BOTH WAYS.

"The Santa Fé reported to the board this year its earnings over the entire system of railways owned and operated as a system, some 8144 miles. The report showed that the company had earned in the State in round numbers $1,500,000 less than it did in previous years. The report was not satisfactory to the board, and the members resolved to assess the Santa Fé on a different basis. Upon a comparison of the 1906 reports to the State board, it was found that the earning power per mile, gross and net, of the Santa Fé were about 5 per cent. less than the Southern Pacific Railroad. This rule was adopted in making the assessment after ascertaining the assessed value per mile of the Southern Pacific Railroad. The board deducted therefrom 5 per cent. and used the difference as the assessed value per mile of the Santa Fé. This rate was established at $22,069.01.

"It is shown that this is $60 in excess per mile of the Southern Pacific Railroad, but this is accounted for by reason of the board's applying the basis rate per mile to the entire mileage of the Santa Fé in California, 1267.38 miles plus 67.01 miles from Kern to Mojave. Owned by the Southern Pacific Railroad, but over which the Santa Fé has trackage rights, and which, of course, earns for the company at the same rate as their own mileage.

"This 'trackage' right procedure was also applied to the Salt Lake road, that road having 'trackage' rights of 101 miles operating over the Santa Fé and Southern Pacific railroads in Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

INCREASE ON SLEEPERS.

"The Pullman Company has been increased something over one million dollars. As has been stated in the press many times, the Pullman Company refuses to give to the State board any information whatever as to its earnings either in or out of the State, the report being made only upon rolling stock used over the several interstate railways, operating in California, with a proportion of such cars due this State. In making the assessment, therefore, the board endeavored to arrive at a fair value per car of the standard Pullman and tourist cars allotted to the State in the report and assessed the same, together with the franchise for operating in the State, at $1,625,527."

The following table as prepared by the commissioners shows assessments of the several railway companies as made on Monday.

OFFICERS COW MOB OF JAPS.

TAKE ORIENTAL PRISONER AT EL MONTE CAMP.

With Drawn Revolvers Guardians of the Peace Arrest Their Man in Face of Five Hundred Snarling, Ugly Coolies—Constable and Deputy Sheriff Knocked Down.

Covering with their revolvers an angry mob of 500 Japanese coolies, near El Monte, Deputy Sheriff B. R. Davisson, Constable John Thomas and D. H. Thomas of Monrovia and Deputy Constable Lester Burdick and George Broadard of El Monte effected the arrest of N. Nakaskima.

Nakaskima is one of three Japs who have been running saloons and resort places in the camp city in the old San Gabriel River bottom, a mile south of El Monte.

Arraigned in Justice Glover's court in Monrovia yesterday he pleaded guilty to the charge of illegal selling of intoxicants and was fined $50, leniency being shown because of his plea of ignorance of the laws.

About 600 Jap coolies of a rather unusual physical type, being of much larger stature and coarser features than the average, are employed by the Pacific Electric Company ballasting the Covina branch. For a long time it has been known that liquor was freely sold in the camp to the coolies and to white men in the vicinity as well. It was almost impossible to secure evidence. Deputy Constable Burdick, however, after many futile efforts, succeeded in getting conclusive evidence against one of the three men—known to be engaged in the traffic.

It was thought quite possible that trouble would result if Nakaskima were arrested while his countrymen were in camp. It was arranged, therefore, to take him in the afternoon while the men were working, but Nakaskima had gone to Los Angeles, and did not return until night.

When arrested he resisted and his compatriots swarmed out of their tents to his assistance. Deputy Sheriff Davisson and Constable Thomas were knocked down and severely bruised, and for a moment it appeared as if the 500 howling orientals would rescue their comrade. Deputy Constable Thomas leveled his gun at the mob, and Davisson, regaining his feet, did likewise.

The five officers—one with the prisoner, two with captured liquor, and two acting as rear guard—backed to their wagons a few rods away. The Japs were frantic with rage and but for the menacing guns would have made short work of the little force of officers.

SUIT CASE SUIT.

Former Councilman Spook Howton Made Defendant in an Action Brought in Township Court.

Suit was brought in the Township Court yesterday against Arthur D. Howton, former Councilman, for the price of a suit case. The Sun Drug Company has assigned a claim for $10.50 against the spook politician to the Merchants' Trade Exchange. The latter concern, through N. J. Ockskreider, is pressing the claim, together with a bill for $60 which the Meyberg company claims is due it.

The suit case, it is alleged, was purchased and not paid for by Howton a year ago last May, when he was about to leave for a summer outing. The electric fixtures bill is for chandeliers at Howton's new residence, No. 243 East Thirtieth street. The papers were filed in Justice Stephens's court late yesterday afternoon.

CORPSE AS PLAINTIFF.

Defense to Suit Is That Dead Man Has no Standing in Court.

How can a dead man sue is a question which Harrison Oliver and Mrs. Oliver are puzzling over. They are defendants in a suit brought ostensibly by H. M. Rodman as owner to eject them from three lots in East Santa Monica.

The complaint recently filed in the Superior Court was verified by Richard R. Tanner as attorney instead of Rodman. Now the answer to the complaint has been filed by the defendants through their attorney, H. H. Roser, and their official defense is that as H. M. Rodman is dead he has no standing as a plaintiff.

Oliver and his wife took possession of Lots 16, 17 and 18, Block 35, East Santa Monica, three years ago under a delinquent tax sale. They expected to get title to the lots after paying taxes on the lots for five years. Now they claim that some one else wants the lots and has taken this method to get them off.

BANG! GOES THE AUTO.

Young Man "Cleans" Gasoline, and Fire Department Wonders How He Still Lives.

Burning up an automobile to get rid of the gasoline is liable to prove an expensive scheme for Willie Klinkenstein.

Monday evening Engine Company No. 4 was called upon to put out the flames on a blazing automobile belonging to the Haas-Baruch Company. Willie says he will pay.

The company supplies its salesmen with autos, and Monday evening one of them managed to spill a lot of gasoline over the machine and under it, and was considering the best way to get the gasoline off.

"I'll show you. Give me a match," said Klinkenstein, who is an employé of the company. He got the match, lit it and touched off the gasoline.

Bang!

In a moment the automobile was a mass of flames and the gasoline tank exploded. How the young man escaped with his life is still the wonder of the fire department. What is left of the auto will belong to Klinkenstein when the company gets the cash.

LANCASTER WIDE AWAKE.

Votes Special School Tax of One Thousand Dollars for Post-Graduate Grammar Course.

School trustees and taxpayers generally throughout the county will be much interested in an opinion the District Attorney has just rendered on the status of two laws passed by the last Legislature, concerning post-graduate courses in both grammar and high schools. He holds in effect that such new courses are luxuries and must be provided for by a special tax in the district effected, and that no State or county school money can be used for their support.

These new laws will give rich school districts in the country a chance to have post-graduate courses in both high and grammar schools. It was understood last winter by a number of interested taxpayers that these new courses could be paid for out of the district school funds, but the District Attorney now says they are special courses that must be paid for by a special tax.

The little Lancaster district, in the northern end of the county, is the first to take advantage of the new laws. It has voted a special school tax of $1000 and the trustees have petitioned the county Board of Education to grant it a post-graduate grammar grade course of two years, and President W. A. Sheldon, Secretary Mark Keppel and B. H. Donnell have been appointed a committee to arrange the course.

SEASON'S FIRST SUGAR.

Large Consignment from Visalia Factory in Which Los Angeles People Are Stockholders.

The first shipment of this season's beet sugar arrived in Los Angeles yesterday from the Visalia plant of the Pacific Sugar Company, in which a number of Los Angeles people are financially interested. The season's campaign at the Visalia factory began July 30 and the first sugar made was shipped to Los Angeles, but it was delayed en route. The shipment consisted of three carloads, consigned to Los Angeles wholesale grocers. Regular shipments will be made hereafter until the close of the season, which, contrary to expectations, will be about the usual length. The other factories in this part of the State have not begun operations.

DAILY STRAW VOTE.

A straw vote among officials, employés and callers at the City Hall, yesterday, on the selection of a successor to President Roosevelt, resulted as follows:

Taft	22
Hughes	9
Fairbanks	8
Cannon	3

DEMOCRATS.

Bryan	14
Williams	5
Folk	5
Hearst	1

Taft and Bryan each received enough votes to nominate on the first ballot.

ON PONY ODD TALE HANGS.

Happy-Go-Lucky Days of Old Are Recalled.

Title to Home Given After Nearly Half Century.

Owner's Wife Also His Step-Granddaughter.

For the first time in the forty-five years of his undisturbed possession of his tiny home near Los Nietos, Juan Canedo, an aged Spaniard, now has a deed giving him a clear title. He got the deed yesterday. Back of this simple fact is a story characteristic of the old California days, when the happy-go-lucky Spaniards gave freely of their abundance.

The story centers around a pinto pony, fleet of foot and silky of coat, owned by Juan Canedo and his pretty wife, who lived in an adobe built on the big Colima ranch.

Jose Colima, one of the four heirs of this ranch of 32,000 acres, saw the pony and offered to buy it. Real money was scarce, so, when the pinto finally changed owners, Colima drew up a deed, transferring to Canedo the plot of land, "fifty yards square," on which stood the little home. Jose Colima didn't own—except in prospect—a foot of the land he disposed of so easily. But what one member of the Colima family did, the others upheld. So the quasi deed stood, and for forty years the little plot of land was recognized as Colima's.

Recently the need arose of fixing road boundaries and it seemed necessary to clear the old man's title to his home.

When asked if he had any paper to show his ownership Canedo said, "But yes. See! Here I keep it for forty years!" He measured carefully part way up the adobe side of his house, and began to break away the plaster coating of the wall. Soon a tiny little vault was seen, in which lay the yellowed paper, signed years before by Jose Colima.

Canedo was induced to deed his home to Sid Pittman, who now owns all the surrounding ranch land with clear title, and then Pittman re-deeded the place to Canedo, thus clearing the title.

The old man's second wife, it may be explained, incidentally, is also his step-granddaughter, being the grandchild of the wife of his youth, and half a century younger than himself.

BATTLE-SCARRED EYE IS SACRED.

A CRIMEAN VETERAN PREFERS DEATH TO LOSING IT.

When Surgeons Tell Him Ulceration Will Prove Fatal and Urge Operation, He Disappears from the County Hospital—His Regiment Saved by Charge of "Six Hundred."

Rather than lose his battle-scarred eye by an operation, Ferdinand Besti, a veteran of the Crimean War, 82 years old, ran away from the County Hospital yesterday afternoon. The doctors insisted on removing his left optic. When Besti left his ward he declared that he would carry his sightless eye to the grave.

"There's no light in that eye, but I'm going to take it with me. I saw a battlefield strewn with dead and dying Russians at Inkerman before it went out. Near the close of the fight a bursting shell wounded me. It blinded me, but my eye is still there. I wouldn't lose that eye for a thousand dollars."

Thus spake Besti to the inmates of Ward No. 11, where he has been acting as sentry for a year. Besti has friends in the city. He ofttimes wanders away for a day or two to visit them, but returns to his ward, which is the only home he knows.

Besti's eye has irritated him for some months but he refuses to have it attended to. The physicians tried vainly to get his consent to have it removed.

When Besti was told the ulceration of his eye would result in his death it did not move him. He shook his head when the operation was mentioned.

From youth Besti's life has been adventurous. Born of a poor family in Spain, he worked for his living from childhood. He roamed a great deal while a boy. His first trip was to France. He learned the language and worked in some of the largest vineyards in the country.

When France allied herself with Turkey and England to check the spread of Russia's rule in Crimea, Besti enlisted in the army. He was 28 years old, and that was in 1853. He served in the infantry, which was mowed down by regiments. In one action the division in which Besti fought was saved from annihilation by the charge of the immortal "Six Hundred," who, a day afterward went to their death. It was upon this battlefield Besti was wounded.

Besti worked his way to the Pacific Coast about twenty years ago. His friends here were farming in the valleys long before the rush for gold.

He was taken to the County Hospital two years ago, and has been a character there. The training of the army can be seen in him. As sentry his cot is near the ward door, and when a patient stirs, Besti rises on his elbow and inquires, "Who goes there?"

The hospital authorities believe he will return.

SUES IN NEW YORK.

J. M. Scanland of this city recently brought suit against H. M. Breen and the Mining Topics Company in New York, for $120, claimed to be due for mining letters furnished by Scanland. The company disputed the correctness of the account, but Scanland's attorney showed a letter from Breen agreeing to pay a stated sum. Ninety dollars was finally offered and accepted as a compromise.

PAYING THIRTY-SIX PERCENT.

The Rice Ranch Oil Company declared its regular monthly dividend of 3 cents a share yesterday. The books close August 15 at 5 p.m., and will remain closed until after August 20. The dividend is payable on the latter date, when the sum of $9000 will be disbursed to the stockholders.

FLAMES LICK BEAUTY SPOT.

Fire About Lake on Baldwin's Ranch Sweeps Away Picturesqueness.

For three blistering hours yesterday afternoon a score of residents and rangers fought with every agency and device at their command the flames sweeping through the magnificent oak groves on Baldwin's Rancho Santa Anita. The area devastated lies north of the Foothill boulevard and embraces about forty acres. It was one of the most picturesque reaches on the ranch, including the little lake which has been the theme of many a photographic view, one of which, with sheep drinking from the lake at sunset, is a Southern California classic.

Much of the land has never been cleared from brush through which the flames swept an invincible red torrent. Some of the largest and most beautiful oaks were destroyed in the section of the tract. The fire was started from a cigarette stub dropped by a boy who, with a score of others, was swimming in the lake. C. C. West, whose new home is a short distance north, aided the boys to extinguish the blaze. A smoldering ember, fanned by the sea breeze, burst into flame yesterday afternoon and soon ignited the dry grass and brush.

Frontier Ranger Jesse Sevier was soon at the scene and sent in an urgency call to other members of the force. Ranger George Crow of Sierra Madre and two fire guards employed at Azusa, and Glendora by the San Gabriel Power Company responded. The highway north of the Foothill boulevard served as a firebreak, and enabled the rangers and ranchers to prevent the spread of the conflagration to the mountains. For some inexplicable cause the number of fires along the range frontiers so far this season has exceeded the total since 1906. Only the abiding watchfulness and skill of the small ranger force has prevented disastrous mountain conflagrations.

STREET CARS HOODOOED?

Series of Accidents on Boyle Heights Line Give Motormen and Conductors Uncanny Thrills.

Passengers on Boyle Heights car No. 879 of the Los Angeles Inter-Urban Company were frightened and shaken up, yesterday afternoon at East Fourth and Gertrude streets. While the car was going about twelve miles an hour a front axle snapped off, bumped against the bottom of the car, and caused a panic. The coolness of the motorman saved the passengers from injury. About forty were on the car.

When the break occurred the momentum of the car was such that there was danger of throwing it clear of the tracks. Quickly the brakes were applied and the disabled coach brought to a stop.

The car was jacked up, the broken axle removed, and it was pushed to the end of the line, where it remained until midnight, when it was taken to the barn for repairs.

Three hours later another accident put a Boyle Heights car out of commission. This time it was the controller. The "overhead" spat out jets of electric flame and finally, as the car reached the viaduct, the controller blew out, and the passengers waited in darkness. They were transferred to another car, and the second "hoodoo" was towed off.

A third accident came at 9 o'clock after car No. 874 had made an eventful run from Main street to the viaduct. The trolley flew off at every curve, the controller blew up, and the overhead switch spirted blue flames. Finally the crew was obliged to telephone for instructions. The car was able to reach the end of the line by its own power, though the passengers crowed toward end because of the lurid fire which played constantly around the plucky motorman's head.

Several motormen and conductors of the Boyle Heights line declared last night that a hoodoo has struck it.

BOILER NEARLY EMPTY?

Inquest Over Bodies of Victims of Locomotive Explosion May Fix Blame for Accident.

An inquest will be held this afternoon over the bodies of Frank Phillips and James J. O'Connell, victims of the freight locomotive boiler explosion on the Santa Fé near Capistrano, Monday afternoon.

After being hurried to the company hospital in this city, late Monday night, Phillips, who was a conductor, died early yesterday morning. At the time the Coroner had already begun preparations for the inquest to be held over the body of young O'Connell.

Blame for the accident, if such blame existed, will be established this afternoon at the Bresee morgue, where the inquest is to be held. It has been reported that there was not enough water in the boiler, and this allegation will be investigated.

Phillips, the conductor, had been in the employ of the Santa Fé for several years. He lived at San Diego and was one of the oldest men on the line between that city and Los Angeles. O'Connell was 29 years of age and lived at No. 1543 St. James street. He was the sole support of his widowed mother.

According to the statement of Engineer Luce, who escaped with a sprained ankle, Conductor Phillips at the time of the explosion was talking to the fireman. The escaping steam enveloped them both. O'Connell was horribly injured and died before he reached Los Angeles.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Proponents of the Gothenburg plan for regulating the liquor traffic have started a movement to have the system made a part of the new city charter.

An internecine strife over the selection of a police commissioner has awakened a number of sleeping feuds in the Eighth Ward.

Jesus Solis preferred charges of false arrest against Police Officer Talamantes before the Police Board yesterday.

Carlo Erbetti, defendant in a peculiar criminal trial in the Superior Court, yesterday, was found not guilty of the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Ham Sam Kay, charged with assault with intent to commit murder, was placed on trial in the Superior Court yesterday. A Chinese witness gave a surprising opinion of the effect of lying under oath.

H. L. Smith, a motorman, was arraigned yesterday in the Police Court on a charge of having wilfully obstructed the passage of the police ambulance.

The first scandal of the Russian colony was revealed through the arrest of Mrs. Fakoff, accused of having disturbed the peace of little Tekla Spoff.

AT THE CITY HALL.

GOTHENBURG PLAN AGAIN.

PROJECT PROPOSED AS PART OF NEW CHARTER.

Royal Arch Sounds Rallying Cry to Ward off Assaults of Prohibitionists—May Be Submitted to the Electors as Alternate Proposition—Campaign of Education.

Rumors were afloat at the City Hall yesterday that an attempt is to be made to incorporate in the new city charter the Gothenburg plan for regulating the liquor traffic in Los Angeles. The committee that first started the Gothenburg movement here is reported to be active in securing for the Charter Revision Committee men who are willing that the Gothenburg system shall receive a trial.

Several Councilmen reported that they have been approached by persons friendly to the Swedish plan for turning the saloons of the city over to a benevolent corporation. Some of the legislators express interest in the project, more pronounce it a dodge of the prohibitionists to turn Los Angeles into a dry town.

Already the members of the Royal Arch are preparing their defense. The saloon keepers are banding together for mutual protection against the assaults they expect to meet while the new charter is forming. The reckless ones are boasting that any attempt to "monkey" with the liquor ordinances will spell defeat for the charter.

The Gothenburg plan was discussed here two years ago when a committee attempted to enforce its adoption through the medium of an initiative ordinance. Solicitors were placed in the field and enough signatures of electors were secured to compel the Council to call a special election. But the ordinance was never presented to the Council. The proponents encountered unexpected opposition from those who had voted solidly to make of Los Angeles a prohibition town.

The system as proposed for Los Angeles provides that the 200 saloon licenses shall be reduced in number to 75, that these shall be issued to a corporation pledged to run the saloons in the interests of sobriety and good citizenship. It was even proposed that the barkeepers shall receive a commission from the sale of soft drinks.

The committee was pledged to pay to the city as much revenue as is derived from the 200 saloons. The barrooms were to be converted into club and reading rooms, where food should be served as well as liquid refreshments. The committee was to close all saloons in objectionable localities.

William Mead, Homer Laughlin, O. T. Johnson and twenty other wealthy citizens formed the original committee. In order that the Gothenburg plan may not endanger the adoption of a new charter it is proposed that the question be submitted as an alternative proposition, then it could be defeated and a new charter still ratified.

TROUBLE IN "DE ATE."

SLUMBERING FEUDS AWAKE.

A number of slumbering feuds have been awakened in the Eighth Ward by a discussion over the selection of a new Police Commissioner. It appears that certain Eighth Ward statesmen are convinced that the Mayor will name the next commissioner from the ranks of the Democratic party in that bailiwick. Louie Collette secured the Mayor's ear first, but a number of others appeared yesterday, working strenuously to reduce Collette's leads.

The combination known as the old Oswald push in the Eighth Ward is out fighting the selection of Collette. Councilman Healy is taking the lead in this fight. Collette fought Healy for election any Healy will fight Collette's confirmation as a Police Commissioner.

Among Collette's backers are the Democrats who supported Tom Savage. These are extremely bitter in their denunciation of the anvil chorus directed at Collette by the Oswald factions.

Mayor Harper expresses supreme disgust at the manner in which his retainers are scrapping over the police commissionership.

Through three administrations the Eighth Ward has sought to secure a personal representative on the Police Board. It was the one boon demanded of the organization at the City Hall. Mayor Harper was inclined to give representation on the Police Commission to this never-failing Democratic stronghold; but he quit cold when the faithful commenced to scrap among themselves.

Yesterday afternoon the Mayor sent for Nathan Cole and told him that he must remain on the commission, nominally at least, until the summer is over. He agreed to give Cole a furlough to go north during the sugar season.

"I think he will stay for a while, at least," said the Mayor last night. "I don't want him to quit and he promised this afternoon to stay by me for a while longer."

The squabble in the Eighth Ward over Cole's successor is offered as an explanation why Cole's resignation did not go to the Police Commission yesterday. Unless a sudden compromise is effected it is possible that "de ate" will lose its opportunity to select one of its own for Police Commissioner.

JESUS ANGRY.

CHARGES FALSE ARREST.

Through the medium of an employé named Jesus Solis, J. P. Goytino has preferred charges against Police Officer Talamantes. Solis alleges that Talamantes caused him and four other persons to be arrested and held on a charge of "suspicion" at the City Prison in order to give vent to personal spite.

Solis was among those present when Talamantes and other officers raided Goytino's place last Saturday night. He is out on bail awaiting trial on a charge of gambling.

The Police Commission listened to his complaint yesterday, but declined to set his case for hearing until the cases pending against Solis and the others in the Police Court are decided.

Allen Qualifies.

Billboard Inspector Allen has lasted safely through the civil-service ordeal and is now eligible for permanent appointment as inspector of bill boards. Allen finished second in a class containing a number of candidates. Under its rules the Civil Service Commission submits two names for each position. This will bring his name regularly before the Mayor for appointment.

Herculean Task.

The Finance Committee is undergoing a severe ordeal in its attempt to clip $1,000,000 off department estimates of expense for the fiscal year in order that they may conform to the city's estimated income. A member of the committee expressed the opinion last night that the task is more arduous than the labors of Hercules. He says there is a semblance of fairness in the request made by each department head for an increase for his office; but the ugly fact remains that the $1,000,000 must come off or the city cannot pay.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

CHEERFUL GRIN IS INFECTIOUS.

TITTER IN COURTROOM FOLLOWS CHINAMAN'S ANSWER.

Witness in Assault Case, When Asked His Idea of Sacredness of Oath, Smiles Pleasantly and Replies: "If I Tell Lie Here, I Will Die."

The second trial resulting from the shooting in Chinatown on June 17 began yesterday in the Superior Court. The defendant in this case is Ham Sam Kay, charged, jointly with Soo How Foo, with assault with intent to murder one Chin Hee.

The first trial resulted in the conviction of Soo How Fow of assault with a deadly weapon, and his sentence was set for yesterday morning. It was, however, deferred until such time as the verdict in the present case shall have been rendered.

H. V. Henderson, a police officer, who was stationed in Chinatown at the time of the shooting, yesterday testified to hearing the shots and running to a stairway leading to an opium joint in the rear of No. 316 Marchessault street. There he found the defendant, Ham Sam Kay, in the parlor, and in an adjoining room a revolver, which smelled of newly-burned powder, was discovered.

Chin Sue, who testified as an eye witness to the shooting, was interrogated exhaustively by Judge Smith, as to his understanding of the nature of an oath.

"What will happen to you if you break your oath?" was asked.

"If I tell a lie here I will die," answered the witness with a cheerful grin.

There was a titter in the courtroom, and several of the jurymen smiled broadly.

The trial will proceed this morning.

JURY OUT LONG.

ERBETTI IS NOT GUILTY.

Nearly fourteen hours after the case was given to them, the jury in the case of Carlo Erbetti, tried on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, yesterday morning brought in a verdict of not guilty.

The case was a peculiar one. Three distinct lines of defense were resorted to, each succeeding one necessitating the complete abandonment of the one which had preceded it.

Erbetti was accused by Joseph Doglia of getting him to pay $252 for two shares of Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company stock while the stock was selling on the market for $40. The defense at first held that it was a case of "let the buyer beware," and that one might sell stock for what he could get for it.

This being overruled, another tack was taken, and finally a claim was made that there had been a partnership between Doglia and Erbetti for the purpose of selling Marconi stock to countrymen of the great inventor at exorbitant prices, and that the receipt given by Erbetti to Doglia was only part of a scheme. The partners had quarreled, and the criminal charge had resulted.

This was the defense which proved effective, placing both parties to the action in an unpleasant light.

During the trial many Italians were in the courtroom, and showed great interest in the proceedings.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVIEIES MISCELLANEOUS.

SALARY FOR JUSTICES. Justice Summerfield yesterday received a message from the clerk of the Supreme Court stating that the court had passed unfavorably on the second appeal taken by Justices Pierce and Stephens from the decision upholding the legislative act which provides for a salary instead of the fees system of payment for the justices of Los Angeles township. The Supreme Court, according to the message, declines to review the case.

DETECTIVES SUED. Another damage suit against policemen, alleging false arrest, was filed yesterday in the Superior Court. The plaintiff in this case is Narciso Fernandez, who could not write his name, but states decided objections to an arrest which is described by his attorney as "without warrant or probable cause." The complaint presents an unlovely word-picture of the City Jail cell in which Fernandez is alleged to have been kept on the night of August 3. Damages in the sum of $5000 are asked for. The arrest took place in a raid on an alleged gambling house.

ARSON CHARGED. Complaint charging arson were issued yesterday by the District Attorney against Crystabelle Morley and Henry Sanderson. The latter is in the County Hospital, suffering from burns received in the explosion in the house at No. 504 Woodward avenue, and could not be brought into court. Mrs. Morley was brought before Justice Selph and held in default of $1500 bail. The preliminary examination was set for August

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

FOR DELAYING POLICE WAGON.

MOTORMAN IS ARRAIGNED AND WILL DEFEND HIMSELF.

Accused of Disregarding Warning Gong and Sending Car Across the Street in Front of Approaching Ambulance — Little Russian Girl Accuses Woman.

Charged with having interfered with the police ambulance, last Saturday night, while the wagon was returning to the Receiving Hospital after a hurry call, H. L. Smith, a motorman, was arraigned before Justice Fredericksen in Police Court, yesterday, and announced his intention of fighting the case.

The prosecution of Smith and the defense which he promises to make form another chapter in the history of the railway fight for complete control of the right of way. In several similar cases the motormen have been backed by the company officials. The city in the present prosecution will try to establish a precedent that cannot be questioned.

Driver Bartlett, in charge of the patrol ambulance, was returning from the Santa Fé Station, when the accident happened. He had gone to the station to get a tramp arrested there, and just as he arrived Dr. Day, a late physician of Los Angeles, collapsed in front of the station. The stricken man was placed in the ambulance, which was driven rapidly toward the hospital. At First and Spring streets, a West Ninth-street car, north bound, began to move across the street directly in the path of the ambulance. The gong of the latter was ringing, so that it could be heard a block away, but the motorman paid no heed to it. Despite Bartlett's efforts to get the ambulance out of the way, the fender caugh the wagon wheel, and a delay of four minutes resulted.

Smith declared that he was in the right yesterday, and entered a plea of not guilty. According to the statement of the drivers, the street cars on the downtown lines have recently delayed the ambulance frequently. An ordinance makes it a misdemeanor to interfere with an ambulance, but the motormen, it is said, often pay no heed to the sound of the wagon's gong.

Little Girl Complains.

Mrs. Ama Fakoff, who lives on East First street near Turner, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging her with battery. The complaint was sworn to by Tekla Spoff, a pretty little girl, 14 years of age, who lives on Clarence street. The case will be tried in court today, and when its details are revealed the Russian colony will be shocked.

The trouble because of which the complaint was issued yesterday occurred Sunday night.

Little Tekla, it is alleged, had been looked upon with favor by the husband of Mrs. Ama Fakoff, who followed him every time he visited the Spoff home. The members of the Spoff family allege that Fakoff called only t otalk business with the head of the household.

Sunday night, Fakoff left home early. He was away until 12 o'clock, when he told his wife he had been to the theater. She did not ask questions. She was sure she knew who her husband's companion at the show had been. In the dead of night she went to the Spoff home and pounded on the door. Papa Spoff stuck his head out of the window and wanted to know what was wrong. Words followed, and the whole family came out on the sidewalk.

Then Mrs. Fakoff, it is alleged, told Tekla what she thought of her. The conversation was carried on in Russian, and some very long words were used.

When the neighborhood became quiet again, the Spoffs held a conference, and decided to carry the case to court.

Auto-Car Fight on.

William Cosby, the automobile dealer of No. 2602 South Main street, who blocked the cars of the Los Angeles-Pacific Railway Company for fifty-five minutes Monday afternoon on Fourth street, was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday. He announced that he would fight for his rights, and would carry the case to the Supreme Court if necessary. He will plead before Justice Fredericksen Thursday.

HER DEATH ACCIDENTAL.

Coroner's Jury Returns Verdict in Case of Woman Killed by Revolver Bullet Sunday.

A Coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Mrs. Frank C. Ellers, who Sunday morning during a quarrel with her husband, received a fatal wound from a revolver bullet.

The police stated that there had been a struggle. The woman's eye was discolored and there were several scratches on her face.

The husband was intoxicated, it was alleged, at the time of the shooting, but Mrs. Ellens, in an ante-mortem statement, exonerated him and said that she turned the revolver upon herself in order to scare him, and pulled the trigger by accident.

Why He Failed.

A boy returned from school one day with a report that his scholarship had fallen below the usual average.

"Son," said his father, "you've fallen behind this month, haven't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"How did that happen?"

"Don't know, sir."

The father knew, if the son did not. He had observed some dime novels scattered about the house, but had not thought it worth while to say anything until a fitting opportunity should offer itself. A basket of apples stood upon the floor, and he said:

"Empty out those apples and take the basket and bring it to me half full of chips." Suspecting nothing the son obeyed.

"And now," he continued, "put those apples back into the basket." When half the apples were replaced, the boy said:

"Father, they roll off. I can't put any more in."

"Put them in, I tell you."

"But father, I can't put them in."

"Put them in? No, of course you can't put them in. You said you didn't know why you fell behind at school, and I will tell you why. Your mind is like the basket; it will not hold more than so much. And here you've been the past month filling it up with chip dirt—dime novels."

The boy turned on his heel, whistled and said, "Whew! I see the point!"

Not a dime novel has been seen in the house from that day to this.—[Cut Gems.

JEALOUS, HE SHOOTS WIFE.

Then Sends Bullet Into His Own Head.

Double Tragedy May Result in Death of Both.

Realty Man Accused, but He Makes Denials.

T. H. Chapman, an expert accountant, but driving a water wagon, shot and probably fatally wounded his wife and himself at her home, No. 207 East Fourth street, about 5 o'clock last evening. Notes found in Chapman's clothing by the police link the name of W. W. Gray, a real estate dealer, with that of Mrs. Chapman. The authorities say that jealousy was the motive for the crimes.

Just before the tragedy, Mr. and Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Mandus, their niece, were out on the porch. Mrs. Mandus left the husband and wife talking and went into the house. She had just entered the hall when she was startled by four reports. She turned around and saw her uncle and aunt lying on the floor of the porch, which was being stained with their blood.

Pedestrians in the street rushed to the scene, but all were so distracted by the sight of the blood and the prostrate forms of the man and woman that they did nothing. Patrolman Pursell reached the house within a few minutes after the shooting. His first act was to stop a United States mail wagon and impress it into service as an ambulance. Chapman and his wife were taken to the Receiving Hospital. Later the wife was removed to the County Hospital. Late last night surgeons said that both the man and the woman have a slight chance to recover. Chapman is wounded in the head and his wife has two bullet holes in her skull and a wound in her hand.

For the past two years Mr. and Mrs. Chapman have been living in Los Angeles. They came from Battle Creek, Mich., where Mrs. Chapman was employed as a nurse in a sanatorium. She was then the wife of Charles Weise. She met Chapman about seventeen years ago and became infatuated with him. He says that they are married, but relatives told the police last night that there had been no formal ceremony.

BECOMES SUSPICIOUS.

About the first of the year Chapman began to entertain the idea that his wife was infatuated with a real estate man. A note, dated February 13, indicates that he had meditated taking revenge both upon the real estate man and Mrs. Chapman. At that time Chapman was employed by the city water department as a wagon driver.

The note referred to was written to Chapman by the woman. It reads:

"February 13, 1907. Tom: I have gone and if you see Ray tell him I said he had better go down to Coxes and stay, as I expect to go North. Good-by. BARBARA."

Below is written the following, which is in Chapman's handwriting: "I was off to work and this is the letter she wrote to me after they had lived up all I had. T. H. CHAPMAN."

"P. S.: If she had left the country this would not have occurred but she remained here only to hound me to death. Let those suffer now that are guilty."

From the condition of the paper it is believed that this postscript was written some time ago.

The "Ray" referred to by Mrs. Chapman is her son, Ray Weise, who is 19 years old and is said to be employed as a Southern Pacific fireman here.

Chapman evidently felt that he had been abused by the son, as he refers to him in a note written yesterday, and addressed "to whom it may concern," it reads:

WRITES THREATS.

"I have been robbed and lied to by this click until I can endure it no longer. I have done everything in my power to settle this matter but of no avail. So I will resort to this. The end has come. This real estate man that is here had caused a great deal of trouble, and if he was here he would not bother another man's wife but he is not. But he had better beware. There are other men that believe as I do and he will receive his just dues. There is seventy dollars in my pocket. The dress my wife has on I bought her yesterday and we have been married 17 years. Avoid publication for the sake of my dear sister, if you please. Good bye.

"P. S. This woman has fooled a great many men and sent them to hell, but she will not fool any more. The boy I have raised from the time he was two years old and he never did, and will never help me any. When he got big enough to work he did all he could against me and now he can bother with the cold side of the world and think of the past. The old man, his own son, when he was told that he was about to die said let him die and go to hell that is where he ought to be."

Still another note was found written upon the business card of W. W. Gray, who advertises his business as "real estate, rooming houses and rentals." The address: "Office, 207 East Fourth street," is written in pencil. The note reads: "This man's place is in hell. If he was here, he would be there soon."

It appears from the conversation that Mr. and Mrs. Mandus had with the police that Chapman was cruel to his wife and forced her to leave him. They declare that he often wrote her threatening letters and said that he would "cut her heart out and show it to her."

FAILS TO SUPPORT WIFE.

The police alleged that Chapman refused to support his wife. They declare that Ray Weise was forced to go to work when only a boy to support his mother. They deny any knowledge of the real estate man to whom Chapman refers.

Mrs. Chapman is about 44 years old, and a well preserved and attractive woman. Her husband is one year her senior. When they first came to the Coast they lived in San Francisco, but later went to Sacramento. When they came to Los Angeles they at first lived on South Olive street. Recently, it is said, they lived at No. 1315 Wall street.

The police learned from relatives of Mrs. Chapman that her husband had recently taken rooms at No. 312 East Fourth street so that he would be able to watch his wife.

It is said that Chapman sat upon the porch of his lodgings and watched Hayward, Mrs. Mandus and her child and Mrs. Chapman as they sat upon the porch of their home across the street. When Chapman saw Hayward go away he crossed the street. He shook hands with Mrs. Mandus and patted the baby upon the head. He seemed nervous but Mrs. Mandus said that she thought that he was restless for fear Mrs. Chapman's father would return, he having ordered Chapman not to appear at the house. After conversing with Mrs. Mandus, that woman told the police, Chapman turned to his wife for the first time and asked her to go into the parlor to talk to him. All the time he was rubbing his forehead with his left hand and held his right hand on his hip.

Mrs. Mandus said that she took her child and went into the house. As she closed the screen door she heard four shots fired in quick succession. She turned and saw Chapman fall upon the steps and Mrs. Chapman lying by her chair.

SHE TRIES TO ESCAPE.

It appears that the woman had risen when she saw her husband draw his revolver and had attempted to snatch it from his hand.

While at the Receiving Hospital, Mrs. Chapman talked at intervals, but was in a dazed condition. At one time she said: "He shot me. My husband did it. We separated three days ago and he was jealous. I did no wrong."

CHEWS TOBACCO AT HOSPITAL.

Chapman, at the Receiving Hospital, chewed tobacco while the doctors were examining him and it was with difficulty that the doctors succeeded in making him give it up.

At the County Hospital Mrs. Chapman was operated on last night.

Chapman regained consciousness during the night. He talked rationally at times.

When asked why he shot his wife, he declared that she would not work and that he had to adopt strenuous means of making her do his bidding. He soon relapsed into unconsciousness.

W. W. Gray, the real estate dealer, lives at No. 3274 East Fourth street and transacts his business at his home. He was formerly a member of the real estate firm of Wooster, Donaldson & Gray.

GRAY'S STATEMENT.

Gray admitted, last night, that he knew both Chauman and his wife. He seemed surprised to learn that Chapman had written notes in which his name was used.

"I am not guilty of any misconduct toward Mrs. Chapman," said Gray, "I only met her in a business way during the day time. I am never away from my home at night except on Thursday when I attend lodge.

"About four weeks ago I arranged the sale of the rooming-house at No. 307 East Fourth street and had all my dealings with Mrs. Chapman. She did not appear to be infatuated with me and she did not talk of love or such things. All was strictly business. I arranged the insurance on the house and furniture for her and helped her in any way that I could. I do not love her, and only regarded her as I would any other customer.

"I don't know why Chapman should couple my name with that of his wife. If he killed her for jealousy of me he had no cause to do such a foolish thing. I did not know until tonight that Chapman had not been in the habit of living at home. He was employed by the city as a water wagon driver, and that's about all I know of him."

MRS. GRAY ADDS WORD.

Mrs. Gray, wife of the realty man, listened to the statement of her husband. When he had concluded, she said:

"I knew this was a case of jealousy. People have called me up over the phone and told me things. The real estate business is the worst business on earth. You must get out of it right away. I'd rather have you dig ditches than be engaged in selling houses to women and getting into trouble. It's a wonder he didn't kill you."

According to Gray, Mrs. Annie Dominguez holds a first mortgage on the rooming-house which Mrs. Chapman purchased. He says he first heard of the tragedy through Mrs. Domingues, who told him Chapman had killed himself in a fit of jealousy.

... Denies Threatening to Choke His Wife.

...ight have said just 'hell' to him, ...e to hell,' but I never swore at ..." declared Mrs. Kate A. Conrad ...e witness stand yesterday in the ...per Court, in the trial of an action for divorce two days after her legal residence was established, though she insisted that she never had thought of divorce before.

The witness declared her husband was not so blind as he pretended to be and that he had read about the Stackpole case and the Thaw case to her from the newspapers.

HAS DEFENDERS.

For the defense several witnesses were called to show that the defendant could not read newspaper print, and found it difficult to walk about.

"I thought he was drunk when he first came to my house," said a woman to whom he had tried to sell a sewing machine, "the way he stumbled about."

The chief charge in the complaint, supported by Mrs. Conrad's testimony, was that on the night of February 22, 1907, Conrad, who had been drinking, raged through the house, hammering at doors and saying he would break them down, and threatening to kill his wife and daughter, who had taken refuge in rooms which lodgers gave up for their safety.

Conrad, when he took the stand, admitted that he had been drinking that night, and that he made some disturbance, but declared he had thought his wife was not in the house, as she had

"I didn't say I would choke her, but I did say I would choke Kirsch. He was trying to boss everything in the house, even my little girl, Irene. My wife did his washing for him without charge, and I helped. I always did part of the washing, every week, and scrubbed the porches on my hands and knees.

ANXIOUS TO CHOKE BOARDER.

"I'm sorry I didn't choke Kirsch. I was blind and I couldn't find him. One of the lodgers told me he had left the house, and that you could have played checkers on his coat tails when he went. I wish I could have got hold of him, but I couldn't see him.

"Mrs. Stowe was in our room about twenty-five times a day. I couldn't stand her. I told the misses that she had to keep Mrs. Stowe out of there or I'd go. I did leave on February 27. We agreed to divide the furniture even, and I told her to be honest about it and not steal; but I guess she did steal quite a little, because I got only about one-third."

Conrad had taken what furniture he got as his share, and had opened a smaller lodging-house.

Judge Bordwell spoke briefly, in deciding the case, against the plaintiff and denied the plea for divorce. He said that as Mrs. Conrad had known Paul Conrad since she was a girl of 12, and had been his wife for eighteen years, it was rather late in the day for her to decide she did not want him any more.

IN REALTY CIRCLES.

Several Sales of Property in Southwest Section of City at Prices Showing Good Values.

M. O. Tremain has sold to R. E. Barry and M. A. Millbank, through the agency of G. W. Jordan, a lot 45x140 feet, on Vermont avenue, 130 feet north of Jefferson street, for $7500. The property is improved with a two-story frame eight-room house. A vacant lot, 45x140 feet, on the east side of Vermont avenue, 350 feet south of Washington street, has been sold to W. T. Dufree by John A. Jordan, for $3600, by the same agent. A vacant lot adjoining has been sold to Edward Miner by Edward Casey, through the same agency, for $3600. The fact that the city has passed an ordinance to pave Vermont avenue has sent property values on the street several notches higher, and has also stimulated inquiry and helped sales.

Ralph Kaser has sold to Mrs. Charles Snyder a two-story eight-room residence at No. 2233 Budlong avenue for $5000. The property is handsomely improved. The sale was made by Althouse Bros. The same company also has sold for A. A. Graff to J. S. Siems, an unimproved lot on the southeast corner of Washington street and Western avenue, 60x130 feet, for $4500. Mr. Siems is a retired manufacturer from Nebraska, and is planning to improve the corner with a handsome dwelling within a few months. Althouse Bros. and Arnold & Dodge have sold to Mary A. Cushing a vacant lot in Ramona Park, on the north side of Second street, 50x152 feet, for $750. The property will be improved at once.

SILK STOCKING THIEF.

Police Think Westmoreland Place Burglar Is Woman—Several Other Robberies Reported.

Burglars entered the house of George Goldsmith at No. 967 Westmoreland Place, Monday night, and carried away a quantity of silk hosiery, two amethyst necklaces, two pearl pins and underclothing and linen belonging to Mrs. Goldsmith (Lillian Burkhardt.)

The police believe that a woman had a hand in the affair, as Goldsmith's clothing was not touched. The jewel necklaces and pins were valued at $1000.

At the home of Louis Hill, No. 243½ South Spring street, pass-key thieves helped themselves to Hill's clothing. The prowler assorted neckties and took those that suited him. He also stole a fancy vest, a suitcase, several suits of underwear and some towels.

Several other thefts were reported to the police yesterday.

UNLIKE OTHERS IN THE WORLD.

UNIQUE FEATURES IN NEW WELL AT COALINGA.

Casing Will Cost Thirty Thousand Dollars, It Is Said—Hole Eventually to Be Probably Three Thousand Feet Deep—Independents Fix Minimum Oil Price at Fifty Cents.

Oil men are very much interested in the K., M. and T. Company's well, now being drilled at Coalinga. In some respects it is said to be unlike any other in the world. The eighteen-inch special casing is half an inch thick, weighs ninety-six pounds to the foot, and is eight-thread. There is an eighteen-inch spear.

The eighteen-inch casing is down 2000 feet, and the fourteen-inch, which will be the next size used, will go down 2600 feet. Then the well will be finished with ten-inch, at a depth, it is expected, of 3000 feet.

All the casing is special and as the entire three strings are to be left in, the cost of the casing alone, at Coalinga, will be over $30,000.

Not Let-up in Output.

There are no signs of any let-up in the output of the Lucile well. All producing wells in the Coalinga field are being worked, but no perceptible increase in production is looked for until the end of the year.

Independent Price.

At the meeting of the independent oil men in Coalinga, Saturday, no definite action was taken, but the general feeling was that no oil should be contracted for at less than 50 cents per barrel.

Water Shut Off.

The Section Six Company has landed its six and five-eighths casing in its well, and successfully shut off the water at a depth of 2174 feet. Oil sand is expected to be struck in about the next hundred feet.

Pipe for Long Line.

Pipe is now arriving in Bakersfield for the 258-mile pipe line from Bakersfield to Point Richmond, which will be a rival of the Standard line which covers the same territory. The pipe will be the rifled kind, which has proved remarkably successful.

WRECKED, THEN ARRESTED.

But Contractor Is Saved from Drowning and a Complaint Against Him Is Dismissed.

Louis Malkus, who had been arrested on a complaint from his home in Louisiana, charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses, was released yesterday after information had been received by the police that the warrant against him had been dismissed.

Malkus and his wife were passengers on the ill-fated Columbia and were rescued by the crew of one of the long boats.

Upon his arrival in Los Angeles the man was arrested on a charge preferred by his former business associates. He is a contractor and had begun the erection of an Odd Fellows Hall at Crowley. Before the hall was completed, he started for California. His business associates, fearing that he might not complete the contract, filed the charge against him.

Malkus announced, yesterday, that he intended to return to Crowley at once.

IN SELF-DEFENSE.

Goldfield Raises Fund to Entertain the Press Humorists Often Convention in Los Angeles.

Goldfield has raised a fund of $5000 toward the entertainment of the press humorists, who will hold their convention in Los Angeles September 15 to 22. Well-known writers from all over the country will attend and on the day the convention closes here they will take a special train direct to the land of gold, good-fellowship and gumption.

Secretary Searight returned from Goldfield yesterday, enthusiastic over the enthusiasm of the desert mining town, which, he says, is looking more and more to closer relations with Los Angeles commercially. The gold diggers are preparing to give the "time of their lives" to the press humorists, and a special plea will be made to have Mark Twain, who is a member of the association, present at the high jinks.

On September 20 there will be an entertainment in the Auditorium at which Rev. Dr. Burdette will preside, for the benefit of the Bill Nye monument fund, the monument to be reared at Laramie. There will be a number of speakers seldom seen at one time on the platform.

Andrew Carnegie has deposited in the bank of England $500,000 as a contribution to the King Edward Hospital fund.

Why Baby's Food Disagrees
An unnatural food is almost certain to disagree with baby.
Did you ever hear a well mother, who was nursing her baby, say that baby's food did not agree with him?
Almost never.
Mother's milk is nature's food.
Sanipure Milk is nature's substitute for mother's milk. It contains the same things mother's milk does—in almost the same quantities, is more nearly like mother's milk than any other infant's food.
Cow's milk forms hard, lumpy curds in the baby's stomach—that is why foods mixed with unchanged cow's milk do not agree with baby.
Sanipure Milk is cow's milk with the faults left out. The formula is on every can—show it to your doctor.

Korea does not accept punishment from its Japanese stepmother like a child trained to obedience.

Japan is to economize by reducing its army in Korea. Lives will be saved by such action as well as money.

There are a good many new ways of making money, but the old way of earning it honestly is still the most satisfactory in the end.

If it be true that when a woman grows fat she ceases to be fascinating, the fact still remains that she can always have a crowd around her if she is a good cook.

The whole country has been interested in watching "Jimmie" Garfield grow. And it would be interesting in watching Los Angeles grow were he able to remain here awhile.

Twenty-five dollars bail money added to the original cost of his revolver makes it an expensive weapon for the young Boston man trying to reconcile western stories with western life.

If the city has its way, there will be no gin mills near the aqueduct construction camps, but it will take a regiment of rangers to ride herd on the bootleggers that will infest the desert.

Walter MacArthur, one of the delectable labor quartette that has been ruling San Francisco, says industrial wars are on the decline. True; but it's not his fault nor the fault of the likes of him.

Los Angeles not only boasts the finest pipe-organ factory in the world, but has the greatest pipe-dream foundries ever seen. Some of the latter are working overtime turning out mining stock.

The hotel man at a certain summer resort who tried boarding pretty girls free of charge as an attraction has quit. He didn't know there were so many pretty girls or that they had such good appetites.

The landlord trust for the promotion of race suicide gets the decision over Barney Healy; but Barney says the referee was prejudiced, and demands another go. It is hoped that Barney has a solar plexus blow in reserve.

That Coney Island man who calmly went to church Sunday morning while the flames were eating up $1,500,000 worth of his uninsured property proved that the philosophy of the Christian is at least equal to that of the stoic.

San Francisco is now in the anomalous position of bankrupting herself to save herself from bankruptcy. She supports her jurors like millionaires and her indicted criminals as though they were foreign potentates on a visit to the municipality.

The St. Paul Pioneer Press points to agricultural results obtained about Los Angeles as evidence that more can be done in the same direction in Minnesota. It is hard work to make the people of other States stay away from this all-the-year-round locality.

Of six assailants of women and children in New York, last Sunday, five were Italians or Sicilians. In Pennsylvania, troops have been called out to suppress the bands of Italian brigands operating under the Black Hand. Evidently the "crime wave" is a ground swell from the Mediterranean.

It is hard to say which is the more menacing to society: The "crime wave" alleged to be sweeping over New York, or the wave of homicidal hysteria induced in the street crowds by the sensational exploitation of crimes in the daily police gazettes that have taken the place of newspapers in that mad city.

TRANS-MISSISSIPPI CONGRESS FOR LOS ANGELES.

The eighteenth annual session of the Trans-Mississippi Commercial Congress will be held in November, this year, at Muskogee, Oklahoma, and will be attended by about a thousand delegates from the western States and Territories, appointed by Governors, Mayors, counties and business organizations. The congress discusses and acts upon all questions relating to the commercial and public interests of the country and affecting the material advancement of the region west of the Mississippi—except politics. The delegates are the active, public-spirited and enterprising citizens of the West, the men who are doing things, and the congress is a powerful factor in the upbuilding of the country's commerce and industries. Its sessions are attended by Cabinet officers, Governors and other high Federal and State officers, and it is likely that President Roosevelt will be present at the next meeting.

Sessions of the Trans-Mississippi Congress have been held in all the larger cities of the West, from New Orleans to Seattle, except Los Angeles, and there is reason to believe that the members are generally favorable to the idea of holding the session of 1908 in California. Los Angeles is able and willing to entertain such a body of men, and is equipped with convention halls large enough to serve the purposes of even national political conventions. Los Angeles would be delighted to welcome the members and guests of the Trans-Mississippi Congress to the Land of Sunshine in 1908, and it goes without saying that every member would be delighted to visit Southern California and see what Los Angeles is doing to make the West the greatest and most prosperous part of these United States.

The president of the congress this year is a Californian and a Los Angeles man, Col. H. D. Loveland, formerly of San Francisco but now secretary and treasurer of the Anderson Mill Company of this city. Col. Loveland is a director in most of the State business organizations, closely identified with the commercial interests of California and eminent in the councils of influential orders. On behalf of all the interests which he represents, Col. Loveland has already urged the congress to come to California next year, and presumably there would be no difficulty about inducing him to repeat the invitation specifically on behalf of Los Angeles, now that he is a resident of this city.

The first step in a movement to persuade the congress to come to Los Angeles should be taken by the business organizations, and it is suggested that the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association lead off with resolutions embodying a hearty invitation to the representatives of all the Trans-Mississippi States and Territories to come west and have the time of their lives next year.

ROW REACHES ALABAMA.

The seat of war has been transferred from North Carolina to Alabama. Gov. Comer of the latter commonwealth is developing the vigorous fighting qualities of Gov. Glenn of the Old North State. The railroad officials are equally combative.

We can see no reason for excited war talk in these legal disputes between the railroads and the State governments either side of Mason and Dixon's line. It is all a matter of cold legal procedure. Good American citizens do not have occasion to rend their garments, nor to paw the air about such matters. Let the dispute go to the courts and let it be settled there. Then let all abide by the decision.

Some hot-headed person says the courts are slow and business interests are injured while waiting for a decision. The courts may move more slowly than the militia at the start, but they reach a decision which will stand in less time. The business loss of a little delay is not likely to be so great as the loss resulting from a small civil war, even although it may be somewhat of a tempest in a teapot. Besides, troops never can settle a dispute like this. The whole controversy will have to be settled by the courts sooner or later, and the intervention of armed men will only impede, not expedite, the legal procedure. One thing more. There need be no interruption to business in Alabama. Let the roads be reasonable and comply with the State demands until the question can be settled, or let the State be reasonable and accept bonds from the roads to abide by the decision of the courts.

The trouble is a belligerent spirit, a headstrong determination to have our own way, a lack of obedience to the law and of respect for courts. Some of us are going backward. All civilized society and all business activity must rest on law, and a law-abiding disposition is a sign of the highest intelligence and of the highest citizenship.

The people of Alabama are not the only sinners. We have the same spirit of lawlessness developed all over the country whenever any dispute arises wherein there are any large number of persons of these contorted views involved. But in the South the open setting-at-naught of the laws which gave the franchise to the freedmen, and frequent murders under the guise of lynching, have undermined respect for the law in the minds of a large number of citizens.

It may be cold-blooded, and seem mercenary to some to keep one's head cool, to conduct disputes dispassionately, to refuse to "fly off the handle" and to carry a "chip on one's shoulder." It is the truly business way, the truly intelligent way, the truly just way, the truly gentlemanly way. It is the way that common, good horse sense follows every time.

WAR GOD RAMPANT.

It is actual war in Morocco. The saving factor is that the Moorish authorities, finding themselves unable to protect Casa Blanca from the attack of rebellious tribesmen from the interior, asked the European ships at hand for help. This, for the time being at least, saves the situation from the gravity it would assume if French and Spanish forces occupied Moorish territory in opposition to the wishes of the de jure government. International complications cannot arise while the situation remains as it is now.

The future hinges on the action of the Moorish population. They are at best fanatical, and but little superior in any way to the tribesmen from the mountains, who are about in the same condition of civilization that their kind were at Tripoli when the United States put an end to piracy in the Mediterranean Sea. Should the Mohammedan population in and about Casa Blanca take sides with the mountain tribes there would arise a serious civil war. The Sultan is only a lukewarm, half-hearted adherent of the religion of the country. He is not popular with his fanatical countrymen. But even in case of a general civil war in Morocco, France and Spain can easily uphold the Sultan in nominal power if other European nations will only stay out of the affair.

The danger is twofold. On one side is this possibility of a general European entanglement. On the other the danger of a "holy war" spreading throughout Northern Africa. The present situation should have a practical bearing on the proceedings of the peace conference in session at The Hague. It should cause the delegates of the leading powers of Europe to see, in spite of their prejudices, the practical value there would be in a court of arbitration before which disputes like this, wherein there is so much danger of a conflagration spreading, could be adjusted.

GRAFTERS AND JAILS.

Well, will any one tell us why Ruef should not be in a real jail? He is in luxurious apartments for which the people pay, and the bill is a big one.

The Glass jury cost the taxpayers of San Francisco an exorbitant sum. The members of the jury enjoyed luxuries they probably were not all accustomed to. They were feasted and amused. Automobile rides and theater parties were the order of all the days.

When the Ruef bills all come in, and are added to the Glass jury bills, and these are increased by the Fickert bills, and these by all the other big bills, the taxpayers are likely to feel as rebellious as the Israelites who said to their Moses, "Why hast thou led us out of Egypt to die in the wilderness?"

THE CRIMINAL WITNESS.

It may be that prejudice in favor of the accused biased the minds of some of the talesmen drawn to pick a jury from to try T. V. Halsey, charged with bribing the old Schmitz Board of Supervisors in San Francisco. But it is not necessary to go to such an extreme to account for men saying that under no circumstances would they believe any statements from the boodling and perjured Supervisors unless they were thoroughly corroborated by independent testimony from honest persons. A more degraded, shameless gang of thieves has seldom disgraced humanity than these Supervisors who held up all comers with indiscriminate injustice. With shameless effrontery they told of their degradation after being assured that they not only would not be prosecuted, but that they might keep and enjoy their loot.

The law takes cognizance of just such testimony and imbeds in legal procedure the experience of ages that such testimony is worthless unless perfectly corroborated by witnesses whose character makes their word worthy of credence. It was this quality in the testimony of Orchard which let Haywood go free. In spite of much and weighty testimony corroborating Orchard's general story of the working of the "inner circle" of the Western Federation of Miners, the fact that the testimony connecting Haywood directly with the Steunenberg murder was weak led the judge who presided at the trial to practically instruct the jury not to convict if they had to rely on Orchard's unsupported testimony.

The purpose of the law is obvious. It is particularly applicable in cases like these in San Francisco. Rottenness has run riot in official life there.

WAKING UP.

Nothing could be had excepting through bribery. It grew to be a common practice to bribe the city officials through Ruef. The public conscience became numb and callous through the general, prevailing vice. When exposure stared men of good repute in the face, how great the temptation was to bribe these dogs again "to lay it on" some one else and thus turn attention away from oneself!

These men who honestly declare that they would not give a bit of credence to the testimony of the boodling gang show no more prejudice than the law shows. The law is founded on human experience and is wise and just. These veniremen should not be disqualified from sitting on the jury unless they declare that they would not believe the boodlers in spite of clear, corroborating evidence.

SQUELCHING FAKERS.

Judge Landis has done another good job in flaying the new "head" of Zion. Dowie was bad enough, but his self-appointed successor seems to be a faker pure and simple. Dowie at least was a self-deceiver. Voliva seems to know just what he is doing.

The dishonest faker, who is exploiting credulous persons who become his dupes, finds his most effective argument in a hypocritical pretense of interest in "poor people." His victims are unfortunately nearly always poor people, and his hold over them is largely through this pretense to be devoted to their cause. Only ignorant fools, little competent to make their way in the world, or even to take care of themselves, are drawn into such a scheme as this Zion business.

"This court has given more consideration to the affairs of Zion City than to any other matters before it," says Judge Landis. The affairs of Zion are sadly in need of the attention of some such just judge as K. M. Landis. The fakers live in luxury and amass wealth at the expense of ignorant people who toil for the barest necessaries of life, a roof over their heads, a meager repast three times a day and a few coarse garments. This business of a few walking-delegates growing fat in worldly goods, while their dupes lead lives of hardship and self-denial under promises of a golden crown in a future life, has had a long run in this world, and it is time to put a check to it.

IF CAPITAL SHOULD STRIKE.

The Wall Street Journal says government statistics show that in our industries the share of labor in yearly compensation is $10,340,000,000, and the share of capital from the profits is $3,534,000,000. This means that capital takes 34 per cent. and labor 66 per cent. of the gross profits from all our industrial activities.

Capital is the stored-up industry of the past. Capital does not grow like weeds. There are many "laborers" in the United States who might be capitalists today if they or their parents had done as the capitalists or their parents did. One man spends all he makes or more. He and his children must remain in the ranks of labor so long as this goes on. Another has no initiative. He is content to go on forever in a rut, or at least follows the rut willingly if not contentedly. He does nothing, takes no risk, makes no effort to get on a leveler road where he might move with less effort and make more progress. Others follow different courses. They save, invest, take chances, strike out into new paths. Part of the proceeds of today's toil is laid by. They become capitalists and live on the wages of past years. That is all the difference. There is luck in the problem. That is true. But the controlling, compelling factors are thrift and initiative.

The man who saves something from today's wages need not go hungry tomorrow if he earns nothing. The man who by thrift and initiative has become a capitalist can live on his accumulated fat for many days. The spendthrift and the unprogressive must work every day or come to grief. To them indeed it is a matter of "daily bread."

If the smaller number of capitalists whose share in the profits of industry is only 34 per cent. should go on strike, how would the larger number whose share is 66 per cent. fare?

NOW WHAT'LL JOHN D. DO?

Standard Oil's found guilty—

Now, what'll John D. do?

Thirty million dollars!
Gee! But that's a pile!
Even to a octerpus

To smell of ile and rebates
And make more jobs fer fools—

College Yell Translated.

When Gen. Kuroki visited Yale and heard the college yell, he turned to one of the interpreters in the party and asked: "What are they saying?"

"They have just remarked," explained the interpreter, "that they are very glad, indeed, to see you, and that they hope you will come again and stay longer. They congratulate you upon your victories in the East, and in conclusion, they wish to inform you that you have been unanimously elected a Son of a Gambolier."—[Harper's Weekly.

Dr. George T. Clark, the expert librarian of San Francisco, has accepted charge of Stanford University library, taking the place of Dr. Melville G. Dodge.

Messrs. L. J. Hick, S. J. Stammers, John A. Lee and J. W. Vallman of Portland, Ore., have recently made a successful ascent to the ice-clad summit of Mt. Jefferson.

Dr. Stephen Croft, a prominent dentist of Fresno and H. M. Ellis, a fruit man of Sacramento, were roommates at Harvard twenty-nine years ago, and had not met since leaving college till last week when they met in a Fresno hotel.

Frank Eugene Thompson, a graduate of Stanford University, and at present connected with the department of educational psychology at the summer school of Columbia University, has been appointed professor of education at the University of Colorado.

Miss Blanche Cameron, a sorority girl, at the State University recently had her life saved by being possessed of a good head of hair. A horse she was riding ran away and dashed for the river, but a tree limb catching in her hair snatched her from the horse's back as the animal went over the bank.

J. E. Rogers, a student of the State University, who has just returned from a two months' trip to the Orient, says the educated Japanese with whom he conversed say their country is in no condition for war and that now the Japanese have such unbearable taxes on account of the war with Russia that the people want no more of it at present.

A. von Washermitsch, quartermaster on the Pacific Mail steamer City of Panama, has ceased his sea-going life because of cable dispatches announcing by the death of a relative in Russia he has inherited the title of Baron and an estate of $2,000,000. One of his first acts after resigning his position with the Pacific Mail was to go and buy some new clothes.

GOSSIP OF THE FOREIGN STAGE.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 24.—Americans who come to laugh and laugh hard will get plenty of the chances of their lives for doing so, next autumn, and simultaneously one of the opportunities of his existence for being very, very funny when he come to some American comedian. Of course may seem rather lavish promises, but they are made with some confidence as the result of a recent visit to "The Girls of Gottenberg," the musical comedy by George Grossmith, Jr., and Edward Bermann, Basil Hood and a few others which at present is packing the house of Gaiety, as even that popular theater has not been packed for many a day.

The authorities on such subjects declare, and as they declare of another production by the same management, "The Merry Widow," that "The Girls of Gottenberg" will run here for a couple of years on end, and perhaps they are right. It doesn't matter. The point of interest to Americans is that arrangements have just been completed for introducing the piece in the United States early in the coming season, and since it may not be amiss to furnish some details regarding as capital a bit of stage feeling as has been contrived lately, whether on this side of the Atlantic or the other.

At the "Gaiety," by the way, two of the most pronounced hits of "The Girls of Gottenberg" are being made by Americans, ladies both, in the persons of Edna May de Sousa, who plays the part of a general's daughter, and Violet Vanbrugh, who enacts the role of a burgomaster's lass and plays "opposite" to Edmund Payne, the most renowned of all quite the funniest of London's musical comedians. But these damsels, indeed, in fact, all the rest of the extensive Gaiety cast are dwarfed entirely by Payne himself, who, in the part of "Max Moddlekopf," has just found the best chance he ever has been given and who utilizes it in a fashion that will take a lot of beating from whichever of our American fun-makers is entrusted with the part at home. You recall, of course, the famous Eddie Foight, who hoaxed the burgomaster of Koepenick by posing as a special envoy of the Kaiser? Well, the hero of "The Girls of Gottenberg" is another wight of lowly birth, a valet by time, masquerading as the personal emissary of Wilhelm II—and the authors of the piece have shown much prudence in combining the Koepenick hoax with another that made some sensation in the Fatherland not so long ago. The latter, in fact, really supplies the piece with its main theme and its name—"The Girls of Gottenberg" representing certain damsels who recently complained to the Kaiser that they lacked partners for dancing, and who forthwith were supplied with a smart regiment of Hussars so that the terpsichorean ant might not languish in their village.

How this musical piece, with its glaring references to the Emperor of Germany, his Chancellor and German court affairs generally, got past the British stage censor, I leave you to guess. Basking as it does with "lese majeste," its approval by the official who banned "The Mikado" furnishes a bewildering paradox. But that is a detail. What matters is that the piece provides some of the most excruciatingly funny "situations" that one remembers having seen, and that the accompanying music and stage settings are quite up to the gaiety standard.

The story can be "suggested" only here, since the combined Koepenick and Gottenberg motifs together with the "complications" that have been thrown in would call for a column or so of details. You will grasp the situation, however, when it is explained that in the play two German cavalry regiments are rivals for the bliss of being transferred to Gottenberg and there carving as the missing Adams of the Teutonic Eden. These regiments respectively are the Red and the Blue Hussars, and soon after the opening of the piece we learn that the Reds are the fortunate ones. More's the pity, for since it seems that the Blues, in their barracks we find ourselves, have been languishing for many months past in a village, appropriately named Gottenberg, where there is only one inn—and she no beauty. The Emperor, however, has decided definitely against the Blues, and we have a smart lieutenant of Hussars, in red, dropping in to boast of his regiment's victory and to exhibit to the envious "Blue" men the Kaiser's written order.

But he reckons without Max Moddlekopf, the little valet and ex-barber of Berlin, who has just arrived at Rottenberg in attendance on his master, Prince Otto of Saxe-Hildesheim, recently gazetted as lieutenant in the Blue Hussars. His Serene Highness is particularly anxious to go to Gottenberg where his pretty cousin Elsa, (May de Sousa) is at school and his gentleman likewise is eager to escape from a town which is barren of femininity. Result, Max picks the Red Hussar's pocket, secures the Emperor's order, (which happily is addressed only to the colonel of the Hussars,") substitutes a bogus command from the Emperor to "lock up the bearer on sight" and hands over the actual imperial document to the commander of the blues.

This done, the irrepressible Moddlekopf dons official uniform and bites him by motor car to Gottenberg, there to arrange for the reception of his master and comrades. All realize, of course, that the hoax is certain to be discovered and that they will have to give way eventually to the more fortunate Reds, but a few stolen days are worth having and incidentally the valet sees numerous opportunities for turning the situation to account. I leave you to imagine his reception by the Burgomaster and the other big wigs of Gottenberg and the antics of the little serving man thus transformed into a special envoy of the Emperor. Edmund Payne is "killing" in the part. He struts around in his glittering uniform and martial helmet, imbibes the official champagne, makes love to the Burgomaster's blushing daughter and every other pretty girl in sight—and within half an hour has about half of the population of Gottenberg under arrest.

Complications come thick and fast, however, for Moddlekopf is recognized by an inkeeper's daughter who knew him as a wielder of the razor in Berlin, and having been jilted by him in those days is in a vengeful mood. But the stage counterpart of Wilhelm Voigt manages to "carry it off" notwithstanding, and the Blue Hussars are duly quartered at Gottenberg. They stay there, too, owing to the good offices of the winsome Elsa, who is not the daughter of a general for nothing. And Moddlekopf makes it up with his former lady love and escapes without so much as a single thwack from the "nailed flat" whose prerogatives he has usurped.

Perhaps the foregoing will convey the idea of the funniments of "The Girls of Gottenberg"—perhaps not. In the latter case, the fault will lie partially with the authors of the piece, who, instead of giving us too little "plot," as is usual in musical comedy, have supplied too much. Sumptuously staged and dressed, it sounds are really the only part of "The Girls of Gottenberg" of which one cannot write more than enthusiastically. Excepting the excellent ditty called "Otto of Saxe-Hildesheim," which George Grossmith, Jr., who plays the Prince of Saxe-Hildesheim, has written for himself, they

GOSSIP OF THE FOREIGN STAGE.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.

LONDON, July 24.—Americans who like to laugh and laugh hard will get one of the chances of their lives for a long go, next autumn, and simultaneously one of the opportunities of his existence for being very, very funny. Of course to some American comedians these may seem rather lavish promises, but they are made with some confidence as the result of a recent visit to "The Girls of Gottenberg," the musical comedy by George Grossmith, Jr., Paul Bermann, Basil Hood and a few others which at present is packing the house at the Gaiety, as even that popular theatre has not been packed for many a year.

Authorities on such subjects declare, and as they declare of another production by the same management, "The Merry Widow," that "The Girls of Gottenberg" will run here for a couple of years on end, and perhaps they are right, it doesn't matter. The point of interest to Americans is that arrangements have just been completed for producing the piece in the United States early in the coming season, and while it may not be amiss to furnish a few details regarding as capital a bit of feeling as has been contrived lately, either on this side of the Atlantic or the other.

At the "Gaiety," by the way, two of the most pronounced hits of "The Girls of Gottenberg" are being made by Americans, ladies both, in the persons of Ray de Sousa, who plays the part of a general's daughter, and Violet Lloyd, who enacts the role of a burgomaster's lass and plays "opposite" to Edmund Payne, the most renowned and comedians. But these damsels, in fact, all the rest of the excellent Gaiety cast are dwarfed entirely by Payne himself, who, in the part of "Max Moddlekopf," has just found the best chance he ever has been given and who utilizes it in a fashion that will take a lot of beating from whatever of our American fun-makers be entrusted with the part at home. To recall, of course, the famous Captain Voight, who hoaxed the burgomaster of Koepenick by posing as a special envoy of the Kaiser? Well, the hero of "The Girls of Gottenberg" is another wight of lowly birth, a valet by trade, masquerading as the personal emissary of Wilhelm II—and the scenes of the piece have shown much ingenuity in combining the Koepenick motif with another that made some sensation in the Fatherland not so many years ago. The latter, in fact, really inspires the piece with its main theme and its name—"The Girls of Gottenberg" representing certain damsels who recently complained to the Kaiser that they lacked partners for dancing, and who forthwith were supplied with a short regiment of Hussars so that the Wagnerian art might not languish in their village.

For the musical piece, with its many references to the Emperor of Germany, his Chancellor and German life, this generally got past the German censor. I leave you to imagine being as it does with "lese majesty" its approval by the official mind. "The Mikado" furnishes a striking paradox. But that is a detail. The matters is that the piece contains one of the most excruciatingly funny "situations" that one remembers having seen, and that the whole of the music and stage setting are up to the gaiety standard.

The story can be "suggested" only when the combined Koepenick and Gottenberg motifs together with the "situations" that have been seen would call for a column or two of words. You will grasp the situation, however, when it is explained that in the play two German cavalry regiments are rivals for the bliss of being transferred to Gottenberg and of serving as the missing Adams of that Teutonic Eden. These regiments respectively, are the Red and the Blue Hussars, and soon after the opening scene we learn that the Reds are the fortunate ones. More's the pity, for these it seems that the Blues, in their barracks we find ourselves, have been languishing for many months and is a village, appropriately named Kissberg, where there is only one girl and she no beauty. The Emperor, who has decided definitely against the Blues, and we have a smart lieutenant of Hussars, in red, dropping in to tell of his regiment's victory and exhibit to the envious "Blue" men the Kaiser's written order.

But he reckons without Max Moddlekopf, the little valet and ex-barber of Berlin, who has just arrived at Rotterburg in attendance on his master, Herr Otto of Saxe-Hildesheim, recently gazetted as lieutenant in the Hussars. His Serene Highness is particularly anxious to go to Gottenberg where his pretty cousin Elsa, (Ray de Sousa) is at school and his valet likewise is eager to escape from a town which is barren of females. Result, Max picks the Red Baron's pocket, secures the Emperor's note (which happily is addressed only to the colonel of the Hussars,") substitutes a bogus command from the Emperor to "look up the bearer on sight" and hands over the actual imperial document to the commander of the Blues.

This done, the irrepressible Moddlekopf dons official uniform and hies him by motor car to Gottenberg, there to arrange for the reception of his master and comrades. All realize, or soon, that the hoax is certain to be discovered and that they will have to pay the way eventually to the more fortunate Reds, but a few stolen days are worth having and incidentally the valet sees numerous opportunities for improving the situation to account. I leave you to imagine his reception by the Burgomaster and the other big men of Gottenberg and the antics of the little serving man thus transformed into a special envoy of the Emperor. Edmund Payne is "killing" in the part. He struts around in his glittering uniform and martial helmet, imbibes the official champagne, makes love to the Burgomaster's blushing daughter and every other pretty girl in sight—and within half an hour has about half of the population of Gottenberg under arrest.

Complications come thick and fast, however, for Moddlekopf is recognized as an innkeeper's daughter who knew him as a wielder of the razor in Berlin, and having been jilted by him in those days is in a vengeful mood. But the stage counterpart of Wilhelm Voigt manages to "carry it off" notwithstanding, and the Blue Hussars are duly quartered at Gottenberg. They are there, too, owing to the good offices of the winsome Elsa, who is not the daughter of a general for nothing, and Moddlekopf makes it up with his former lady love and escapes without so much as a single thwack from the "iron fist" whose prerogatives he has usurped.

Perhaps the foregoing will convey a idea of the funniments of "The Girls of Gottenberg"—perhaps not. In any latter case, the fault will lie partly with the authors of the piece, who instead of giving us too little, as is usual in musical comedy, have supplied too much. Sumptuously staged and dressed, it asongs are really the only part of "The Girls of Gottenberg" of which one cannot write more than enthusiastically. Excepting the excellent ditty hailed "Otto of Saxe," which George Grossmith, Jr., who plays the Prince of Saxe-Hildesheim, has written for himself, they fail to prove "hummable" despite the fact that the composers are Ivan Caryll and Lionel Monckton. But a march for the "Blue Hussars," which Sousa would not disdain, compensates in large part for this, and the hearty laughs do the rest.

Home Silk Mills Black Taffeta

There is none better. It is absolutely pure dye. It stands both acid and fire tests. This means that when soaked in oxalic acid its color is changed to a deep orange, both warp and filling. Home Silk stands these tests.

Another day of heavy scoring again changes the position of many of the contestants this morning. Muriel Eells followed up her record-breaking score of Monday with another of more than 4000 points, which still further strengthens her position against the onslaught of the spirited Spanish girl, Chonita Palomares, who is bound to be heard from soon for she will not rest contented unless she has that fourth perch she has claimed so long.

All three of the top liners scored heavily, too. Ben Hitchcock's employers have become so interested in his career that they have advised him to take a month off and devote his entire time to his campaign. Ben has accepted their advice and yesterday spent the day in Glendale canvassing that thriving suburb with splendid results. Then he had three annual subscriptions sent in from Phoenix, which further added to his score and helped him to hold his position this morning. Ben is anxious to express his thanks to the people of Glendale and of Arizona for their timely assistance yesterday, which helped him just in the nick of time. He says he shall put in every minute of his time working from now on.

Edna Wagner and Stanley Tolley both put in a busy day, too, and Edna almost caught Ben. Stanley still feels anxious about the illness of his father and he is extremely grateful to his friends for coming to his rescue yesterday. A little more of the same will help the boy along and it's pretty dubious at his house just now. When father is sick, life looks rather gloomy to the average boy. Cheer him up with your subscriptions now. He's been a faithful worker and "a friend in need is a friend indeed."

Blossom Vincent, the Covina contestant, landed a score of almost 6000 points from subscriptions alone yesterday, including eight annuals, two of which were new. That's going some and it increases Miss Blossom's chances for winning that elegant Bullock's shopping bag given next Saturday for the largest number of points from new subscriptions, July 29 to August 10. It also sends her total score up almost to the 50,000 point and places her above the Whittier candidate and Elwyn Van Zandt, one of the Pasadena pacers.

Cecil Green and Muriel Eells ranked next to the Covina girl in big scores. Margaret Chung advances by grace of a thousand points from a new annual subscription sent down from Carpinteria which will rejoice the friends of this pretty Chinese girl. Her friend, Miss Jessie Kam, brought a big bunch of coupons to headquarters yesterday for Margaret, too.

CHANGE PARTNERS.

There is a lot of swapping this morning—a general fluttering all along the line. Ola McClellan and Jennie Bloom swap places, Zeda Fish and Ellen Robinson; Wallie Swain and Mabel Gordon; Rosine LeHardy and Laura Lloyd; Florence Leonard and Juanita Carter; Margaret Chung and Laura Easton.

Ruth Gibson, the Escondido girl, was heard from yesterday after a long silence and she rises a rung this morning. Cecil Green makes the longest leap of anyone. Her star of hope seems to be ascending now that all the colored people in town have taken a hand in helping along her campaign.

The Una Lodge, Daughters of Rebecca, sent a big bunch of coupons to headquarters yesterday for their sister in the order, Miss Zeda Fish. Mrs. Mann brought them in and expressed the good wishes of the Rebeccas for Zeda in whose career they are much interested.

COLORED CANDIDATE RISES.

The Missouri Club held a great emancipation proclamation picnic at Mitchell's Park on Monday, which was attended by hundreds of colored people and the chief excitement of the day was the distribution of four annual subscriptions to The Times as prizes in order to help Cecil Green along in her campaign. Funds had been raised for the purpose during the weeks preceding the celebration and the distribution was made by means of numbers, the lucky winners being Nos. 692, 837, 494 and 684. Holders of the winning numbers, the club reports, will receive their subscriptions in presenting their coupons to Mrs. Lauretta Butler at No. 1039 Byram street.

By reason of this liberal assistance Miss Cecil's score rises 4000 points and she this morning goes up into the 10,000 row, and almost hits the 11,000's, making a clean jump of five rows, which lands her on the thirty-third perch. Plans are under way for a grand concert to be given under the auspices of the Men's Forum, composed of some 200 leading colored citizens of Los Angeles, who propose to put their shoulders to the wheel and help Miss Cecil win her musical scholarship that she may further cultivate her beautiful voice.

SOLDIERS' HOME BOY.

A bundle of 1500 coupons for Wallie Swain arrived in the first mail yesterday morning, together with some subscriptions, which build up his score and regain his place that he lost on Monday through the energy of Mabel Gordon, that lively Central-avenue girl who is determined to hold her place in the high sixteen.

IN MEMORY OF MOTHER.

It's both odd and interesting, the various motives which prompt the public to help certain contestants. Ola McClellan, the Anaheim candidate, received a bunch of coupons from an anonymous Pasadena friend who writes:

"My mother's name was Ola, and when I looked over the list of contestants and saw your name, I felt as though I should like to help you win a scholarship in memory of her. Hoping that you will win the scholarship you wish, I remain, yours lovingly,

"OLA'S DAUGHTER."

Ola herself writes: "I find that Ola is not such an unlucky name as I thought it was. I only wish that there were a thousand other little girls whose mamma's name was Ola and who were as kind as the little Pasadena miss."

HE'S A WINNER.

Ralph Warren is one of the bright, manly boys engaged in the campaign who is making a name for himself as a good worker and all-around hustler. The fact that Ralph has lots of friends in his home town of Alhambra speaks volumes in his favor. If a prophet has honor in his own country he surely is worthy. Ralph stands high among the educators of his home town and their influence has reached many men in educational work throughout the county who have been glad to add a boy who is so deserving. Ralph graduated from the Alhambra High School last June and now seeks a scholarship in the Los Angeles School of Art and Design that he may develop his very decided talent. He wishes to become an illustrator, and already Malcolm MacLeod, head of the above institution, is deeply interested in Ralph, who has visited the school at Westlake Park and is positive it is just the place he wants to go.

THE PASADENA PAIR.

The pair of Pasadena pacers—George Felker and Elwyn Van Zandt—are attracting attention by their spirited racing. For a long time George led his competitor by several thousand and kept a number of rows in advance of him, but Elwyn, by steady, persistent effort, has climbed surely up the ladder and for two days stood on the rung just below his fellow-townsman. This morning the Covina contestant separates them. The good-natured rivalry of the two lads adds interest to the race. George, who is a son of Prof. Felker, recently appointed deputy superintendent of the Pasadena public schools, is a scholarly chap and has his eye fixed on Occidental College. He will be a distinct credit to that very excellent institution if he is lucky enough to win the scholarship. Ben Hitchcock, the sturdy little messenger boy, and Stanley Tolley, one of the best and hardest workers in the contest, are also after that same choice scholarship.

Elwyn Van Zandt is working tooth and nail for the Throop scholarship and he looks like a winner.

MORE ROOM FOR NURSES.

Quarters for Them, and Also a Kitchen, to Be Built Immediately at the County Hospital.

The Board of Supervisors decided on a visit yesterday afternoon to the County Hospital, to appropriate $10,000 for the building of a nurses' home and a kitchen and dining-room. It is expected that the buildings will be completed before the first of the year.

The nurses' building will be two stories, and of brick. It will be built on the west of the present quarters. Its cost will be about $8000. The building will double the capacity of the nurses' quarters.

The kitchen will be built south of the long corridor, near the boiler-house. It will be fitted up so that all the cooking can be done by steam. An extra boiler is now being installed for this purpose. The Supervisors hope to cut down the fuel bill considerably by this method.

While at the institution several other improvements were discussed. They will not be taken up, however, until next year. The board contemplates replacing two frame buildings with brick ones.

SEVERE ECZEMA CURED IN SOUTH

Suffers Three Years—Hands and Eye Most Affected—Employed Doctor to No Effect—Now Entirely Recovered and Will Recommend

CUTICURA REMEDIES IN ALL PARTS OF PARISH

"My wife was taken badly with eczema for three years, and she employed a doctor with no effect at all until she employed Cuticura Soap and Ointment. One of her hands and her left eye were badly affected, and when she would stop using Cuticura Soap and Ointment the eczema came back, but very slightly; but it did her a sight of good. Then we complied with the instructions in using the entire set of Cuticura Remedies and my wife is entirely recovered. She thanks Cuticura very much, and will recommend it highly in our locality and in every nook and corner of our parish. God bless you for the sake of suffering humanity. I. M. Robert, Hydropolis, La., Jan. 5 and Sept. 1, 1906."

SOUTHERN MAN CURED

Of a Terrible Eczema by Cuticura in Six Weeks.

"Some time ago I suffered terribly with eczema, and I had the best medical attendance, but the more medicine I took the worse it seemed to get. I kept on with medicine for about five weeks until I saw the Cuticura Remedies advertised, and I at once purchased the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent, but had not the slightest hope of them curing me. After I had used the first set of the Cuticura Remedies I saw the improvement, and in just six weeks my skin was as smooth as ever. I advise any one suffering from this terrible disease to use the Cuticura Remedies. Henry J. Stelljes, 132 Spring St., Charleston, S. C., June 12, 1906."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c.) to Cleanse the Skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c.) to Heal the Skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (50c.), or in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60, to Purify the Blood. Sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, Mass.

Summer Luncheons

Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is the ideal summer drink. It is cooling, satisfying and refreshing. It makes the enjoyment of the outdoor luncheon complete, for it is a food as well as a drink.

Pabst brews for food qualities as well as for purity and flavor. Pabst found the only way to get all of the food-values out of the barley-grain was to follow Nature in making the malt, by growing it slowly and scientifically, and he therefore perfected the Pabst Eight-Day Malting Process. Pabst Malt is richer in nutriment than other malts.

Pabst Blue Ribbon

The Beer of Quality

is a more healthful, wholesome food than other beers. The Pabst Perfect Brewing Process blends the rich food values of Pabst Eight-Day Malt with the tonic properties of the choicest hops under conditions that insure positive purity, while reducing the percentage of alcohol to the minimum—less than 3½%.

Pabst Blue Ribbon is the ideal family beer, because of its food values, its purity and its remarkably small amount of alcohol, making it a truly temperance drink.

When ordering beer ask for Pabst Blue Ribbon.

EL CLUB BELEN A MODEL PLACE.

BETHLEHEM'S LATEST BRANCH FINELY EQUIPPED.

Refuge for Laundry Girls During Noon Hour—Sanitary Men's Hotel. Large Hall for Free Concerts and Entertainments—Reading Room and Free Library There.

The new branch of Bethlehem Institution, called "El Club Belen," recently opened at No. 618 New High street, is a thoroughly modern establishment. While it is designed to cater to the wants of men and women who cannot afford to pay high prices for first-class accommodations, it is fitted up in a style almost equal to the best, and much better than the ordinary restaurants about the city.

The building, constructed for the purpose, is built of brick and finished throughout in old mission style of architecture. The doors and windows on the ground floor are a series of arches, which lend the appearance of a veranda to the front. The interior is finished in natural wood and light colored walls. The coffee club with a handsome curved counter equipped with all the fixtures, occupies the front room, and is kept in the neatest possible manner under the management of Albert Cother, who is the personal representative of Dana W. Bartlett, general superintendent.

There are a number of tables that may be utilized either for the reading-room or for serving meals; a library of several hundred volumes, a piano, telephone, and other accommodations for those who see proper to take advantage of them.

The second floor of the club is a hall that will seat several hundred people, where concerts and entertainments are given every evening, and religious services every Sunday. This hall is also free for meetings that may be found necessary or desirable in the neighborhood.

In the rear is a laundry that employs a number of young women, and at noon hour these girls gather in during their hour of escape the heat and soapy steam, eat their lunch at large tables provided for them without charge, and with one of the number playing the piano, give impromptu concerts.

The second floor is fitted up as a lodging house, having twenty-four rooms, each furnished with every convenience, clean and sanitary, and rented to men at a nominal figure. The building is admirably lighted day and night.

The institution also owns the San Fernando street frontage of the same block, and has an entrance from that street. Two stores on San Fernando street, which were on the property when it was purchased are rented. This is the latest of the branches of the parent institution, and is a type of what Dr. Bartlett is desirous of establishing in other sections of the city. There is another branch at Railroad and Ninth streets, and both are patronized by the main institution at Alameda and Bommun streets, though not to the same extent.

REPUBLICANS ARE ACTIVE.

Ninth Ward Republicans to Reorganize Tonight and Clubs to Be Formed in Every Ward in City.

A meeting of the Ninth Ward will be held at the Boyle Heights Hall this evening for the purpose of reorganizing the Roosevelt Republican Club and to prepare for active work in the next campaign. In order that the perfect organization of the Ninth Ward Republicans may result in the piling up of larger majorities for the party there than in any other section of the city, the committee, and it is their purpose to begin work early, so that by the time next year's campaign opens they will be in position to do valiant service. The club is in no way connected with any new political movement of recent origin. It is a unit for the party as a whole, and aims to prevent any split in the ranks. The hold-over membership of the club and campaign numbers several hundred voters. The organization will assist in the formation of similar clubs in other city wards and in the districts near the city.

PIONEER RESIDENT DIES.

Mr. Freeman for Four Years a Deputy Sheriff Passes Away in the Midst of His Family.

Mr. Oliver Freeman died at his home in this city yesterday morning, aged 64 years, and his funeral will occur tomorrow at 1:30 p.m., at the parlors of Pierce Brothers.

Mr. Freeman came here from Chicago in 1887 and worked at his trade of carpenter until four years ago, when he was appointed a deputy sheriff in department Two of the Superior Court. Since the first of the present year he has been in the employ of the Los Angeles Trust Company. He served through the Civil war with an Indiana regiment and was a member of Stanton Post, G.A.R. He leaves a widow and five children, residents of this city. They are Mrs. Freeman, Philip Freeman, H. C. Freeman, Fred L. Freeman and Mrs. Strathearn.

TO JAIL, THEN HOSPITAL.

Mexican Fisherman, Shot by Former Deputy at Redondo, Expected to Die from His Wound.

As the result of a quarrel at Redondo Monday night, Joe Purposa, a Mexican fisherman, is in the County Hospital suffering from injuries which probably prove fatal, while officers are searching for Philip Gonzales, said to have committed the assault. Purposa and Gonzales were partners. They left Los Angeles late Sunday night to return to their home in Redondo. On the way to the beach they quarreled. Purposa refused to divide the "night of it" with his friend and a fight resulted.

Gonzales started a fight started, and as Purposa started toward home, Gonzales is said to have drawn his revolver and fired.

STILL LOYAL IN POVERTY.

WIFE OF FORMER SENATOR LIVES IN SHAFT HOUSE.

Mrs. Tabor and Her Daughters Prove as Loyal to the Late Senator in His Reverses as They Were When He Was Possessed of Millions.

The wife and two daughters of a former United States Senator from Colorado are living in the shafthouse of the famous Matchless mine near Leadville, Colo., 11,500 feet above the level of the sea. Their only surroundings are the large dumps of waste earth which have come from the now abandoned mines in that vicinity and the huge drifts of snow upon which the summer sun seems to have no effect.

Since the death of United States Senator H. A. W. Tabor, eight years ago, his wife has been in destitute circumstances, although during her lifetimes he shared in the luxury of his millions, which were lost in wild speculations and in paving the way for his political ambitions.

In the long legal fight over the Matchless mine, the only remaining assets of the vast estate, Mrs. Tabor came out partly victorious, her portion of the property being about one-seventh. Fearing that her enemies will take possession of the great mine, from which she expects to regain her lost fortune, she has taken up her abode on the property itself, a place where the most hardened prospector would be loathe to spend his days or a hardy mountaineer would shun if this peculiar residence savored at all of permanence. Rude and uncouth as many a western cabin is, it cannot compare with a shafthouse made of slabs and weatherboards, which is far from being a suitable place for a woman and her two young daughters to reside.

The life of Mrs. Tabor proves how far wrong the predictions of malicious gossips can go when the uncertain quality of a woman's temperament and character is under consideration. She married Mr. Tabor when he was at the height of his political and financial fortunes. There had been another Mrs. Tabor, but, like the wives of other benanza kings before and since, she had been divorced.

A certain Miss McCourt, from a small Wisconsin town, appeared on the scene. She was beautiful and fairly well educated, and on her Tabor showered his wealth and affections. He won a seat in the United States Senate and then came the marriage of the two. Blazing with the diamonds he had given her, the new Mrs. Tabor often sat beside her husband in a box in the magnificent theater which still stands in Denver a monument to the generosity and public spiritedness of the multi-millionaire. There was much local feeling over the divorce at that time and much sympathy for the lonely divorced wife, and the prediction was freely made that the new Mrs. Tabor would remain at her husband's side only as long as fortune smiled, but that with the first breath of adversity she would take flight, bearing with her as legitimate spoils of war the jewels that decked her, the silks she wore and the gorgeous carriages in which she rode.

But the gossips were mistaken. Adversity did come, but Mrs. Tabor remained with her husband, now broken in health and pocket. There was never a complaint or a regret—only encouragement and an unbounded faith in the future. When the palace was abandoned for the rude prospector's cabin in the mountains Mrs. Tabor did not desert her husband, but shared his hardships and strengthened him in his determination to begin life anew. Long before, in an effort to stem the tide and save some of the property that was gradually fading away, she had stripped herself of the jewels given her in affluent days and sold them. The list of the diamonds that had caused so many envious heartaches went for food for her husband lying ill and the two little children that had come to her. The prophets of evil were wrong.

Mrs. Tabor is apparently happy, and lives in the hope that not far in the future wealth and social prestige, as she knew only a few years ago, will again return.

The story of Senator Tabor's accumulation of vast wealth, and his subsequent drop to poverty, would fill a volume. He was one of the pioneers of the famous mining camp of Leadville, and with a few hundred dollars started in the grocery business, catering to the miners of the early days, exchanging bacon for its relative weight in gold dust.

Through keen judgment he acquired a half interest in the Little Pittsburgh mine from a prospector who was indebted to Tabor for groceries. It was not long before the Little Pittsburgh was one of the greatest producers in the Rocky Mountain regions, and from the small grocer Tabor's prestige soared to one of the leading financial men of the State of Colorado, his fortune being estimated at $10,000,000. His hobbies were operahouses and politics. He built the Tabor Operahouse in Leadville and the Tabor Grand in Denver, the latter, at the time of its erection, being one of the best and most costly in the United States, and today its acoustic powers are recognized as being far in advance of some of the more modern eastern houses. Having been elected Lieutenant-Governor of the State, his political ambitions took a higher trend, and he made the announcement that he wanted to be a United States Senator. Although his education and knowledge of statesmanship was stunted, his money was plentiful, and he gathered around him a coterie of politicians.

During Gov. Pitkin's term of office in 1883 Colorado elected a United States Senator for thirty days to fill an unexpired term and that Senator was H. A. W. Tabor. Though his tenure of office was not long, the amount of money spent by him was enormous. This was the first of his great financial dissipations, and it is said that his political office cost him $10,000 a day. Senator Tabor was known as one of the most generous men in the great West, and he fell a prey to promoters and schemers of all kinds, and within a few years after the accumulation of his great wealth he had reached the lowest ebb of poverty.

Through the influence of friends, he was appointed postmaster of Denver, and while serving in that capacity he died. It was found upon his death that sufficient money had not been left to pay his funeral expenses, and but for the efforts of friends, who had remained loyal during his downfall, he might now be sleeping in a pauper's grave.

"Staying in Business" Sale

That the stand we have taken in regard to dishonest advertising is appreciated and commended was evidenced by the tremendous business we did Monday and Tuesday. Here is our statement (first published in Sunday's papers.) Read it yourself, then glance at the "protest" bargains we are offering:

"This is a sale with a purpose. For weeks certain furniture houses have been advertising 'closing out' and 'selling out' sales, well knowing such phrases to be deceptive. Don't be misled. Refuse to believe such untruthful advertising. Our 'Staying in Business' sale is a vigorous protest against dishonorable business practices—against merchants who pretend to be going out of business when they intend to do nothing of the sort. Our action may precipitate a furniture war—let it come—we'll welcome it. We will cut the very life out of our profits. Our entire stock shall be sacrificed at cost, unless unscrupulous dealers refrain from publishing deceiving announcements. In this advertisement are five great bargains. The prices represent cost or under. Look at the advertisements of the 'selling out' dealers—you will not find our values duplicated—which immediately proves that the buying public is being imposed upon. It's up to you to protect yourself. Take advantage of our genuine bargains—ignore the dealer who would deceive you."

Caught Stealing

A few days ago we had a dealer arrested and are now prosecuting him for putting another—cheaper—beer into our bottles and selling it as Schlitz.

Substitution robs you as well as us.

Our yeast is distinctive; no other brewery's is the same. It is developed from an original mother cell brought to this country by one of the founders of our business.

Our grain and our hops are selected from the best that is grown. We pay more than our "just as good" imitator to get a quality better than he thinks is "good enough" for his beer.

The theft of our name—giving you another beer when you think you are getting Schlitz—is what robs us.

You think you have had Schlitz—are disappointed and may not ask for it again—therefore, we are most anxious that you get our beer and not a substitute. So we say

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

Four-Acre Piece Is Acquired in Pasadena at the Corner of Catalina Avenue and California Street. Generosity of Arizona Banker Renders Material Aid to Project.

Office of The Times, No. 36 S. Raymond avenue.

PASADENA, Aug. 7.—Throop Polytechnic Institute has completed one of the projects outlined in The Times on Monday and has made fair headway with the other. Yesterday the new site for the elementary school was purchased and two teachers were added to the staff with others of the eight in prospect almost ready for publication.

The trustees of the elementary school, as it will be known, have bought four acres at the corner of California street and Catalina avenue, through the generosity of E. S. Gosney, and the buildings for the school will be ready by October 10, according to contracts let yesterday. The new tract is diagonally across from the site recently purchased for the enlargement of Throop Institute and, when the present school is moved, all the classrooms will be close together. It has been decided to change the name of the new addition from the grammar school to the Throop elementary.

This property fronts 213 feet on California street and 738 feet on Catalina avenue. The building operations began yesterday and will be rushed. The elementary school will be in the form of the capital letter H, with a frontage of 153 feet. Hunt and Grey of Los Angeles are the architects and John Errickson, the builder. Acting President Arthur H. Chamberlain, Miss Virginia Pease, Dr. Norman Bridge, S. Hazard Halstead and J. C. Brainard have been appointed a committee to superintend the building and rush mattery so that the elementary school will be ready for the opening scholastic year.

E. S. Gosney, a banker and lawyer of Flagstaf, Ariz., made the purchase and contributed the largest amount of the fund. He gave $12,500 as his portion on condition that the trustees of Throop would collect an equal amount. He made it condition of his donation that the site should have no old buildings on it. Nearly $7000 of the sum necessary has been raised and Mr. Gosney therefore went ahead and secured one of the choicest and most convenient sites in Pasadena.

This elementary school will be affiliated with the academic and collegiate departments of Throop. For this reason, Hiram W. Wadsworth and S. Hazard Halstead have been elected trustees of the elementary school, which is incorporated. The officers will be S. Hazard Halstead, president, and J. C. Brainard, secretary.

President Halstead yesterday said: "Within a few days the trustees of Throop will meet and elect a successor to President Edwards, and we have every reason to believe that the people will feel proud of our selection. Now that the schools are segregated, we propose to go ahead and make Throop Polytechnic Institute the rival in every sense of the Boston School of Technology. At present we can take our students so far and then they must go east for the finishing touches. This will soon change. We will finish your students right here at home and give them a technical training second to none in the country."

It is expected that the choice of the trustees will fall upon Arthur H. Chamberlain, long the dean of the schools and now the acting president, although none of the trustees will commit themselves openly to this statement, but it is believed that he is the choice of the majority.

The teachers appointed yesterday were Prof. S. Webster French of Washington, D. C. as director of the department of chemistry and physiography and Miss Margaret Donaldson instructor in art. Both have held high positions in the East.

CROWN CITY NOTES.

Dr. Stanley P. Black, health officer, intends to ask the City Council to appoint a physician to examine every pupil in the public schools, and hopes to accomplish this innovation before the beginning of the school year. Dr. Black says that many children have infirmities which are unknown to their parents which hinder the advancement of the child in its studies. Under the supervision of a competent doctor in the schools these hidden diseases could be rooted out and proper advice given the child and its teacher and remedies suggested. He says that he knows a prominent physician who would undertake the work without pay.

Next Friday the directors of the Presbyterian Chautauqua will meet to decide upon plans for the use of the site recently purchased in Millard's Canon. Up to date the following have been chosen as directors: W. E. McVay, Giles Kellogg, D. A. Steele, Dr. R. A. Harris and Rev. J. M. Newell. It is the intention of the promoters of this scheme to keep a majority of Presbyterians on the board but other denominations will be represented. The purpose of the Chautauqua, which was started by Rev. T. C. Horton, is to promote the study of the Bible and afford a place where Christian people can retire for a while from cares of business and improve themselves mentally and physically.

As a result of the visit of the city officials to Long Beach Monday to inspect the oil macadam used by the Pacific Electric road there, an order passed the Council yesterday permitting the road to have asphalted streets within its tracks with this composition. Heretofore the company has used granite blocks laid in asphalt which very soon work loose and spoil the roadway. The plan is now to lay twelve inches of gravel, topped with five inches of broken granite, this to be thoroughly oiled and surfaced with granite screenings and sand. Smoothed under a heavy roller this is said to be as hard as asphalt and equally as durable, with none of the objections of granite blocks. Mayor Earley was eager for the new scheme but stipulated that the road must not use decomposed granite, but hard rock for its second layer and has had specimens of stone accepted by both sides as samples.

The first monthly report of Charles C. Glass, superintendent of the municipal lighting plant, shows a saving of $812.76 in the expense of lighting the city. The superintendent thereupon asked for fifty additional arc lights and 300 thirty-two candle incandescent lights. Superintendent Glass takes occasion in his first report to thank the Sunset and Home Telephone companies, the Pacific Electric Railway and the Edison Company for many courtesies extended while the municipal plant was in process of erection.

GARDEN TEA.

"Columbia Hill," the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Daggett, was the scene yesterday afternoon of one of the most delightful and largest social functions of the summer season. This was a garden tea given by Mrs. Daggett for her daughter, Mrs. Byron Harvey, of Chicago, who is spending a part of the summer here with her children.

Between the hours of 5 and 6 o'clock the driveways were thronged with equipages bringing guests who numbered seventy-five, and upon the hill crest of the long sweep of velvet lawn Mrs. Daggett and Mrs. Harvey received their friends.

Mrs. Daggett wore a frock of black flowered gauze, and Mrs. Harvey wore an Empire frock of clinging black over white, heavily trimmed with gold embroidery. Miss Maud Daggett, who assisted, was daintily gowned in a princesse frock of flowered organdie. Rugs were strewn here and there and under the trees a tea table was spread. On the wide view-commanding veranda, which was fitted up with easy chairs and divans, teas were served. Those assisting were Mmes. Robert A. Rowan, Edward R. Kellam, Fred Elmer Wilcox, Arthur A. Libby, Fred Swan, Henry T. Fuller, Misses Bolt, Rowland and Auten. Among those present were Mmes. Clinton P. Morehous, B. M. Wotkyns, Norman Bridge, Joseph H. Johnson, John E. Jardine, J. R. Braggdon, John F. Marble, William C. Burns, Frank Perkins, Walter Raymond, Edward Frye, E. D. Neff, H. H. Sherk, Henry Vilas, Walter L. Wotkyns, Burton, Hunker, James R. Wagner, W. E. Grattan, I. B. CRUEL FIRE HURTS CHILD.

Whittier Tot Whose Mother Is Missing Suffers from Contact With Hot Coals.

WHITTIER, Aug. 6.—With its little feet burned to a blister from running barefoot through a bed of coals, the little two-year-old baby girl of Mrs. William Helderle, who disappeared from her home here last Friday night, sits wailing for the mother who does not come. Inquiry at the restaurant formerly owned by William Helderle elicited the answer that no news had yet been received from the missing woman. The child who was so badly burned was playing around the ashes of a bonfire, and, baby-like, took a short cut through the hot coals rather than go around them. The soles of both feet are badly blistered, and it will be some little time before she can walk again.

Pickering avenue, one and one-half miles long, is at last to be improved. The City Trustees last night took the first of the necessary preliminary steps. The work will be done under the Vrooman act, several attempts to get the property owners all together on some one method of doing the work having failed. The street is to be graded, graveled and oiled and guttered its whole length, and cement sidewalks six feet wide put in between Broadway and Baldwin streets. The improvement of this thoroughfare will open up for closer settlement a desirable section of the northern part of the city, which has hitherto been retarded because of the bad condition of the streets in rainy weather.

Members of Plymouth Congregational Church last night held a called meeting, at which they voted unanimously to extend a call to Rev. Alexander McGregor of St. Paul, Minn. Dr. McGregor is said to be a fine orator, a man of brilliant mind and deep spirituality.

Oscar Lark, owner of the "Lark's Nest," the only poolroom in the city, thinks the license of $25 per month per pool table, imposed by this city, is altogether too high, and last night presented a petition to the City Trustees, asking to have it reduced. No action on the matter was taken, the Trustees taking the petition under advisement.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Stanley entertained a large party of house guests over Sunday, in honor of their cousin, Leroy Moon of Wichita, Kan., who is touring Southern California.

KINNEY STOPS BUILDING.

VENICE, Aug. 6.—Pending the settlement of the municipal difficulties, Abbot Kinney has made the statement before the Chamber of Commerce that he has stopped all work on the building of the new bath-house on the ocean front. The plans contemplate a hand-stand fronting the broad promenade and when the bath-house shall have been completed there will be swimming to music, with a free concert for all spectators.

The members of the Highway Commission have accepted an invitation to visit Venice as the guests of the Chamber of Commerce on Saturday, August 17. They will be dined at the Cabrillo and will have pointed out to them the needs of an automobile boulevard to connect the beach with the city.

NURSE AND MAN BOTH MISSING.

GRIEF IN PARENTS' HOME IN LONG BEACH.

Husband Disappears from His Family and Young Woman Leaves Her Parents Ostensibly for Place in Los Angeles, but Does Not Appear at Destination.

LONG BEACH, Aug. 6.—Fred W. King, a married man, with a wife and two children, is missing from his home in this city, and Miss Lila Belle Palmer, a trained nurse, to whom King had been paying attention, left yesterday, ostensibly to take up her profession in Los Angeles. She never arrived at her destination, and her father, L. B. Palmer, a real estate operator, and commander of the local G.A.R. post, believes she has joined King.

King, who is florid of face and good looking, was for a long time conductor on the Pacific Electric, and later chief engineer on the dredger at work on the West Naples canal. For several months he boarded at the Palmer home on East Ocean avenue, and by his attentions, won Miss Lila's heart. Her parents forced him to leave the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer are almost prostrated over the affair, and Mr. Palmer said today that King exercised an influence over his daughter that was beyond understanding, and that she believed all he told her, and refused to listen to her own parents.

"Saturday Lila suddenly said she was going to Los Angeles, and get employment as a nurse. We induced her to stay over Sunday, but yesterday she disappeared, and we fear she has joined King, for she told us flatly before he was ordered from the house that she loved him, was engaged, and would marry him at any cost."

SEASHORE NEWS BRIEFS.

Wandering about the streets all night with a knife wound in his breast, Jesus Mendenbles this morning staggered into the home of his friend, José Mandez, at Anaheim and Termino, and fell exhausted and insensible on the floor. Medical attention was secured and restoratives administered which enabled the victim to tell that he visited the winery on the outskirts of the city, where he found two fellow-countrymen. Mendenbles displayed a roll of money and drank deeply. He left the winery with his companions and, reaching a lonely spot, was attacked by them, brutally beaten and stabbed and robbed of $220. He recovered after awhile, but was dazed and wandered about until daylight. His wound is a serious one. No clew has been secured to his assailants.

The bottom of one of the kettles used at the asphalt plant of the Fairchild-Gilmore Company, gave way this morning, precipitating its contents into the fuel oil fire beneath. The asphalt caught fire and ran like molten lava over the yard, causing the workmen to flee in terror. Under the direction of Superintendent Conway, a hasty embankment of gravel was thrown up, confining the fire to limits, until the arrival of the department, which used chemical with good effect. Fireman George Juvet stepped into a pool of the hot asphalt and had one foot slightly burned.

The last trip of the steamer City of Long Beach to San Diego, tomorrow, will be enlivened by a wedding on the high seas. Capt. Keeney has made all arrangements, but refuses to divulge the names of the romantic couple. The wedding is set for high noon, but will be postponed if either of the contracting parties is suffering from mal de mer at the time set.

Nearly 200 children and women of Los Angeles, weary and half sick folks, whose struggle for life and bread, made a trip to the seashore impossible, enjoyed an outing here today as guests of the Salvation Army. In charge of Maj. and Mrs. Morton, Adjt. Geering and Ensigns Muhr and Lundgrin, the old folks came down on a special Salt Lake train. Dinner was served on the picnic deck of the Auditorium and special concessions were made by the bath-house.

The nineteenth annual convention of the Christian churches of Southern California and Arizona will open tomorrow afternoon with a reception by the Long Beach church members. A song service at night will be followed by a stereopticon lecture by Mrs. A. C. Smither on "The Gospel Under Star and Crescent."

Three pretty young women, attired in fairy bathing suits of some pure white flimsy stuff, set off by bands of red and yellow at the end of the elbow sleeves, tripped daintily down the strand today and were about to enter the surf when stopped by Guard Wagner, who told them that bathing suits which would be transparent after a dip in the sea were not permissible and ordered them to go home and change suits. There was a pout and a frown and some saucy words, but the guard was obdurate and the three butterflies were compelled to leave the beach.

Miss Henrietta Shraker, the surviving sister of the two who jumped from a moving Pacific Electric car last night, is much improved today and will recover. The body of Mrs. A. L. Ferguson, who was killed, is at a local undertaker's and an inquest will be held tomorrow. Her husband arrived from Catalina tonight and is prostrated with grief over the death of his helpmeet.

Milburn Blaine, the young son of Mrs. Harrison Blaine of Los Angeles, was rescued from the surf today by the life guards. The little tot had started to pick up a surf board at the water's edge when an incoming wave picked it up and receding carried it out. Milburn ran after it and was tumbled into the surf and completely buried under the water. Guards Wagner and Mobley saw the accident and were quickly at the spot, catching the little fellow as he was going out. He had swallowed some water, but soon recovered to the delight of his anguished mother, who had witnessed her baby's danger, but was too far away to render assistance.

The first carload of machinery for the new electrical suction dredger of the Dock and Terminal Company arrived today and will be installed at once in the hull which lies at the foot of Third street.

Santa Monica Bodies Are to Discuss Sewer Project and Gum Tree Scheme.

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 6.—The City Council and Board of Trade are to meet at the city hall tomorrow night for the purpose of discussing the proposed bond issue of $150,000. This sum is alleged to be required in providing the city with an asceptic sewer tank and a tract upon which to utilize the outfall in the irrigation of eucalyptus trees. The proposed bond election, should one be called, promises to prove a spirited affair, as only about a year ago bonds were voted for a like purpose but no tank has been provided. The proposed tract of forty-two acres will cost $33,600, and will support 30,000 trees. It is estimated that at the end of seven years the trees would bring the city $210,000.

DECKER PASSES MALIBU.

Marion Decker, who has homesteaded a piece of land in the mountains along the coast, made the trek up the beach to his property this morning. The only way of reaching this claim is by crossing a part of the Malibu ranch of the Rindge estate. This can be done only by passing through the guarded gate at the ranch's south line. But Decker today found no trouble in making the passage, although he found an armed guard at the entrance. No resistance was made, although Decker was permitted to pass under protest. Trouble had been expected, and Decker approached the gates with the feeling that his passing would be sternly resisted. It is believed that this means the beginning of the end of the closed door policy on the Malibu. The Land Department of the government has, seemingly, given out the word that homesteaders in the mountains back of this ranch are to be afforded access to their claims, and with the building of the Huenieme, Malibu and Port Los Angeles Railroad along the beach the secrets of the Malibu to and beyond Point Dume are soon to become as an open book. The wharf upon which railroad ties and rails are landed is on the Malibu property, and the graders are now busy on the last stretch of the road's fifteen miles.

Coronado climate is the best.

HUNTINGTON PARK.

HUNTINGTON PARK, Aug. 6.—Rev. W. W. Catherwood, the young Baptist pastor, who but lately begun his work here, has been compelled, by sickness, to take a vacation. He will leave Wednesday for San Francisco, en route for Honolulu, and will be away about three months.

J. M. Pearson was unanimously elected secretary of the Commercial Club last night, in place of C. L. Bonham, resigned. There was a good attendance of members. Interest in the work of the organization is growing. The School Committee reported an interview with County Superintendent Mark Keppel relative to complaints about the school principal, and was instructed to again see Superintendent Keppel to ascertain the form of petition to be circulated and presented to the school trustees. President Steele named D. Hubbard, J. H. C. Wilson, Force W. Glass and J. M. McCord a committee on public utilities. Rev. J. G. Hill made an appropriate speech on his election as a member of the club.

Cool—comfortable—Coronado.

FOR MOUNTAIN ROAD.

GLENDORA, Aug. 6.—At an enthusiastic Board of Trade meeting last night there was a strong expression in favor of bonds to the amount of $10,000 to build a mountain road from Glendora across the foothill ridge to the San Gabriel Cañon. This road, the route of which has been carefully inspected by experts, will be of easy grade, and suitable for automobile travel, leading to some of the delightful mountain resorts in the cañon, and is designed to be one of the scenic roads of Southern California.

Most for the money at Coronado. Venice villas are convenient.

Foreign Notes.

Of the 51,000 breweries estimated to be in the world, 26,000 are in Germany.

It takes 6,500,000 acres to grow the world's tobacco.

The Queensland Meat Company, an Australian concern, is reported to have secured the contract for supplying the United States army in the Philippines with meat for the fiscal year of 1908. The contract calls for about 7,000,000 pounds.

Vienna has only 29 inhabitants per acre, the city ground comprising 42,503 acres and the population being 1,675,000.

The highest fall of water ever used for power seems to be that of Lake Lousio, in Switzerland, where is located the most powerful electricity generating station in Europe. The water of the Poschiavino, in the Poschiavo Valley, is led through a great conduit, three miles long, to the reservoir, from which five sets of enormous pipes conduct it to the power station at a level 1280 feet lower. Electric energy of 25,000-horse power is distributed.

In Iceland horses are shod with horn, while in the Soudan they wear socks of camel cloth.

Engineers say Victoria Falls could supply enough power for all the needs of Rhodesia and the Transvaal.

There are 650,000 paid and about 483,000 unpaid officials in France. About one person in twenty-six of the adult population holds a public office.

How Men Propose.

A German statistician recently went to the trouble of reading 150 love novels in order to find out how the question is generally popped and has written the results of his investigations to a local paper.

According to the novels he has read, about 100 proposing lovers were accepted and fifty rejected. Of these seventy-two held her hand when they were proposing, sixty-seven kissed her on the lips, and only two kissed her hand.

Fifteen of the lovers were so excited that they could not say a word; as many more were a prey to remorse and seven could not say a word except to thank her.

As to the ladies, eighty-seven already knew that a declaration of love was coming and eighty-two of them fell in the arms of their lovers. Only sixteen of the 150 decided to be sisters.

A Harder Job.

A new military prison chaplain was recently appointed in a certain town in Scotland. He was a man who greatly magnified his office. And entering one of the cells on the first round of inspection, he, with much pomposity, thus addressed the prisoner who occupied it:

"Well, sir, do you know who I am?"

"No, nor I dinna care," was the nonchalant reply.

"Weel, I'm your new chaplain."

"Oh, ye are. Well, I hae heard o' ye before."

"And what did you hear?" returned the chaplain, his curiosity getting the better of his dignity.

"Well, I heard that the last twa kirks ye were in ye preached them baith empty, but I'll be hanged if ye find it such an easy matter to do the same wi' this one."

HUMAN RACE IS EPHEMERAL.

CHICAGO PHYSICIAN DOES A LITTLE PREDICTING.

Says Man Will Not Exist Longer Than Ten Thousand Years from Now Because of Growing Too Intellectual to Propagate His Species. Americans to Go First.

Ten thousand years hence the human race will be extinct, according to Dr. James Galloway of Chicago, in an interview in the Seattle Times. The doctor argues that by hard work and continual worry the Americans will be the first to go under and the races which do the least thinking and the most manual labor will be the last, but he is confident that it will be impossible for a single human being to keep on this planet after we have run around old Sol for the ten thousandth time. He says we will be no more simply because by gradual physical deterioration, there will come a time when reproduction will be impossible.

But there is never a dark cloud without some silver lining and the doctor has relieved this gloomy pall with a prediction that if the human race is doomed to destruction, it will have a resurrection and that in ages to come the length and number of which he does not dare to even guess, the work of evolution will produce a grander and more sublime race of beings than ever can be evolved out of what he calls "the present disjointed system." He also holds out brilliant prospects for the animal kingdom, saying that it is a mistake to think the quadruped is doomed to extinction, for upon the destruction and extinction of man he will reassume his sway, and become, for a time at least, the lord of the earth.

NOT CALAMITY HOWLER.

"I am neither a crank nor a calamity howler," said Dr. Galloway, at the Butler last night. "I am simply reasoning from cause to effect and by the simplest rules of logic have reasoned out my prediction. I put the life of man at 10,000 years, but in doing so I assume continued improvement in physical environment and final abstinence from intoxicants by practically the whole human race, otherwise our mother earth will be given over to the animals long before that period has arrived.

"The human race will simply cease to exist, because it will cease to have the strength to perpetuate itself. It will reach a stage of physical decline where reproduction will be impossible. All the energy that man has will be utilized in mental achievements. The race will become more refined, it will accomplish prodigies in the field of intellectual and scientific research, but it will cease to be much of a factor in the physical world. We will become intellectual giants while we degenerate into physical pigmies.

"As the centuries roll along man will find that he is no longer capable of digesting and assimilating animal food, consequently the animals that are not already extinct will take on renewed courage and unmoleated by the hands of man will propagate their species and obey the command of the Maker to 'be fruitful and multiply.' Man in his decline will leave the growing and increasing animals of all kinds in undisputed possession of the right to life and the enjoyment of all the privileges that it entails.

"This, I know is a gloomy picture; a world given over to the sway of the lower animals, but if the laws of evolution be correct, after untold millions of years, man may again come to earth and build again on his former ruins. I am sure I cannot tell what will become of all the sky scrapers, but I presume that the army of beasts that are to take our place in the world will regard them as a legacy to be used according to their needs. I am not going to live 10,000 years so I am not much afflicted by the prospect in store for our sons to come."

MRS. GAYLORD THE FINANCIER.

A WOMAN WHO MAKES A SUCCESS IN WALL STREET.

Succeeded Her Husband as Head of an Investment Firm, and Has Introduced a New Feature by Instituting Regular Prayer Services by a Clergyman at Her Offices.

Mrs. J. Alden Gaylord is the head of a Wall-street firm, dealing in investment securities. The firm of J. Alden Gaylord Company is an old one, having been established forty years ago. Mr. Gaylord, the former head of the firm, met his death two years ago as the result of an accident. Mrs. Gaylord took entire charge of the business on the death of her husband.

When Mrs. Gaylord went into Wall street she carried a beautiful jewel of simple Christian faith, with a charming womanly nature for a setting. The combination was a strong one, and, despite the hard wear the jewel has seen, its brilliance is undimmed and the setting has received no tarnish.

She is sometimes called the "Daniel of Wall street." She has shown that she is not the least bit fearful about meeting the bulls and bears on their own ground. She also enjoys the distinction of being the only member of New York's inner set to make a career in successful competition with the men in Wall street.

Mrs. Gaylord created a sensation by the institution of regular prayer services at her offices in the Mills building, on Wall street. These are not for the benefit of her own office force alone, but also for any of her fellow-brokers who may wish to drop in for five minutes before the opening of the stock exchange.

Mrs. Gaylord sees much more in Wall street than the business of money-getting. She says: "The greatest financial institutions in the world are situated here, and more business is transacted than most ordinary mortals can understand. To which the crowds walk this street is a panorama not worth looking at, for the real workers who carry the burden of finances have no time to spend on the street during business hours. Then the millions of underground, overhead and in the head wires that are connected with the whole earth. Yes, this financial structure is wonderful, but I often think of Him who said: 'What shall it profit a man though he gain the whole world, and lose his own soul!'"

It is this feeling that has made her realize the need of missionary work at home, and the needs of Wall street in this respect have been forgotten for many years. So Mrs. Gaylord extended the hand of fellowship and cooperation to the Rev. Henry Marsh Warren, a non-sectarian minister, and placed her offices at his disposal on Wednesday afternoons. And after the wear and tear of a Wall-street day many drop in to change the current of their thoughts and seek encouragement and counsel.

This charming woman has a healthy admiration and appreciation for the work and workers in Wall street. There may be evil, but there is much that is good, and its influence is far-reaching. The dark and stormy side she realizes and deprecates as follows: "Many promises are broken here (I speak from experience,) and these broken promises make the heart sick, and life almost despair. The changes of one day in the market, and in the people, are the cause of much misery and lost confidence. In this financial upheaval, many are pushed against their own will to hurt the very ones they love, and misery with a sad funeral is often the end.

"The papers have much to say about Wall street, but we should not judge anybody, for unless we know the varying circumstances how can we know the why and wherefore? We all make mistakes, and very few make them willingly, but we all suffer for them. Therefore, I say, love your enemies, and judge no one."

DRAFT STICKS TO THE "BLADE."

IN ATTEMPT TO WIPE IT OFF IN SANTA ANA.

Employment of Attorneys by City to Review the Case Against Newspaper for Overcharging the Town for Municipal Printing Results in Confirmation of the Accusations.

SANTA ANA, Aug. 6.—The Blade Printing Company is proven guilty of graft by the disinterested opinion of three attorneys of Santa Ana, one of whom is associated with James G. Scarborough of Los Angeles. The Blade has attempted to wiggle out of the disgraceful charge, but it is tied down to it. That the city cannot recover $1100 due it for overcharges for printing is the fault of law, not fault of the merits in the case. Under the State law, said Attorney F. Chandel and Attorneys Scarborough and Forgy, the auditing of the bills by the City Council, in ignorance of which it was, prohibits the bringing of an action to recover. The sale of the graft upon the city by the city publishers of the Blade is an interesting one. Several months ago it was discovered by A. C. Tiede, City Councilman, that the Blade put in a bill for printing an election notice, and had swelled that bill from sixteen and a half squares to twenty-seven squares. This led to an investigation by the Councilman, and as a result he made charges before the City Council that the Blade Publishing Company, by one of clerical errors, had added to its advertising account with it some 25 per cent., which made the aggregate amount of graft go into hundreds of dollars.

Investigation Committee, consisting of S. Armor of Orange, C. S. Wood and J. W. Bishop of Santa Ana, was appointed. Immediately the Blade hired attorneys to pull it out of the hole, and each member of the committee was approached and threatened with a tremendous effort was made to quash the story of the steal to the taxpayers. But the effort failed and the committee reported that in the two years alone the Blade had gained $1100 from the city coffers.

To this came the explanation of the Blade attorneys E. E. Keech, R. Y. Hayes and Victor Montgomery declaring that a printer's square equals under circumstances three-quarters of an inch, whether that space is filled with set type or pig's tracks. This was the only defense the Blade has offered to date. The attempt to crawl out of the tight place received the ridicule of City Attorney W. F. Chandel, who echoed the Blade's attorneys. The City Council thought the matter ought to go to outside counsel, and it selected two lawyers to settle the situation. Last night the report of these two attorneys, F. O. Bowen and H. J. Forgy, was presented to the Council.

In this opinion, the Blade, its attorneys and City Attorney Heathman are all in error. That a square does not equal three-quarters of an inch in all cases, as in agate, is true, but that it can equal, and does equal, not in doubt, not open to question, is the opinion of the chief operator of the Blade office. Says he:

"In my opinion that the ordinary resolutions, notices, etc., published in nonpareil, or solid, measured according to the printers' rule; 240 ems to the square inch, if they were printed in larger type, to wit, if they were printed in brevier leaded, would charge should have been made for such space as would be occupied if such type (nonpareil) had been used, and we think that is the right, under said law, to require the publishing company to print the printing to so print it, if printed in larger type, to be only such space as would be occupied if such type had been used, using as the unit of measurement a space that would be occupied by a square consisting of 240 ems not solid; and we think the publishing company was not entitled to set matter in larger type and charge the space occupied by such type."

The Blade had used brevier leaded pica, and leaded. The position of the Blade was shown to be that of an outlaw, "up against it." The report of the attorneys further showed without a specific waiving of preliminaments under the State law the city could not recover the $1100 it is out money for the last two years. Among the case, the matter was taken by the Council, although the Blade is proven guilty.

"In the matter of honesty, its attitude that there is a certain space in a newspaper bought and sold like the commodity, its howl of vindication when touched in the head by the opinion of disinterested attorneys.

The rest of the board said that the inhabitants and would be of little or no moral way, as the women simply scatter about the town and make matters worse than now. It was moved that the women be told to leave the town and everybody, excepting Trustee Lew's wife.

A high area envelopes the States east of the Mississippi River, while a second "high" is moving northward along the California coast. But little precipitation has occurred in the United States in the last twenty-four hours, that reported this morning being confined to scattering showers in the East and South. Under the influence of the high area off the California coast, the weather in Los Angeles and vicinity will continue fair with moderate temperature during the next thirty-six hours, but owing to the depressions in the interior, more or less cloudiness may be expected.

Forecasts.—Local forecast for Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair tonight and Wednesday, with some cloudiness; light westerly winds.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—Weather forecast:

San Francisco and vicinity: Cloudy Wednesday; possibly sprinkles in the morning; southwest wind.

Sacramento Valley: Cloudy Wednesday; light south wind; possibly showers in the mountains.

San Joaquin Valley: Fair Wednesday; possibly showers in the mountains; light west wind.

Los Angeles and vicinity: Fair Wednesday; light west wind.

Arizona: Generally fair and continued warm Wednesday and Thursday.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

No new feature developed yesterday and the volume of business was normal. Demand for staples was steady and shipments to outside points active.

Butter quotations were unchanged. Receipts were 17,776 pounds, which is about the average.

Cheese continues to arrive in heavy shipments, but prices are unaltered.

Offerings of fruit found ready sale at good figures until, late in the day, heavy receipts depressed the market. Apples were particularly plentiful. There was little demand for citrus fruits.

Receipts of potatoes are running rather light and with trade active, the market rules firm. Choice offerings of local Burbanks are all sold daily. High bids were made on change yesterday for Burbanks, but no stocks were offered. Onions were in active demand and supply. Fancy Australian Brown onions sold on 'change at 2.65 a hundred.

The market for vegetables was weak as most kinds were far in excess of the demand.

Fryers and roasters declined 1 cent in the poultry market.

Fish arrived in enormous quantities.

NEW YORK MARKET.

SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The dealings in stocks by noon today had passed the figure of the aggregate sales for the whole of yesterday. A weak and unsettled market and an active selling movement furnished the explanation of the increase in animation of dealings. There were various features in the day's news which were given responsibility for the disquieting speculative sentiment. Most public interest was shown in the immediate vicinity of the Stock Exchange in the identity of large sellers of stocks, as promising to give a clue to the motives as to the standing and influence of the sellers. No definite success was achieved in the endeavor to solve the mystery which the active parties in the operations that attracted curiosity would, of course, use every device to maintain. That there was no important buying was a self-evident fact, but no more so than has been manifest for some time. The aggressive or urgent selling which developed late in yesterday's market and continued over today was a new feature of the market and gave occasion to anxiety upon the part of bidders of stocks on margins. Newly-returned tourists from abroad, where important financial missions were supposed to be the objects, were subjected to curiosity and conjecture regarding the selling. A number of last week's late arrivals of this element are men in the front ranks of capitalists and are supposed to be also active in stock-market operations. Conferences were reported to have occurred with bankers and other interests, at which the foreign situation was canvassed and which had been followed by the selling orders in the stock market. The Standard Oil fine is regarded as a forerunner of other suits against various corporations, which will be prompted by the example of that case. Possible prosecution against the railroad officials concerned in that case was discussed. The series of measures directed against railroads in a group of Southern States, fed the apprehension felt by market operators upon the subject. A further decline in the price of copper in London, and at the New York Metal Exchange was a factor in the selling. There was the engagement of $500,000 in gold for shipment to Buenos Ayres. The Continent of Europe was an active bidder for gold in the London market also, and took $2,500,000 of the sum available, against the $500,000 secured at the Bank of England. Private discounts rose in London. The weekly bulletin of the Weather Bureau was not regarded as entirely satisfactory as to the crop conditions in part of the wheat belt and for the cotton belt. Rates for time money continued to advance and little was offered except for foreign and out-of-town bankers. The closing of profit before the day was over and worked a substantial rally, but it was all lost again, and the market closed weak. Total sales, 900,000 shares.

Total sales, par value, $1,190,000. United States 2s declined ¼ per cent, on call.

SURVEY THIS YEAR FOR IMPERIAL LANDS.

AFTER five long years of waiting, two years later. In the latter part the residents and settlers in the Imperial Valley have reason to hope that by the end of the present year they will all be in a position to know how they stand with regard to the legal ownership of 599,040 acres in the Salton Sea country. Until the final surveys are made, everyone is practically at sea, whether he lives west of Salton or not, and the title to much of the land in that section is necessarily tied up.

The original survey of that valley was made in 1859, and as much of it was desert land there was little or no demand for it. As the years rolled by the original landmarks and monuments were, in many cases, obliterated. It is said that when the California Development Company and other concerns went into the Imperial Valley six or seven years ago, they made surveys of large bodies of the land and since then the accuracy of these surveys has been called in question in some particulars. In an effort to straighten out matters, Congress passed a special act July 1, 1902, and appropriated money for the re-survey of twenty-six townships, designated as 13, 14, 15 and 16 South, Ranges 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16 East, and township 17 South, Ranges 15 and 16 East, S. B. M. This body of land takes in the Imperial and Brawley country and extends south to the line of Old Mexico at Calexico.

A contract was let on May 26, 1903, for the re-survey of the exterior boundries of these townships and the work was completed and accepted just First street was slightly bruised and J. J. Murphy of No. 156 West Fifteenth street was slightly cut on the head. The wagon was wrecked and a considerable amount of food was spoiled.

The car was bound west on East Third street. Murphy was driving a horse attached to a lunch wagon and Dolan was riding in a second lunch wagon attached to the rear of the first wagon. As the car approached, Murphy allowed his horse to turn onto the tracks, but as he was going in the same direction as the car he did not realize the danger until too late.

Although the motorman applied an emergency brake, the car fender hit the rear of the last wagon and tipped it over. This pulled the first wagon over. Batter was smeared over Dolan and he seemed more anxious to remove this from his eyes than to have his bruises attended to.

Seeing Electric Is Carrying Her Past Her Destination, She Rushes to Steps and Loses Footing—Four Others Victims of Trolley Accidents.

On the eve of her return to her home in Osceola, Mo., Miss Bessie Emerson was fatally injured by a fall from an electric car at Main and Washington streets, last night. She died about 11 o'clock at the Receiving Hospital.

In company with a girlhood chum, Mrs. H. L. Turner of Albuquerque, N. M., Miss Emerson had been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Sapp, No. 2826 Brooklyn avenue. When they left there, at the suggestion of Miss Emerson, they started for Chutes Park. They boarded Main and Jefferson-street car No. 383. As it neared the park, Miss Emerson saw the illuminated sign and cried: "Oh, we are passing the park." Then she rushed to the steps of the car.

The motorman applied the air and Miss Emerson lost her footing on the steps and plunged forward upon the pavement, sustaining concussion of the brain.

An officer called the police ambulance, but it was out upon another call, and it was nearly half an hour before an automobile was secured to take her to the hospital.

The body was sent to Robert Sharp's undertaking rooms. An inquest will be held today, after which the remains will be shipped to Missouri, accompanied by Mrs. Sapp and Mrs. Turner.

RARE INDIAN FIGHTER.

Bill Chance, Whose Life Has Been Crowded With Many Exciting Adventures.

[Portland Oregonian.] One of the most picturesque characters in the Northwest is Bill Chance, who is spending the evening of his days in Seaside, content to let the strenuous life he has lived be only a pleasant memory.

Bill Chance is a man of striking appearance, six feet two inches tall, and although seventy-seven years old is straight as an arrow. He is probably more familiar with the Indians and the Indian wars of the coast than any man living, having been an active participant in almost every war with them since he crossed the plains in 1852. He speaks several Indian dialects, and is as familiar with the Chinook jargon as he is with English.

During the Rogue River Indian War he served as a volunteer and participated in the battle of Hungry Hill, one of the most sanguinary fights of all that cruel campaign. His description of the atrocities he witnessed is so vivid and that listening to them almost makes the auditor feel he was present. "I have seen," said he, "children wearing swadding clothes whom the murderous brutes had taken by legs and beaten their brains out against a rock. And yet many people in the East, actuated by a feeling of sentiment and ignorance, have lifted up their hands in horror at the thought of white men thirsting for the blood of those fiends. As a matter of fact, the men who know the cruelty and bloodthirstiness of the red man have no more hesitancy in killing an Indian than they would a rattler. Of the two, the rattlers are the less dangerous and more honorable; they always warn before they strike; an Indian, never.

"Another thing you must observe: An Indian is always an Indian. No difference how much of the veneering of civilization he may have acquired; no difference if taken when a pappoose, raised to manhood by a white family, without ever seeing one of his kind, he has the Indian traits, ready to burst forth in deeds of cruelty and hate without a moment's warning. I may make an exception to this in favor of a squaw, but never with the bucks.

"I belonged," said Bill, "to the Ben Wright expedition and was one of the thirty white men engaged in the so-called Ben Wright massacre. Wright was severely censured for this by the United States officials and stigmatized as a murderer. A howl was raised throughout the eastern press, many insisting that he be court-martialed and shot.

"The whole secret of the killing of those thirty Indians lay in the Indians's treachery. We had these Modoquas (since known as Modocs) penned on a peninsula that ran into a lake, near Lost River, about two miles this side of the California line. Escape was impossible, so they sent a messenger, under a flag of truce, asking for a peace conference, to be held at 12 o'clock the following day, which Wright immediately granted. The significance of the hour did not occur to him. At the noon hour the men would be engaged in eating dinner or attending to their horses, thus being entirely off their guard.

"During the night a squaw came into camp and informed Wright that the Indians would all attend the council; that they would wear their blankets, under which their firearms would be concealed, and at a given signal from the chief all the whites were to be murdered in cold blood. This, you observe, after promising to come unarmed.

"The next day everything in camp went on as usual. The most wary Indian eye could detect nothing in the white man's camp to indicate any knowledge of the premeditated treachery.

"At the appointed hour, while the whites were apparently engaged about their camp duties, the Indians marched solemnly into camp, and fell into such positions as enabled them to observe every man in camp, with the chief facing Capt. Wright.

"When the crucial moment arrived Wright raised his hand to his hat, when instantly thirty rifles, in the hands of as deadly marksmen as ever pulled a trigger, poured a storm of lead into that surprised body of Indians, who had come to kill, and instead were killed. Not one of them escaped, and so sudden and unexpected was the attack and so fatal in its results, that not one of them had time to remove his blanket or raise his gun, and they all had their guns concealed under their blankets.

"This," continued Mr. Chance, "is the true story of the so-called 'Ben Wright massacre.' It was simply a question of killing or being killed, and Wright took the only sensible course, and killed. Who, I ask, under the circumstances would have done otherwise? And echo questions, 'Who?'

"The most daring act of bravery I ever saw," continued Mr. Chance, occurred at the battle of Hungry Hill. A man by the name of Miller had his leg broken by a bullet, and when the troops retreated under the galling fire of the Indians, Miller was left lying on the field. David Inman, now of Miller, picked him up, and, under a raging storm of bullets, carried him to a place of safety. Many deeds may appear, neither of them will be touched by a bullet."

Bill Chance is serenely passing the last part of the road to the "great unknown." He has come to make the history of the west, although nearing the last milestone, as bright as ever, and his wit is rapier-like in its keenness, his soul is as full of music as the birds at mating time. He will leave this world better for having lived in it.
